Speculation for Advance Resumed After Early Period of Weakness on Exchange.

MONEY TO 9 PER CENT AFTER RENEWAL AT 10

Initial Selling Credited to Large Increase in Brokers' Loans and Comment by Paul Warburg.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Speculation for the advance was resumed on a broad scale in today's stock market after an early period of weakness. Early losses of 1 to 8½ points were quickly wiped out, and the general market turned upward under the leadership of Radio (old stock), which rallied from a low of 398½, off 8½ points, to a new high record at 445 in final hour.

Radio (new) also changed hands in enormous volume, rising to 89 at close.

In the final hour Western Union lost nearly all of its 6-point advance. Reduction in the call money rate to 9 per cent influenced more general buying, with food issues, particularly Postum and National Biscuit moving up fast.

The average of 50 industrials closed 1.7 points higher; 20 railroads, .3 of a point lower, and 20 utilities, .5 of a point higher. Total sales amounted to 3,945,400 shares.

Announcement by Major-General James G. Harboard, president of Radio Corporation, that a merger of Radio's communications business with Western Union was "dead" failed to check buying, although Western Union stock lost practically all of its early 6-point advance, after touching 216½, a record figure. Radio's management stated earnings were running well ahead of 1928.

The initial outbreak of selling undoubtedly was inspired by the unexpectedly large increase of $140,000,000 in brokers' loans and the statement of Paul Warburg, international banker, that control of the money market had passed from the Federal Reserve Board to stock exchange operators.

Money Plentiful.

Call money renewed at 10 per cent with the supply so plentiful that the rate was reduced to 9 per cent. Time money, commercial paper and bankers' acceptance rates held firm around the year's high levels.

New bond offerings this week turned sharply upward to $146,264,000 from last week's small total of $20,787,000. It also exceeded the total of $135,668,000 in the corresponding 1928 week.

Except for the publication of a series of favorable earnings statements, the easier undertone for call money and comment that progress was being made on the crude oil curtailment program, there was little in the day's business news to influence the price movements. Most of the conservative commission houses [illegible] treme caution in the making of new commitments, but this failed to deter pool activity. The rapid advance in some of the high-priced specialties suggested the running in of an overcrowded short interest.

New High on Victor.

Rossia Insurance soared 10 points, Victor Talking Machine 10, a new high at 171, and Radio-Keith-Orpheum, Miami Copper, Advance Rumely common and preferred, Stromberg Carburetor, Peoples Gas and Mexican Seaboard Oil all sold 3 to nearly 5 points higher closing 1¼ to 5 points net higher.

As in most recent sessions, activity in today's market showed a tendency to increase on the rallies and decrease on the declines. Pool operators construed this as an indication that speculative accounts were well margined and that there was still a large backlog of buying power just below current levels.

Radio (old stock) broke 8½ points on the first sale; Goodyear Rubber 3, and New York Central and American Water Works 2 each. Initial declines of a point or more were recorded by at least a dozen issues, including American Can, Kolster Radio, Westinghouse Electric and American Machine & Foundry.

Closing stock prices with other tables and market news will be found on pages 55, 56 and 57.

123 DRY AGENTS SEARCH 400 FROM LINER FOR LIQUOR

Every Third Passenger Debarking From Cuba Carries Contraband — $800 in Fines Imposed.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 8.—An extraordinary force of 123 customs men searched 400 passengers of the liner Shawnee, arriving today from Havana via Miami, seized large quantities of liquor, and imposed fines aggregating $800.

A fine of $5 for every large bottle found was imposed and $3 for each small one. In addition, 200 bottles were found in cabins, but on these no fines were levied as it was considered useless to try to find claimants.

The passengers were greatly surprised as they began to debark. Ordinarily they would have been permitted to walk ashore with their baggage without a search as their bags had been inspected at Miami.

Customs officers said every third passenger had a supply of liquor and there were as many women as men among the offenders.

HOOVER HANDSHAKE HOLDS THE VISITORS AT A DISTANCE

President Has Manner All His Own; Quick, Full Grasp With Arm Well Extended.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—President Hoover has a method all his own of shaking hands with White House visitors. He extends his hand well forward so that those he greets are held at a distance, and he has quick, full grasp unlike the sort of half-catch he used during his campaign.

"I am pleased to meet you," is one phrase he uses as his callers are presented at the public receptions. "I am glad to see you," is another, and a third is "It is nice of you to come to see me."

NOTICE TO JUDGES AND CLERKS OF ELECTION

THE newspapers of this city have arranged as usual to compile the returns of the election in the rotunda of the City Hall so the public will be furnished with the result without waiting for the official count.

The police officers stationed at all the polling places have been supplied with blanks on which the returns should be copied as soon as they are completed. These blanks should be signed by the judges and turned over to the police officers for prompt delivery.

Total of 185,000 to 200,000 Ballots Expected on Basis of Estimate for First 11 Hours.

POLLS TO BE OPEN UNTIL 7 O'CLOCK

Five Candidates for Mayor, One for Comptroller and 57 for Aldermen on Ballots.

A total vote of 185,000 to possibly 200,000 in the municipal primary election was forecast at the Election Board office late this afternoon, based on a canvass of one representative precinct in each of the 28 wards.

It was estimated that 131,000 votes had been cast in the first 11 hours of the voting day, but there usually is a rush in the last two hours.

Voters of St. Louis cast their ballots for the nomination of party candidates for Mayor Comptroller and 14 Aldermen representing the odd-numbered wards. The 670 precinct polling places opened at 6 a. m. and will close at 7 p. m.

It was reported to the Election Board from all sections of the city that an exceptionally light Democratic vote was being polled, but that many Democrats were taking Republican ballots. Political observers interpreted this as helpful to former Mayor Kiel, Mayor Miller's opponent for the Republican mayoralty nomination. Many politicians had stated in the last few weeks that if Democrats entered the Republican primary most of them would do so to vote for Kiel.

Light Democratic Vote.

In the Twenty-second Precinct of the Thirteenth Ward, 5414 Ulena street, four Democratic ballots and 182 Republican had been cast at 3 o'clock. In the Twenty-third Precinct of the Fifteenth Ward, 4106 Tower Grove avenue, three Democratic and 176 Republican tickets had been voted at 11 o'clock.

The Democratic mayoralty candidates are Dr. John H. Simon, the nominee in 1913; former Federal Judge Henry S. Priest and former Circuit Attorney Lawrence McDaniel. Dr. Simon had expected to attract many German-American Republicans who otherwise might have voted for Kiel.

The weather was entirely satisfactory from the standpoint of workers in all the political camps. All were desirous of a nice day so as to bring out a big vote. When the polls opened the thermometer was slightly below the frezing mark, but it rose to the 50s by afternoon and the air was pleasant, with intermittent sunshine.

The registration of persons eligible to vote in this primary is 348,951. Chairman Remmers of the Election Board estimated today that 200,000 ballots would be cast. This would be 57 per cent of the registration. In the last mayoralty primary, in 1925, there were 175,000 votes, or 58 per cent of the registration, then 299,000. Interest in the contests now, especially on the Republican side, is even greater than it was in 1925 in many respects, and there has been a more spirited Democratic campaign now than there was then.

Chairman Remmers estimated that about 150,000 Republican votes and 50,000 Democratic votes would be cast. This would be in proportion to the party balloting in the 1925 primary and is not greatly out of line with the prediction of the various candidates for the Mayoralty and their managers. From all reports reaching him, Remmers said, there was a keen contest in both parties.

Twelve Aldermanic Contests.

Comptroller Nolte, a Republican; Alderman W. F. and A. H. Niederluecke, cousins and Republicans, and the 14 Democratic candidates for the Board of Aldermen are unopposed. Twelve Republican Aldermen seeking renomination have contests. There is no Democratic candidate for Comptroller. A third ballot was available, with names of unopposed candidates for Mayor and Comptroller on the Socialist-Labor ticket, but a negligible number of voters was expected to call for it.

Statements issued in behalf of the Republican and Democratic candidates for Mayor all claim victory for their respective candidates.

Miller and Kiel have large groups of workers at the polls, Miller seemingly having appreciably the larger number because of the orders for most of the 7000 city employes to help get out the vote for him. Politicians say that the City Hall workers and their relatives

HOOVER TO MAKE FEW CHANGES IN U. S. EMPLOYES

Will Retain All Possible of "Public Servants Who Have Given Honest Service," He Says.

MEETS FIRST TIME WITH HIS CABINET

All Members Present Except Stimson — Mexican Revolt One of Subjects Discussed.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—President Hoover said today that he planned no extensive changes in the personnel of the Government.

In answer to questions from press correspondents, the chief executive declared that he proposed "to adhere to the principle of retaining as many as possible of those public servants who have given honest and zealous service."

"It is traditional," he continued, "for the principal directing heads of the Government whose appointments are at the pleasure of the President both at home and in foreign services to tender their resignations with the advent of a new administration.

"Out of several hundred such officials, there are probably not more that 20 or 30 changes likely to be made at the present time. Some of these are the results of the determination of the incumbents that they have given sufficient of their time to public service and wish to take this occasion to retire to private life.

Some Changes by Promotion.

"Some changes will be the result of promotion and shifts from one position in the Government to another.

"There are some 820,000 people on the Federal payroll. It will be seen, therefore, that the number of changes contemplated does not offer an opportunity for the large recruiting of new personnel."

The President also stated that the enforcement commission to be appointed by him would consider enforcement of the law in respect to narcotics, immigration, trade restraint, the eighteenth amendment and every other branch of Federal Government law enforcement.

The President's statement made in reply to questions from the correspondents was as follows:

"The purpose and scope of the law enforcement commission, as stated in my inaugural address, is to critically consider the entire Federal machinery of justice, the distribution of its functions, the simplification of its procedure, the provision of additional special tribunals, the better selection of juries, the more effective organization of our agencies of investigation and prosecution.

To Cover Whole Question.

"It is intended to cover the entire question of law enforcement and organization of justice. It will also naturally include consideration of the method of enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and abuses which have grown up together with the enforcement of the laws in respect to narcotics, to immigration, to trade restraint and every branch of Federal Government law enforcement.

"The whole constitutes one problem of better and more effective organization and enforcement. Such reorganization in various directions, some of them affecting the civil side as well as the criminal side, have been recommended and advocated for years by men of responsibility, from the Chief Justice of the United States down to the local bar associations.

"The first step in law enforcement is adequate organization of our judicial and enforcement system."

President Hoover met with his Cabinet today for the first time, outlining in a broad way the general policies of his administration and discussing with his advisers a variety of subjects, including the Mexican revolution.

All members were present except Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State, who is on the way from Manila. His chair is occupied meanwhile by Frank B. Kellogg, who has been in frequent conference with the Chief Executive on the revolt in Mexico.

Before meeting with his Cabinet, the President had the usual Cabinet day discussion of fiscal affairs with Brigadier-General Lord, Director of the Budget; and received Senators Warren of Wyoming, and Capper of Kansas, and Glenn B. Skipper, Republican National Committeeman for Florida. Senator Warren called to pay his respects, while Capper recommended the elevation of United States District Judge George T. McDer-

FATHER AND SON DEAD IN GAS-FILLED ROOM

Roy Keithcart Had Taken Child From Wife Who Left Him Sunday.

The bodies of Roy Keithcart, 30 years old, a service car driver, and his 4-year-old son, Montrose, were found shortly after noon today in a gas-filled furnished room at 4317 Forest Park avenue. Father and son were in sleeping garments in bed, side by side, and gas was pouring from four open burners of a stove.

Early last night, Keithcart took the boy from his estranged wife. It is thought he put the boy to bed and then, after the child had fallen asleep, turned on the gas and retired beside him.

A telephone call from Keithcart's wife, Margaret, now living with her mother at 4054 Lincoln avenue, caused police to visit the room and force the door. Mrs. Keithcart said she was fearful because she had heard nothing from her husband and son since the evening before.

Mrs. Keithcart told a Post-Dispatch reported that they had been married about seven years and had been separated at frequent intervals. They had lived apart for about eight months, she said, and reunited six weeks ago, taking the Forest Park avenue room.

Her husband had been in a highly nervous state and frequently irritable. Sunday, in a fit of temper, he struck their oldest child, a boy of 6, and blackened one of his eyes. Yesterday he came home at noon and ordered her to go out and find a job.

Mrs. Keithcart went alone to her mother's home and returned at 5 o'clock and took her two sons, the youngest being in bed at the time recovering from pneumonia. Two hours later eKithcart appeared and insisted on taking the 4-year-old boy away with him, telling her he would leave the child with his sister. According to neighbors, Keithcart carried the boy into his room at about 9 o'clock and did not emerge again.

95 PER CENT WOOD ALCOHOL IN LIQUOR OF WHICH 19 DIED

Result of Analysis of Peoria and Galesburg Samples Announced in Chicago.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 8.—Chemists in the prohibition department here today announced that samples of liquor which caused the death of ninteen persons in Peoria and Galesburg recently consisted of 95 per cent wood alcohol.

The bottle of liquor examined was obtained from Maurice Mansfield, who, with his wife, is under arrest in Peoria in connection with the deaths. George Hurlburt, in charge of prohibition enforcement here, expressed the belief that the poisonous alcohol came from a source handling high-grade lacquers, as he said no other source would have need for such high test wood alcohol.

STARTING at 9 o'clock tonight, returns from the primary election will be broadcast by KSD, radio station of the Post-Dispatch, at frequent intervals. WASHINGTON TO TEXAS AND BACK IN PLANE IN 25 1-2 HOURS

Capt. Ross G. Hoyt Carried Important Letters to Kelly Field for Flight to Panama.

By the Associated Press.

In his round-trip flight, Hoyt took 13½ hours' flying time to reach Kelly Field, and 12 hours to return to Washington. He went to Kelly Field to deliver to Capt. Ira C. Eaker, one of the Question Mark's flyers, a number of important letters which the latter will carry on his dawn-to-dusk flight from Brownsville, Tex., to the Canal Zone on March 10.

LAMONT DESERTS THE WETS

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Secretary of Commerce Lamont told newspaper men at the White House today that he is "playing the game with this administration" and had resigned as a director of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. He said he had been requested at one time by a friend to join the association and that "we all do some things for friendship."

He added that when he had become a member of the organization the prohibition situation was "intolerable" and that he thought lawless conditions still existed.

$290,000 WINNER ACCUSED BY WIFE'S KIN OF MAIL FRAUD

John C. Scrivner, stock promoter and former pipefitter and grocer at Madison, Ill., who recently won a $290,000 verdict in a patent suit against the American Car and Foundry Co., surrendered today to postoffice inspectors here under a warrant charging use of the mails to defraud.

The warrant is based on the complaint of heirs of the late Will T. Armstrong, retired farmer of Franklin County, Mo., an uncle of Scrivner's wife. It is charged that, by means of a fraudulent deed, Armstrong conveyed his farm and his town house at Gerald, Mo., to George Smith of St. Louis, on Nov. 19, 1920. The specific offense alleged in the warrant is that Scrivner, on Feb. 23, 1929, mailed to the Recorder of Deeds at Union, county seat of Franklin County, a conveyance of the property from Smith to Dr. Harry F. and Myrtle Miller, also of St. Louis.

At the Federal Building Scrivner declared the charges were a "frame-up." He described the transactions thus:

In 1920, he related, he organized the Scrivner Clay Products Co which operated near Gerald, and persuaded various members of his wife's family to buy stock. Will T. Armstrong sold his property to Smith for $3000, in order to invest, and his wife contributed $9000. The company failed and as a result, Scrivner said, the Armstrong family turned against him to a man.

On the death of Will T Armstrong in October, 1927 Scrivner continued, Smith took possession of the property and arranged with Scrivner to trade it for 30 town lots in Gerald. He arranged for the transfer to Dr and Mrs Miller, he said, in order to protect himself and his wife from any claims.

Scrivner was taken before United States Commissioner Atkins who accepted a $2000 bond signed by Dr. and Mrs. Miller. A preliminary hearing was set for April 5.

Scrivner's judgment against the American Car & Foundry Co. was based on the use of a patented hydro-carbon furnace for heating rivets which he claimed to have invented while working in the company's plant. He now lives in East St. Louis.

LEVIATHAN DANCERS UPSET WHEN HUGE WAVE HITS SHIP

CHERBOURG, France, March 9.—The American liner Leviathan arrived here 12 hours late yesterday after being buffeted by what Capt. Cunningham called one of the worst storms of his experience.

Last Saturday night a huge wave struck the liner and upset passengers who were trying to dance in the ballroom. Four were slightly injured.

The same wave stove in three portholes with resulting damage to staterooms and swept away a lifeboat. The liner had heavy weather throughout its course.

GIRL, 2, IN EL PASO, TEX. IS KILLED BY STRAY SHOT

BEATEN FEDERALS TO BE INTERNED

They Will Be Taken to Texas Under Terms Proposed by American Commander.

By the Associated Press.

EL PASO, Tex., March 8.—The first American fatality as the result of fighting in Juarez was reported today with the death of Lydia Roberto, 2 years old, at El Paso Emergency Hospital. The child, whose parents are American citizens, was struck in the head this morning by a stray bullet from across the Rio Grande, during the fighting.

The child was playing near her home in South El Paso when she was wounded. She died at 2 p. m.

Authorities said the only other American casualty so far as could be determined, was Louis Chavez, 6 years old, who was slightly wounded this morning by a stray bullet.

By the Associated Press.

JUAREZ, Mexico, March 8.—Mexican rebel troops today captured Juarez after a sharp fight with defending Federal forces, who in defeat accepted a truce arranged by Brigadier-General Van Horn Moseley, commander of United States troops at Fort Bliss, Tex.

The end of the fighting, which had raged all morning, came this afternoon when the defeated Federal forces, under command of Gen. Mathias Ramos, retreated to a dike along the Mexican side of the Rio Grande and there sought shelter from the invaders. The rebels could not fire because of the danger of hitting persons in El Paso with bullets that went wild.

Under the truce it was agreed that the Federal troops would be permitted to retire across the Rio Grande into the United States under guard of American soldiers.

American field artillery lay on the other side of the river, their guns pointing toward Juarez as the firing ceased. Gen. Moseley went to the Mexican side of the international bridge when the Federals took up their position on the dike. Gen. Ramos asked for American army trucks to transport his men in a counter attack on the rebels. This was refused.

The truce later was arranged in a conference of Ramos and Gen. Miguel Valles of the attacking force with Gen Moseley.

U. S. to Intern Troops.

Alphonso Pesquiera, Mexican Consul in El Paso, arrived with a message from President Portes Gil suggesting the Mexican troops either go to Sonora, by way of the United States, if that could be arranged, or move peacefully to El Paso. The latter was agreed upon. Gen. Moseley said he would have to intern the men.

The Government troops waited while Gen. Moseley went over to the rebel headquarters where he informed those in charge that two El Paso children had been wounded because guns had been fired in the direction of the United States. He warned Augustin De La Veca, rebel officer, against such hazards in the future. Meanwhile, the American artillery remained in place at the American brigehead.

Gen. Miquel Valles, rebel commander, told the newspaper El Continental that he carried $200,000 in gold to pay for any damages done to private property during the battle. He added: "Everybody's property will be protected."

Machine gun and rifle fire raked the heart of Juarez, the rebels launching one attack after another.

Stray bullets falling on the American side of the border wounded an American boy in El Paso, struck automobiles and crashed through a window of a home.

The Spanish newspaper El Continental, in El Paso, today lists the casualties in the fighting at Juarez at eight dead and 18 wounded. The invaders lost two Captains and three cavalrymen and the Federals

STEWART BEATEN, BUT HIS FRIENDS RETAIN CONTROL

PENSION WILL BE $75,000 A YEAR

PLACED IN CONTROL OF INDIANA STANDARD

E. G. SEUBERT.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 8.—Robert W. Stewart was thrown off the board of directors of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana yesterday, but the question of how far he was thrown occasioned growing interest in financial quarters today.

John D. Rockefeller Jr. was credited with a great moral victory, but persons who were more interested in the practical results hesitated to render a final verdict without additional information.

Stewart has been punished for his dealings with the notorious Continental Trading Co. and his subsequent actions in the Teapot Dome investigation. But while it is obvious that he is out, it is equally obvious that seven of the eight directors who supported him throughout the struggle are still in, and most of them are his personal proteges.

Surprise in John D's Victory.

Rockefeller's victory was surprising in two respects—the overwhelming margin by which it was won, and the unwillingness to press it. Consequently, among the observant there is a keen desire to learn whether the winning proxies were obtained on a promise to temper victory with mercy for the vanquished. Otherwise, it is difficult to understand the forbearance of the victors, especially after the bitterness which distinguished the contest.

Rockefeller's representatives were anxious to convey the impression that they were content with the elimination of Stewart and one other director; that they contemplated no further action against Stewart, and that they fully intended to leave the direction of the company, except for Stewart, in the hands of the men who had made a gold mine out of it.

Beaten, but Loses Little.

For a man who suffered crushing defeat, Stewart appears to have made good terms. He seems assured of a penston of $75,000 a year as long as he does not enter a competing company. His two sons retain their lucrative company jobs, at least for the present. Stewart can keep his stock, or dispose of it for a handsome profit. He will not be asked to reimburse the company for any money it may have expended in connection with his court trials. Finally, in the event of complications, he can be sure that a majority of the directors are his friends, most of them heavily obligated to him.

It all served to recall Senator Walsh's dry remark during the oil inquiry: "I don't imagine that anyone who knows Col. Stewart will question his ability as a trader."

It may also explain the tameness which characterized the climax of the battle yesterday. Nobody has ever questioned Stewart's ability as a fighter, either, but he went down to humiliating defeat laughing, joking, and even indulging in a little horseplay. He was a strange contrast to the belligerent magnate who bullied and stormed at a Senate Committee a year ago, and who was issuing vehement statements within the last week. He exchanged compliments and amenities with his adversaries, and except for a sour note here and there everything was as jolly as a wedding feast.

Foes Accomplished Their Purpose.

Winthrop W. Aldrich, brother-in-law of Rockefeller and chairman of the committee which gathered proxies for him, told newspaper men immediately after the election that he and his associates had "accomplished their purpose," that they were satisfied with the reconstituted board of directors, and that there would be "no outside interference in the direction of the company." He said its past policies (formulated by Stewart) would be carried out without change.

Stewart issued a prepared statement urging employes to support the new management. Referring to "those old associates of mine on the board of directors," he said: "Their hearts are still with you as they have always been. Give them the same loyal support you have given them and me." He took a dig at his victorious opponents when he expressed the opinion that the company would be better off "if shares now held in the East were transferred to the Middle West," but on the whole it was a sweetish swan song.

Although each side presented a complete slate of 11 directors, nine names appeared on both slates. Seven of them were old directors and two were new men nominated to fill vacancies. Against Stewart the Rockefeller group nominated William M. Burton, former president of the company, and against Louis L. Stephens they named Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago.

Beaten by 2,500,000 Votes.

Burton received the votes of 5,510,313 shares of stock, as against 2,954,986 cast for Stewart. Burton's majority of more than two and a half millions was at least a million higher than was claimed in any pre-election statement. Traylor's victory over Stephens was by virtually the same margin.

The decision of the Rockefeller group to send Stephens out with Stewart was universally expected. More than any of the others he is a personal attache of Stewart, who brought him here from a small town in South Dakota. He accompanied Stewart on all his appearances before the Senate committee and testified for him in the perjury trial in which Stewart was acquitted. Nevertheless, he retains his position as general counsel of the company, and Aldrich said he knew of no intention to supplant him.

The board elected no chairman to succeed Stewart. It re-elected Edward G. Seubert as president, and named him chief executive officer, a post previously held by Stewart. Seubert, who began his career as a mechanic's helper in a Standard refinery, is another protege of Stewart. It is considered probable that Burton will be elected chairman later, but it would be a nominal position, with Seubert exercising executive control.

A more fitting scene for the dethronement of the oil king would have been difficult to find. Whiting, Ind., where the stockholders' meeting was held, is a refinery town, 16 miles southeast of Chicago. A savage gale brought huge breakers hissing in from Lake Michigan, and howled among the oil tanks and through the streets of the grimy, ill-smelling town. The atmosphere was that of industrial America at its ugliest and most ruthless, a stormy setting for the end of a stormy career.

While the burly Stewart, perfectly at home in this picture, presided over the meeting which ousted him, his adversary, Rockefeller, was far away exploring the crooked streets of the ancient city of Jerusalem.

Smilingly Greets Adversaries.

The directors, in obedience to the by-laws, met first at the company offices. Aldrich, accompanied by Thomas Debevoise and other Rockefeller associates and attorneys, were present when Stewart arrived. He shook hands with all of them, and then smilingly inquired whether the "12 o'clock whistle had blown," noon being the hour set for the meeting. The board then adjourned to the Community House.

This institution, a handsome brick structure, was presented to the town jointly by the Rockefellers, senior and junior, and by the Indiana Standard, as a war memorial. In addition to various recreation rooms, it has an auditorium with a capacity of about 1000.

It is unlikely that any stockholders' meeting ever attracted such a gathering of newspaper men, or ever afforded such facilities for them. A press room had been established under the stage, and a door opened into the orchestra pit, which was filled with press tables. Many reporters, anticipating difficulty in getting into the meeting, had either bought stock or obtained proxies from stockholders. The precaution proved wholly unnecessary, since all were immediately outfitted with "house staff" badges.

The expectation that the hall would be packed with company employes friendly to Stewart was not fulfilled. About 500 stockholders were present, and although the chairman undoubtedly had a majority of partisans, they were by no means unanimous, nor were they especially vociferous. They gave him a cheer when he stepped on the stage, where the directors' table had been set up, and another and louder one when he concluded reading the financial statement showing the tremendous profits of the last year.

Felt "Somewhat Embarrassed."

The dapper New York delegation, representing Rockefeller, took seats in the front row of the auditorium. Stewart stated at the outset that he felt "somewhat embarrassed" by the duty of presiding, and invited Debevoise to join him on the platform. Both Debevoise and Aldrich replied that they were perfectly content with him as a presiding officer.

When nominations were called for, Albert Hopkins, Stewart's personal attorney, arose in the audience and put the Stewart slate in nomination. Aldrich followed with the Rockefeller slate. Then a little middle-aged stockholder, with iron-rimmed spectacles, stood up and announced himself as J. P. Hays "of the good city of Chicago," and made a motion that the old board be re-elected, with the addition of "two delegates-at-large, one to be chosen from stockholders owning more than 500 shares, and one from stockholders owning less than 500."

"I am interested in a moral principle," he said. "Representation on the board should not be by mere aggregations of money, but by individuals. I am speaking for the little fellows, and for justice and fair play."

This drew a protest from Mrs. Elizabeth Price, also a stockholder, who pronounced the motion "unparliamentary."

"I've seen motions like that railroaded through church meetings," she said, "and I hope we won't do anything here that will make us ridiculous in the eyes of the world."

Stewart Overrules Aldrich.

Hays sprang to defend the dignity of his proposal, and received considerable vocal support. Thereupon, Aldrich objected that the whole business was out of order. Stewart overruled him, and announced that he would put it to a vote.

When Aldrich protested it seemed that there might be some fireworks, but Stewart said soothingly:

"Now, just leave this to me, Mr. Aldrich, and I think you will be satisfied with the result."

When he put the motion there was a roar of "ayes," followed by a small and indignant chorus of "noes" from the New Yorkers.

"The 'noes' have it," announced Stewart, laughing at his opponents.

"The whole things is illegal," shouted a white-haired man in the front row.

"What's your name, my friend?" asked Stewart. "My name is McNall, and this whole business is illegal and you know it. It's horseplay," was the angry response.

At this juncture a more serious diversion intervened. R. W. Kellough, a lawyer, of Tulsa, Ok., read a long prepared motion in which he asked that all the Rockefeller proxies be excluded on the ground that control of the company by Rockefeller would violate the original decree dissolving the parent Standard Oil Co. He challenged the validity of the Rockefeller proxies. There was a brief conference by the directors, after which Stewart announced the challenge had been overruled.

Promises Legal Action.

Kellough responded: "I expected that, and I give notice now that this move is preliminary to legal action which I intend to bring in behalf of myself and others."

While tellers with adding machines were counting the votes and proxies those in attendance lunched on hot dogs at the Community House counter. Stewart himself announced the result of the ballot by which he was defeated, remarking beforehand that "I expect it will be bad news for some of us, but I know we'll take it standing up."

In addition to Burton, the two new directors are Gentry Cash, manager of the Whiting refinery; and Thomas Cooke, manager of the refinery at Caspar, Wyo. In addition to Seubert, the directors re-elected were Allan Jackson, Edward J. Bullock, Robert J. McElroy, Robert Humphrey, Amos Ball and Charles Barkdull.

The supplanting of Stewart by Burton has a poetic touch of retribution. Thirty-nine years ago Burton entered the employ of Standard as a young chemist, and steadily advanced. Several years ago he invented a "cracking" process which practically doubled the percentage of gasoline derived from crude oil. He turned his patent over to the company, which not only employed it to tremendous profit, but licensed it to other companies.

Burton became president of the company 10 years ago, but his scientific temperament did not suit the aggressive Stewart, and in 1927 Burton was forced out in favor of Seubert. At present he is on board ship en route to this country.

Regardless of the concessions which Stewart appears to have wrested from his successful opponents, the fact remains that he is the first industrial magnate in American history who has been ousted from the direction of a billion-dollar corporation on the ground that his public conduct had demonstrated his "moral unfitness" for leadership. Proud and autocratic to a pronounced degree, there is no doubt that he is suffering great humiliation, and some of his former associates believe he will not re-enter business. He is 63 years old, but amazingly well and strong.

He served with Roosevelt's Rough Riders, and has been a rough rider ever since. He did not rise to the top of the Indiana Standard from the manufacturing or selling end of the business, but from the legal department, beginning his career with Indiana Standard in 1907 as general attorney. Since he became its chief executive 11 years ago, the value of the company has increased about $800,000,000.

CHILDS IS OUSTED FROM CONTROL OF RESTAURANT CHAIN

NEW YORK, March 8.—William Childs, founder of the nation-wide chain of restaurants of that name, fought yesterday to retain control of his vast company, but was defeated.

After more than a month's campaign for proxies, carried even into the Childs Restaurants, where placards were handed out to diners, Childs found himself in a voting minority, with the entire Childs family removed from any part in the direction of the company.

"I'm through," Childs told the several hundred stockholders, mostly hostile, who had camped since noon on the seventh floor of the company's executive offices, on Fifth avenue. Childs, who told his hearers he was not crazy nor incompetent, as some of them seemed to think, informed the incoming faction that the restaurant chain was theirs to do with as they wished.

"Defile it," he said. "Do with it as you will. It is yours. I am through."

Would Like Name Off Doors.

His audience, which included many women, was unimpressed.

"Sob stuff," one woman said when the restaurateur, famed for his vegetarian theories, said:

"I'd like to see the name of Childs taken from the doors."

His speech, admitting defeat, and one in which he pointed out to the triumphant Wall Street group, headed by William A. Barber, former Childs attorney, the homely virtues necessary to running a business, came after every legal expedient had been essayed to stave off defeat even momentarily.

At the outset the Childs faction refused to register its proxies in the hope of preventing a quorum and any meeting at all. This would have given them time to challenge the proxies marshalled by the Barber interests, who are understood to have the du Ponts behind them.

Opponents Hold Quorum.

But the quorum, representing more than the necessary 208,000 shares of stock, was held by Childs' opponents, and a steam roller, driven by Joseph B. Cotton, attorney, took immediate advantage of the situation to deny all delaying motions put forward by Childs.

The newly elected board consists of Hollyday S. Meeds Jr., Clement R. Ford, Leroy W. Baldwin, S. Willard Smith, Augustus Nulle, Ramon E. Williams, Richard M. Allerton, Cecil F. Gordon and Barber. It was announced that the places of Gordon and Allerton will be taken by George M. Moffatt, vice president of the Corn Products Co., and Lucius M. Boomer, hotel magnate.

Baldwin is president of the Empire Trust Co. Ford heads the Tucker, Anthony Co., bankers, of New York and Boston. Meeds is a banker of Wilmington, Del., and son-in-law of T. Coleman du Pont.

No president nor board chairman was elected last night at a meeting of the new directors. But Smith, who was ousted by Childs as officeholder along with Barber, was named senior vice president.

Vegetarianism and the other dietisms which opponents of Childs declared responsible for a falling off in profits, are a thing of the past in the Childs' restaurants, it was stated.

GOV. JOHNSTON ON STAND IN OKLAHOMA IMPEACHMENT

Declares, "Contrary to Public Belief," He Could "Control What Was Going On in Office."

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., March 8.—As his own defense witness, Gov. Henry S. Johnston yesterday began to give his version of the two years of administration that culminated in his suspension from office and his present trial before the Senate court of impeachment. He occupied the witness stand throughout the afternoon. The court had amended its rules, making any person suspected of attempted improper influence on the court citable for contempt and punishable by the court.

Much of Johnston's testimony was intended to show his competency to continue as Governor. Answering in general the oft repeated charge of his political enemies that his former secretary, Mrs. O. O. Hammonds, had exercised a dominating influence over his decisions, Johnston said: "Contrary to an apparent general belief, I could control what was going on in my office."

Johnston related that he had defended his personal relations with his woman secretary when a delegation of friends urged him to dismiss her and told the delegamors that the relations had been tion that there was nothing to rumproper. Mrs. Hammonds was described as having a "very remarkable memory," which was peculiarly useful to the Governor's purposes.

Rebels Capture Juarez; U. S. Interns Beaten Force

one Lieutenant and two enlisted men, the newspaper says.

American Troops Line Border.

American troops, heavily armed and supported by machine guns and artillery, lined the border for the protection of American lives.

The rebel forces, numbering 2000 men, were supported by cavalry, which charged down the streets of Juarez to dislodge the outnumbered Federals.

Wounded Federals Cross to U. S.

Juarez civilians, many of them little more than boys, turned out to support the Government. When rifles were issued to them many had to be told how to handle them. A luckless civilian yesterday shot and seriously wounded himself and threw the town into a panic when he accidentally discharged his newly issued rifle while examining it. He was the first casualty of the revolution in Juarez.

Several wounded Federal soldiers straggled across the international bridge into El Paso for treatment.

Federals Barricade Streets.

A dozen or more sharp engagements were fought in the streets as rebel contingents came upon Federal barricades. Most of the casualties occurred during these rushes. Early in the battle 17 rebel cavalrymen worked their way through Federal outposts to within a block of the Federal headquarters before they were discovered. Machine gun fire killed five of the men and several horses. The rest escaped.

In the Hotel Rio Bravo, which was turned into a hospital, Mexican Blue Cross nurses aided by American students from El Paso who volunteered for service, treated wounded during brief lulls in the fighting. All around the hotel Federal forces had placed machine guns behind sand bag barricades and this district was the main stand of defense for the Federals.

Andres Varges and Salvador Portugal, civilian soldiers, were seriously injured at the Stanton Street bridge-head.

In the thick of the battle Augustine Gallo, Mayor of Juarez, who was under arrest charged with being friendly to the revolution, was freed and took his place on the firing line with the Federal troops.

The second rebel advance started with a rush after a short lull. The revolutionary forces reoccupied the jail building and took Fort Hidalgo, two of the most important Federal strongholds.

The tide seemed turning toward the rebels. A single Federal soldier with a machine gun mounted on top of the old mission church held up the rebel advance to some extent as he criss-crossed the front with his fire.

The early attack upon the city was made by three separate rebel detachments, one from the northwest, a second from the east and the third by a detachment which moved upon the city in box cars

After the lull in fighting the Federal hospitals started to fill with injured. Twelve men were reported dead and 12 wounded in the first rush.

The former chief of police of Juarez, Albino Frias, was reported at the head of one rebel detachment. He disappeared from here several days ago.

Boy in El Paso Wounded.

Later Louis Chavez, 10 years old, an American boy in El Paso, was wounded by a stray shot.

Several American automobiles were struck by bullets from the Mexican side. In one El Paso home a bullet crashed through a window.

In the thickly settled tenement section in South El Paso there was much excitement, as bullets fell often.

U. S. RESTORES EMBARGO ON THE SHIPMENT OF AIRPLANES TO MEXICO

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 8.

REPLACEMENT of the embargo on shipment of commercial airplanes from the United States to Mexico was announced today by Secretary of State Kellogg.

The embargo, which was lifted a year ago, is effective at once.

Application has been made by the Mexican Government for surplus war materials, and the American Government has consented to supply such materials from the surplus now held by the War Department.

The order will prevent unauthorized buying in the United States by rebel forces.

Permits for the shipment of arms to the Mexican Government now are being issued by the State Department and permission also has been given for the Mexican authorities to import privately made airplanes from the United States.

TORREON HELD BY STRONG REBEL FORCE

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, March 8.—Strong rebel forces today held Torreon, an industrial city in Western Coahuila near the Durango line.

The Federal Government admitted that the insurgents had effected a coalition of troops under Gens. Francisco Urbalejo and Gonzalo Escobar which would require a major offensive to dislodge. The position is strategic, commanding the important north and south railway through the heart of the country and also several minor east and west lines.

This threat, was temporarily at least, blocked by the troop barrier thrown up by Gen. Anacleto Lopez in the State of Zacatecas, directly to the south. Meanwhile Gen. Lazaro Cardenas, who was appointed supreme commander of all Federal forces in the states of Jalisco, Guanajuato and Michoacan, was mobilizing these forces at Guadalajara.

Whether this army would be first directed against Torreon, or would move westward to meet the rebel advance in Sinaloa, was not know.

Rebel Deserters Take Vera Cruz.

The Federal Government was confident that its campaign in the state of Vera Cruz was nearing an end. Strong Federal forces have entered the city of Vera Cruz and today had restored conditions there almost to normal. Their victory had been won for them by a small force of deserters from the rebel ranks under Lieut.-Col. Jose Cervantes, who drove Gen. Jesus M. Aguirre from the city after a day of bloody street fighting. Cervantes then found himself with a worn and battered command holding a city cut off from all communication with Federal forces only a few miles away. He reached them by cabling to the Mexican embassy in Washington which relayed his appeal here and fresh Federal troops hastened forward to relieve his men.

SLAYER OF HUNDREDS SHOT AS A TRAITOR

Gen. Lopez, "the Butcher," Reputed to Have Personally Killed 200 Men.

MEXICO CITY, March 8.—The execution of Gen. Jesus Palomera Lopez, former chief of the military police of Mexico City, removed one of the most picturesque figures this country has ever known. He was accused of attempting to turn his regiment over to the rebels.

Tall, of military build and hard of face, Gen. Lopez was all the more imposing because of his fearful reputation. His friends were few and to mention his name was sufficient to strike terror into the hearts of many.

He was credited with having killed from 200 to 500 men. Most of his victims, according to public accounts, were civil prisoners accused of one crime or another. He is reported never to have killed anyone in a personal brawl.

Although Gen. Lopez denied the Government's charge of treason, documents alleged to have been found in his possession were held to be convincing proof. It was charged he left Mixeco City for Hidalgo in the State of Michoacan with the express purpose of turning his regiment stationed there over to the rebels. When he reached Hidalgo he found another officer in charge of his regiment and he was arrested and brought back to Mexico City.

Known as "the butcher" during his term as Chief of Police, Gen. Lopez faced the military judges stolidly and heard his sentence of death without a sign. Less than an hour later he was taken in an army truck to the San Lazaro marksmanship school using an automobile headlight as a lamp and the sidecar of an army motorcycle on which to rest his paper, he wrote a last letter to his wife, just as dawn was breaking yesterday he faced the firing squad, unblinfolded and unafraid.

JAILS 'PRETTY FULL,' BAR MAN FINED $900

No More Cells in Three of Five Places of Confinement.

Remarking that the jails "are pretty full," Federal Judge Faris today ordered a $900 fine for Harry Ryan, proprietor of a saloon at 1737 Lucas avenue, who had pleaded guilty to sale of liquor. The offense usually draws a jail sentence, except where there are extenuating circumstances. None was offered in Ryan's case. Ryan promptly paid the fine.

Of the five county jails used for the incarceration of Federal liquor law violatorfs, three are full now. They are the Union, Warrenton and Montgomery City jails. Two others, Mexico and Ironton, have room for more Federal prisoners.

With 450 liquor cases on the docket, which must be disposed of between March 18 and April [illegible], the problem of where to put the violators is becoming acute.

Thomas Pugh, a laborer, Fairview and Anglum road, St. Louis County, was fined only $50 for sale of a half pint of whisky to a Negro prohibition agent, because, the Court said, the case "borders on entrapment." The agent came to Pugh's home, Pugh said, with another Negro who said he was sick and asked for whisky. When Pugh gave him a half pint, the Negro pressed 50 cents into his hand and the agent arrested him. The money was furnished by the agent.

"I'll give you the benefit of the doubt," said the Judge in assessing the small fine.

Mike Biondo, proprietor of a confectionery at 1118 North Twenty-fourth street, told the Court he had been selling liquor only [illegible] hours when a prohibition agent made a purchase. He drew a [illegible]-day sentence.

Other pleaders and their sentences were as follows: Leo Beresheim, 70 years old, [illegible] Lemay Ferry road, St. Louis County, 30 days, sale; Dan Dempsey, St. Louis County, $475; possession; John Brader, 220 Lemay Ferry road, St. Louis County, [illegible] days, sale; and Bernard Stock, 1126 Gravois avenue, 90 days, sale.

MRS. MATLOCK BROKE UP HOME, EX-WIFE SAYS

TELLS OF HER PLEAS FOR SAKE OF CHILD

Widow Acquitted by Jury Refused to Give up Man in 1923, Mrs. Ethel Kammann Asserts.

The second wife of "Good Time Charley" Matlock today disagreed emphatically with the verdict of 12 jurors which freed the third wife, Mrs. Helen Spiesser Matlock, of a charge of second-degree murder in the killing of Matlock last Nov. 6 as he walked into a West End apartment where he had established a night club entertainer as a "Mrs. Matlock."

"If those jurors only had known how Helen wrecked my marriage and stole Charles from his wife and son, the verdict might have been different," the second wife, who is now Mrs. Ethel Kammann, commented.

"That woman did not tell the truth when she took the witness stand. Naturally, I was indignant at the verdict, but it made me laugh when her lawyers described her to the jury as a 'good, pure, virtuous, bereft little widow.'"

Second Wife Married Again.

Mrs. Kammann, who is now happily married, had tried to avoid publicity, but was subpenaed to the murder trial by the State. She and her 12-year-old son were brought before Mrs. Helen Matlock and the latter was asked if she had broken up the second marriage. The defendant made a denial.

Had the defendant pleaded emotional insanity, as expected, the Circuit Attorney planned to have Matlock's second wife and his son testify. However, the defense elected to plead self-defense and Mrs. Kammann and her son were not put on the stand, as it was considered their testimony would be irrelevant, from a legal standpoint. The jurors, who returned a verdict of not guilty Wednesday, still refuse to discuss their action.

Says Matlock Was Lazy.

"I was married to Charles Matlock Sept. 10, 1913," she told a Post-Dispatch reporter. "I divorced him in October, 1917, for incompatibility. He did not drink heavily then and associate with bootleggers, as Helen says he did after she married him. However, he was lazy and didn't like work.

"I remarried Charles in June, 1918, at the urging of his parents and to obtain support for our boy.

"In the summer of 1923 my husband began staying away from home nights. I asked him if there was another woman. His only answer was: 'I have only one wife and baby.'

"Nevertheless, he continued to stay away from home. One evening he came home drunk and telephoned Helen Speisser at her home. He said: 'Helen, I'm sending a taxicab for you to go out to the river.' Then he left the house.

Stays Away From Home.

"It had been his practice to spend Saturday night at a cottage on the Meramec River at what he called stag parties. I noticed he began staying out there Friday night, Saturday and Sunday.

"We lived at 4477A St. Louis avenue. About this time we moved to 5530A Page boulevard. We lived there until the night of Nov. 2, 1923.

"That night my husband became conscience-stricken and told me all about Helen Speisser. He said she was trying to break up our home, but couldn't do it. He begged me to call her up and tell her that I knew all about her and wanted her to leave him alone. She lived then at 1119 North Grand boulevard.

"I refused to do it, but he went to the telephone and called her up. He said he had a wife and little boy and was not going to see her any more. She didn't believe him and asked to speak to me.

Says Woman Came to House.

"She asked me: 'Who are you? Where are you?' I told her I was home with my husband. She said 'I'll be right over.' A short time later she drove up to our house. I opened the door for her and she brushed past me and went to Charles, who was in the kitchen. I followed and she turned on me and said: 'How long has this been going on? How long have you been living with 'Mat'?'

"I said: 'Ever since I was married to him.' She said: 'Well, are you going to give him up?' I said I would not. She asked me if I would divorce him, and I replied that I would not. Then she said: "'Well, I don't intend to give him up. Our affair has been going on since last June.'

"'Well, our affair has been going on for 10 years,' I answered, and there's Mr. Matlock's child which he should be taking care of.'

"She started to leave. Charles saw she had the auto keys in her hand. He took the keys and they drove off together."

"I packed up and went home, with the boy, to my mother. A week later I returned to get some

The second wife of "Good Time Charley" Matlock today disagreed emphatically with the verdict of 12 jurors which freed the third wife, Mrs. Helen Spiesser Matlock, of a charge of second-degree murder in the killing of Matlock last Nov. 6 as he walked into a West End apartment where he had established a night club entertainer as a "Mrs. Matlock."

"If those jurors only had known how Helen wrecked my marriage and stole Charles from his wife and son, the verdict might have been different," the second wife, who is now Mrs. Ethel Kammann, commented.

"That woman did not tell the truth when she took the witness stand. Naturally, I was indignant at the verdict, but it made me laugh when her lawyers described her to the jury as a 'good, pure, virtuous, bereft little widow.'"

Second Wife Married Again.

Mrs. Kammann, who is now happily married, had tried to avoid publicity, but was subpenaed to the murder trial by the State. She and her 12-year-old son were brought before Mrs. Helen Matlock and the latter was asked if she had broken up the second marriage. The defendant made a denial.

Had the defendant pleaded emotional insanity, as expected, the Circuit Attorney planned to have Matlock's second wife and his son testify. However, the defense elected to plead self-defense and Mrs. Kammann and her son were not put on the stand, as it was considered their testimony would be irrelevant, from a legal standpoint. The jurors, who returned a verdict of not guilty Wednesday, still refuse to discuss their action.

Says Matlock Was Lazy.

"I was married to Charles Matlock Sept. 10, 1913," she told a Post-Dispatch reporter. "I divorced him in October, 1917, for incompatibility. He did not drink heavily then and associate with bootleggers, as Helen says he did after she married him. However, he was lazy and didn't like work.

"I remarried Charles in June, 1918, at the urging of his parents and to obtain support for our boy.

"In the summer of 1923 my husband began staying away from home nights. I asked him if there was another woman. His only answer was: 'I have only one wife and baby.'

"Nevertheless, he continued to stay away from home. One evening he came home drunk and telephoned Helen Speisser at her home. He said: 'Helen, I'm sending a taxicab for you to go out to the river.' Then he left the house.

Stays Away From Home.

"It had been his practice to spend Saturday night at a cottage on the Meramec River at what he called stag parties. I noticed he began staying out there Friday night, Saturday and Sunday.

"We lived at 4477A St. Louis avenue. About this time we moved to 5590A Page boulevard. We lived there until the night of Nov. 2, 1923.

"That night my husband became conscience-stricken and told me all about Helen Speisser. He said she was trying to break up our home, but couldn't do it. He begged me to call her up and tell her that I knew all about her and wanted her to leave him alone. She lived then at 1119 North Grand boulevard.

"I refused to do it, but he went to the telephone and called her up. He said he had a wife and little boy and was not going to see her any more. She didn't believe him and asked to speak to me.

Says Woman Came to House.

"She asked me: 'Who are you? Where are you?' I told her I was home with my husband. She said 'I'll be right over.' A short time later she drove up to our house. I opened the door for her and she brushed past me and went to Charles, who was in the kitchen. I followed and she turned on me and said: 'How long has this been going on? How long have you been living with 'Mat'?'.

"I said: 'Ever since I was married to him.' She said: 'Well, are you going to give him up?' I said I would not. She asked me if I would divorce him, and I replied that I would not. Then she said: "'Well, I don't intend to give him up. Our affair has been going on since last June.'

"'Well, our affair has been going on for 10 years,' I answered, and there's Mr. Matlock's child which he should be taking care of.'

"She started to leave. Charles saw she had the auto keys in her hand. He took the keys and they drove off together."

"I packed up and went home, with the boy, to my mother. A week later I returned to get some clothes. I discovered Helen's clothes were hanging in my closet and her powder puff and rouge were on my dressing table.

"The landlady told me Helen stayed there throughout November and December. They had Christmas dinner in my home. They even changed some of the furnishings in my home. When my son went there to visit his father, he saw the other woman. The landlady asked Mr. Matlock about the woman being there all the time and he said she was his cousin.

"About the middle of November I went to the Rex Barber Shop at 205 North Seventh street, where Helen was a manicure. I told her: 'I came down to tell you that you have succeeded in breaking up my home. You're not hurting me, but you are taking a home from my child. Won't you give my husband up?' My brother's wife was with me and she told Helen: 'If I were that little woman, I'd shoot you.'

"Helen screamed and ran out of the shop, shouting: 'Take this woman out of here.'

Divorces Matlock Again.

"I divorced Mr. Matlock for the second and last time on Jan. 2, 1924. Eight days later he married the manicure and departed on a honeymoon trip.

"And that," Mrs. Kammann concluded, "is the story I was subpenaed to court to tell, and I think the jurors should have heard it."

The jury's verdict of not guilty resulted yesterday in an exchange of felicitations between Mrs. Helen Matlock and the "other woman," Miss Rose Jokerst.

Said Mrs. Matlock: "I have deep sympathy for Rose. I hope it has been a good lesson for her. If 'Mat' had been a thirteenth juror, he would have voted like the 12 did."

Said "Rose of the Night Club": "I'm glad Helen was acquitted. I prayed at night that the jury would turn her loose."

An aftermath of the Matlock case lies in litigation over $27,000 which Miss Catherine Deeken, member of a well-to-do family residing at 4587 Carter avenue, lent without security to "Good Time Charley" to finance his automobile sales agency, which failed because he paid more attention to women than to business. Miss Deeken borrowed the money from a bank by pledging stock owned by her aged mother. She and her mother now are resisting a suit by a bank to foreclose on the stock for nonpayment of the loan.

185,000 VOTES ARE EXPECTED IN PRIMARY ELECTION

and close friends will give Miller about 30,000 votes, a big start for Kiel to overcome. Kiel, however, looks for quiet defections among the city employes and for much support from labor, German-Americans, Jews, Negroes and women.

The campaign, which among the Republicans began last November, was continued until the last minute, with a number of speeches at meetings and over the radio last night.

About 300 deputy election commissioners are stationed in as many precincts, in wards where such supervision of the precinct judges and clerks has become customary. The Election Board has cautioned all precinct offiicals to be vigilant in making the election honest and fair and has promised vigorous prosecution of all violators of the election laws.

Mayor Miller voted at 8:30 in the Twenty-eighth Ward, Precinct 17, polling place in St. Roch's Catholic School, Waterman and Rosedale avenues. His wife and his mother, Mrs. Ida J. Miller, accompanied him to the polls. The Mayor cautioned his mother not to mark her ballot wrong, and she replied that, in her excitement four years ago,' she had nearly voted against him.

"I'll get three votes, anyway," the Mayor said as he, his wife and mother were photographed, placing their votes in the box.

Former Mayor Kiel and his daughter, Miss Edna Kiel, voted at 9:15 at 1619 Missouri avenue, polling place of the Seventh Ward, twentieth precinct. Mrs. Kiel voted two hours later.

Lawrence McDaniel and his wife voted about the same time in the Twenty-eighth Ward, sixteenth precinct polling place, a drug store at 5958 Kingsbury avenue. Judge Priest appeared at 9 o'clock at the Seventeenth Ward, seventeenth precinct, place in the basement of a dwelling at Boyle and Maryland avenues. Dr. Simon voted at 9 in the Twenty-fourth Ward, ninth precinct, 7011 Wise avenue, and hurried away on a professional call.

Gov. Caulfield, who had been expected to come to St. Louis to vote, remained at Jefferson City because of the press of legislative business. The city members of the Legislature came home to vote.

Attorney D. N. Kirby Speaks on Radio for Miller's Candidacy.

Daniel N. Kirby, attorney, of the firm of Nagel & Kirby, advocated the renomination of Mayor Miller in a radio speech last night on station KMOX. His first argument was that a change in administration would be undesirable from a business standpoint. He next argued that Miller, by his handling of the bridge exchange question, showed himself better qualified to be Mayor than his predecessor, Henry W. Kiel. Whereas Kiel had been willing to favor the proposed exchange because leading citizens urged it, Kirby said, Miller had studied the matter thoroughly from the viewpoint of the city's interest, and the purpose of the Municipal Bridge, and had decided against it. He then proceeded to make an arrangement for the use of the railroad deck, and to build the southern approach.

Kirby argued that Kiel's frequent statement that he likes the job of Mayor was not a reason for giving him the job, but rather the contrary.

Mrs. Frank J. Stuart After Winning Temporary Alimony Learns Husband Got Decree

Following the sustaining by the St. Louis Court of Appeals on Tuesday of a temporary alimony order in favor of Mrs. Lillian Stuart, a former actress, against Frank J. Stuart, president of Plapao Laboratories, Inc., it became known that Stuart obtained a divorce from her Sept. 10, 1927, at Belleville.

The decree was granted by default on ground of desertion. Service was by publication, Stuart alleging he did not know the whereabouts of Mrs. Stuart, who is in New York, according to her attorney, Taylor R. Young. The divorce suit was filed under the style of "Francis J. Stuart against Lillian Stuart." Stuart declared he had been a resident of Belleville for 16 months.

In December, 1924, a suit for divorce filed by Stuart in St. Louis County was dismissed by the court, which also denied a decree to Mrs. Stuart on her cross bill. She took an appeal, which now is pending in the Supreme Court, and the temporary alimony order, which provided for $300 a month, was for Mrs. Stuart's support pending her appeal. Stuart appealed from that order, asserting the allowance was more than he could afford, although his wife declared his income was in excess of $85,000 a year. With accumulated interest, court costs and counsel fees which also were assessed againt Stuart the amount now due from him is approximately $19,000, Young said. The attorney stated that steps would be taken to set aside the divorce. Mrs. Stuart was her husband's third wife, their marriage taking place in 1922. They lived at 7060 Westmoreland drive, St. Louis County.

MAN WHO DRESSED AS WOMAN KILLS HIMSELF WITH GAS

Stanley Rhorer, Known as "Mrs. Rose Dickburn," Found Dead in Room at 3936 Washington.

A man who wore women's clothes, used the name of "Mrs. Rose Dickburn," and deceived both men and women, ended his life by inhaling gas in a room at 3936 Washington boulevard, yesterday afternoon.

When the body, clad in lace-trimmed pajamas, reached the morgue, it was discovered to be that of a man. Subsequent investigation disclosed his real name was Stanley Rhorer. He was 19 years old.

A Coroner's verdict of suicide was returned today. The principal witness at the inquest was Mrs. Helen Sevening, who had roomed with "Rose" until a week ago. Mrs. Sevening is about 40 years old and separated from her husband.

Woman Roommate's Story.

"I met Rose shortly before last Christmas while shopping in a grocery at Pennsylvania avenue and Itaska street," Mrs. Sevening testified. "We became good friends and decided to share a room to cut down expenses. We took a room at 3831 Olive street and later moved to the Washington boulevard address.

"I never suspected anything wrong until a week ago when Rose slammed the bathroom door in my face.

"I wrote Rose a note in which I said: 'Rose, I know everything.' Then I moved away."

Later "Rose" met Mrs. Sevening and confided that he was Stanley Rohrer. "Rose" quit a position as housekeeper for H. Fred Zamzow, 4737 Pennsylvania avenue, and got the job for Mrs. Sevening.

Mrs. Pauline Smith, who conducts the Washington boulevard rooming house, testified that "Rose" was a neat housekeeper and dresser, was fond of jewelry, and wore beads and earrings. In renting the room, "Rose" said Mrs. Sevening was a cousin.

Rohrer had only 29 cents left when he ended his life. His body was found seated before a gas stove, the burners of which were turned on but not lighted.

Housekeeper Eight Months.

For eight months "Rose" had been housekeeper for Zamzow, a widower, with two children. She caused some gossip in the neighborhood with "her" short skirts and cigarettes.

"But she was well liked," a neighbor said. "She was equally good at playing a violin and running a sewing machine, and was not backward about meeting people. She had young men callers several nights a week and she was fond of the children in the neighborhood.

"She wasn't exactly pretty, but she had a wonderful complexion. She said she used cold cream, instead of soap, on her face. We thought she was eccentric, but we never suspected she was a man."

"Rose Dickburn" was tall and slender, with boyish bobbed brown hair and girlish manners, marred somewhat by a harsh voice. "She" asserted she had been married twice.

Rhorer One of 23 Children of Lexington (Ky.) Blacksmith.

FATHER CALLS FOR INVALID CHILD LEFT AT HOSPITAL

Had Been Seeking Work, Says He Misunderstood Time Girl Was to Stay.

Marjorie Wilson's father claimed her this morning and took her to the home of a relative at 2418 Blair avenue. Marjorie is the 4-year-old disabled child whose story was told in yesterday's Post-Dispatch. She was placed temporarily in a foster home after being discharged from City Hospital when efforts to find her parents failed.

Her father, Martin Wilson, has been living in Granite City, where he went in an unsuccessful search for work, and had no intention of abandoning Marjorie, he said. He was under the impression that she would have to remain at least two months longer in the hospital.

Last night, when he read of his daughter's plight, he returned to St. Louis and arranged to take her from the hospital. She had been returned there from the foster home in which she had been placed.

PICKPOCKETS BUSY IN CROWD AT STANDARD OIL MEETING

Chicago Banker and Broker Among Those Robbed When in Whiting, Ind.

By the Associated Press.

WHITING, Ind., March 8.—Melville A. Traylor, Chicago banker, who was elected to the new board of directors of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, was one of three men who reported that pickpockets had taken their wallets as they mingled with the crowd of shareholders at the annual meeting yesterday.

Traylor declined to say how much he had lost. Arthur B. Ayres, wealthy Newcastle, Ind., man, reported that pickpockets took $200 from him, and Roscoe Carry, wool broker who lives in Chicago, reported his purse and $25 were taken.

mott of Topeka to the bench of the new Tenth Circuit.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has been suggested by many for the Commerce Department aeronautical post. A large number of his proponents have advanced the idea that, in additjon to his qualifications for the office, it would be an excellent thing for aviation if he could be given a position which would lessen the amount of time he spends in the air; thus minimizing the chances of a serious accident.

SELLERS SCARED? IT'S STILL EASY TO GET A DRINK

Few Downtown Saloons Closed as Result of Jones Law, Increasing First-Offense Penalty.

While Federal prohibition officials are declaring that the Jones amendment to the Volstead act, increasing the maximum punishment for a first offense against the law by sale, transportation manufacture, import or export to five years in the penitentiary, or a fine of $10,000 or both, has frightened most of the sellers of alcoholic beverages out of the business, a reporter found otherwise in the downtown district yesterday.

It is true that some of the better known downtown saloons have closed their doors or are dispensing only soft drinks and lunches, but those that are continuing to provide liquor in defiance of this latest device of the prohibitionists are largely in the majority.

Extra Precautions Taken.

Saloon owners and bartenders generally are exhibiting a greater degree of caution, however.

Deputy Administrator Dillon says that since President Coolidge signed the Jones Amendment last week his men have been unable to buy drinks in places where they had little difficulty being served before. This is not surprising, as many of the bartenders are refusing to sell old cash customers who bring strangers into the places with them, unless the old-timer can offer convincing proof that his friends are not prohibition agents.

The Jones amendment is the topic of most of the conversatiin about the barrooms. What will be its effect? What will the two local Federal Judges do about it? Questions that will not be answered in this district until next fall at the earliest.

There are now 500 liquor cases on the docket of the courts to be disposed of before any action could be taken under the new law. All but a few of these cases were placed on the dockets by the filing of criminal informations and they, therefore, are misdemeanors.

Must Obtain Indictments.

To invoke the extreme penalties of the Jones amendment, it will be necessary for the prosecutors to submit the evidence against offenders to a grand jury and obtain indictments, the penalties under the amendment making the offense a felony.

An indication of what may be expected of Judges Faris and Davis in administering the new provision of the law might be taken from their attitudes in imposing sentences under the old provisions.

For the last six years the maximum punishment for second offense by sale of liquor has been five years in the penitentiary or a fine of $2000, or both, equal, except as to the amount of the fine, to the drastic provisions of the Jones amendment for a first offense.

Jail Terms General Rule.

While the courts habitually look with less favor on a second offender than a first offender, neither of the Judges here, who have received many pleas of guilty to second offenses by sales, have seen fit to sentence the offenders to the penitentiary. In fact, jail terms of 60 or 90 days, have been the rule.

Prohibition authorities say bartenders and workers at stills are demanding largely increased wages for the added risk they are taking in view of the Jones amendment. Certain it is the courts will severely punish moonshiners. And those who happen to be aliens may look forward to deportation if they are convicted.

HOHENTHAL MURDER CHARGE IN DEATH OF GIRL DISMISSED

Case Will Be Investigated Further by Grand Jury, However, Prosecutor Says.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HILLSBORO, Mo., March 8.—The charge of second degree murder against Sol Hohenthal, wealthy retired De Soto merchant, in whose apartment there Miss Pearl Petoskey, St. Louis beauty shop owner, was found shot to death Dec. 2, has been dismissed but will be investigated further by a grand jury in May, Prosecuting Attorney Charles W. Green said today.

Hohenthal had taken Miss Petoskey from St. Louis to his apartment in De Soto. She later was found dead with a bullet in her right temple. Hohenthal, who said he was asleep in another room, expressed the belief she had committed suicide.

Former Prosecuting Attorney George V. McCormack swore to a warrant charging Hohenthal with murder, the prosecutor expressing doubt that the young woman had shot herself. Hohenthal was acquitted at a preliminary hearing, whereupon McCormack issued a new information and held him under $10,000 bond. It was this charge that was dismissed by Green, the Prosecutor who succeeded McCormack. Green explained that Attorney General Shartel had ruled the second information was illegal.

ZEPPELIN STOWAWAY PLANS TO BECOME AIRPLANE PILOT

Clarence Terhune, Graf Zeppelin stowaway, is through with the stage and is seriously considering becoming an airplane pilot.

The former caddy, found seated on a sunny bench at Lambert-St. Louis Field yesterday, said he had completed his last contract in a Chicago theater last week. "I don't like stage work," "Red" said. "I don't believe that I have stage fright, but I just don't like the work."

Two Sentenced for Bank Robbery.

BOONVILLE, Mo., March 8.—Thurman Blackmore and Marshall Godsey were convicted here last night by a jury in Circuit Court of participation in the $4450 robbery of the Knobnoster Bank last March 15, and sentenced to 10 years each in the Missouri penitentiary. The convicted men have 10 days in which to ask a new trial.

ONCE READY TO PLEAD GUILTY, NOW IS FREED

Eugene Wysocki Robbery Charges Dismissed, One Witness Dead; Other Unfound.

Two robbery charges against Eugene Wysocki, 25 years old, who offered to plead guilty last November if assured of a parole, were dismissed by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Herbert Bryant of St. Louis County at Clayton today.

The offenses occurred in 1922 but Wysocki had jumped a bond early in 1923 and remained at liberty for five years. He was recaptured last November. Bryant explained that the prosecuting witness in one case was dead and the other could not be located.

In June, 1922, C. W. Paton, 2343A Wash street, was held up in St. Louis County by two men who took his automobile and $8. In December, 1922, Mrs. Anna Deuerbusch, who lived at the Memorial Park Cemetery on Lucas and Hunt road, was beaten and robbed by three men who invaded her home.

Wysocki, who had been arrested 10 or 12 times and had served a term in Boonville Reformatory, was identified in both cases. In the latter case, Joseph Blaski and Theodore Janis, jointly charged, pleaded guilty and were sentenced to five-year prison terms.

After his arrest in November, Wysocki appeared with an attorney before the Circuit Judges and offered to plead guilty on the condition that he be paroled. The offer was refused. Investigation by the Prosecuting Attorney's office showed that Paton had left the city and that Mrs. Deuerbusch was dead.

An automobile theft charge is still pending against Wysocki, the complaining witness being Mrs. Deuerbusch's daughter, Mary, who was held up and robbed of her automobile as she drew up to her mother's home the night of the robbery.

FIRE DESTROYS GARAGE IN COUNTY, LOSS IS $15,000

Blaze at Manchester and Rock Hill Roads Attributed to Crossed Electric Wires.

Fire, believed to have started from crossed electric wires, destroyed a garage at Manchester and Rock Hill roads, St. Louis County, last night with a loss estimated at $15,000.

The garage was owned and operated by Fred VanderMader, who occupied quarters in the rear of the building. The second floor was used as living quarters by the family of VanderMader's son, Henry. Fire apparatus from Brentwood, Maplewood and Richmond Heights went to the scene, but it was found impossible to employ pumpers, due to lack of water and chemicals proved ineffective.

The fire was discovered at 7:30 p. m. by the elder VanderMader, and burned until midnight. Damage to the building was placed at $6000, the remainder to the machinery and automobiles in the garage.

State Regulation of Utilities Has Brought Series of Increases In Rates to St. Louis Consumers

Price of Gas Has Risen 33 1-2 to 64% Since 1918, Street Car Fares Have Gone Up From Five to Eight Cents, Telephone Tolls Are Slightly Higher and Electric Company Has Reduced Charges.

How the city of St. Louis has fared under State regulation of its privately-owned public utilities is shown in a review of rate and valuation cases of concern to the city decided by the Public Service Commission since 1918. The record is one of long delays and consistent advances in rates and valuations of such ultilities as have sought them.

In that period the initial gas rate has been increased from 75 cents to $1 a thousand cubic feet, an increase of 33 1-3 per cent, while in the lower price brackets for larger consumption, the increase runs from 64 to 77 per cent. The latest rates authorized by the Public Service Commission, but not put in effect would have made the increase to the small consumers substantially greater.

Street car fares have increased from 5 cents to 8 cents, with the company still claiming inadequate earnings and apparently preparing to ask for a higher fare.

Rise in Business Phone Rate.

Telephone rates have not changed greatly, although one increase of $900,000 in business rates was approved, a competing company was eliminated and there have been long delays in decision of some minor rate questions.

Electric rates have been reduced repeatedly by voluntary action of the company following continued growth of the business and consistent high earnings.

The Laclede Gas Light Co. has been before the Public Service Commission seeking higher rates repeatedly for the last 10 years. In 1918 the gas rate was 75 cents a thousand cubic feet for the first 7800 feet, the rate that applied to a majority of domestic consumers. Next step for larger consumption were 55 and 45 cents. In July, 1918, the company filed a new schedule proposing an increase to 90 cents for the first step and 70 and 60 cents for the next two steps.

This was in war time. The company asserted an emergency existed and sought a speedy hearing. Among the burdens cited was an additional interest charge of $320,000 a year on bonds that had been refunded at higher rates. Rising wages and taxes also were cited.

Decision Delayed a Year.

The city through its law department contested this case and, despite the apparent urgency for higher rates, the commission suspended the new schedule and did not make a decision until June 21, 1919, nearly a year after the application was filed. Then an increase was granted to 85, 60 and 50 cents for the respective steps.

Meanwhile the commission had held numerous hearings and rehearings, but no thorough inventory of the company's property was undertaken to establish a fair valuation for return. In deciding the case, the commission said:

"No detailed inventory of the plant is available. The work already undertaken in other cases by the accounting and engineering departments of the commission is such that it would be impossible, within the near future, for the commission to make a valuation of this plant or to fully investigate the books and records of the gas company. . . . It is the purpose of the commission to have its experts make a complete valuation of the property of the gas company and an audit of its books at the earliest possible time, but pending the completion of such valuation and audit the commission will, in conformity with its usual practice, fix a tentative value for the purpose of noting the effect of the present and proposed rates. . . .

Tentative Value, $30,000,000.

"From a consideration of all the evidence submitted, we tentatively find that the fair present value of the property of the gas company used in the public service is the sum of $30,000,000."

The new rates were authorized for a period of 13 months, and before that time had elapsed the company was before the commission with a new schedule proposing increased to $1, 75 cents and 65 cents. A few months later and before the commission had acted in this case, the company filed a new petition for still higher rates, proposing $1.25, $1 and 90 cents in lieu of the then existing rates of 85, 60 and 50 cents.

In connection with this case, the gas company submitted an inventory and appraisal showing the original cost of its property to have been $42,354,195, and estimating the reproduction cost at $69,490,000.

In deciding this case on March 31, 1921, giving the company an increase to $1.05, 95 cents and 85 cents, the commission adhered to its previous tentative valuation of $30,000,000, although it said this probably was ultra-conservative and again promised a complete valuation investigation.

Extended for 13 Months.

These rates were allowed for a period of 13 months, and on May 5, 1922, were extended for another 13 months.

The necessity and reasonableness of these rates were questioned in a petition filed May 8, 1922, by the Aluminum Goods Manufacturing Co. It was charged that the rates were not properly graded, were not scientific, and were excessive and discriminatory against large consumers. This petition later was amended so as to open up for review the whole rate structure, and in the hearings that followed, the company asked for an immediate appraisal and audit by the commission.

By a decision given Nov. 28, 1922, the commission added two new rates, 75 cents and 65 cents, for large consumers, but left the other rates unchanged. The tentative valuation of $30,000,000 plus additions and betterments was left as the rate-making base.

The commission retained jurisdiction, and on Feb. 27, 1923, ordered the rates reduced 5 cents a thousand cubic feet and ordered that the engineering department of the commission make an appraisal of the Laclede property. This was nearly four years after the fixing of the tentative valuations of $30,000,000.

The company's operating statement for 1922 had disclosed earnings of 9.29 per cent on the accepted valuation of the gas operating property.

The commission's audit was made as of Oct. 1, 1925, after Charles A. Munroe and associates had bought the company, and it fixed the value of the gas operating property at $45,600,000. It was in this proceeding that the commission first allowed an item of $5,818,000 for going value, and in the latest valuation case this item was continued at that figure, despite the protest of the city that it was entirely too high.

The first effort of the company to collect a "service charge" came with the filing of a new rate schedule April 25, 1927. There was a minimum monthly charge of 50 cents which, however, paid for its pro rata amount of gas at the regular rate. In lieu of this the company proposed a charge of 90 cents for the first 400 feet of gas which was at the rate of $3.60 a thousand cubic feet for that amount. This was particularly a "service charge" designed to pay "out-of-pocket" cost of serving the customer whether he used any gas or not, but also to include the small amount of gas specified.

After hearings in this case, the commission revalued the gas operating property at $47,000,000, retaining the item of $5,818,000 for going value, and allowed a minimum or service charge of 75 cents for the first 300 feet of gas and a maximum charge of 95 cents a thousand cubic feet for additional consumption. This was an increase of about $700,000 a year for the company and was designed to apply particularly to the small consumer. Both the city and the company filed motions for rehearing of this case, and

"$40 Value and $60 Style"—that's what one of America's foremost men's clothing authorities says about the new BARTLETT Clothes for Spring.

ONE week ago we started the ball rolling—we announced the new BARTLETT Clothes for Spring—while others were still trying to sell last season's leftovers at cut prices.

It took courage, but we're glad we went right ahead. Your response has been tremendous.

Men who know clothes came into this store curious to see these new styles. They lingered to admire and, convinced that the values were really as good as we said—they bought.

We have had a busy week. We never realized so many men wanted Spring clothes now. So again we invite every man who wants the new things first—new styles, new patterns and new colors—to come in now and see these brand new ideas in BARTLETT Clothes for Spring.

it is still pending with the proposed rates in suspension.

Another point decided in favor of the company in 1921 was the granting of the right to impose a penalty of 10 per cent of the bill on customers failing to pay by a certain date each month.

The rise in street car fares began in 1918. The application of the United Railways for an increase above the 5-cent rate fixed in the franchise from the city was made Feb. 6 of that year. A month later the Public Service Commission issued an order holding it had authority to abrogate the franchise contract rate. The city carried this question to the State Supreme Court, where the position of the commission was upheld.

Carfare Up to 6 Cents.

A few months later the commission raised the fare to 6 cents and fixed the company's valuation at $52,800,000.

The next year the company went into receivership, and in 1920 the commission fixed the fare at 7 cents for adults and 3 cents for children. It revised the valuation on the basis if $51,781,348 for property used in the public service.

Not until 1926 was further effort made to increase the fare. Then the company asked for a fare of 8 cents cash, two tokens for 15 cents. On the request of the city, the commission ordered its accountants to make a full and complete audit of the company's books.

Early in 1927, before decision of this case by the commission, the company undertook to put the advanced rates into effect by resort to the United States Courts. Application was made to the District Court of the Western District of Missouri for a restraining order prohibiting the commission from interfering with the higher faces. A temporary restraining order was issued and for a short period the higher fares were charged, but on March 1, 1927, the Federal Court set aside the temporary restraining order and the company no longer could collect the higher fares.

Carrier Wins Its Plea.

But in June of that year, the commission decided the case and granted the fares asked for, 8 cents cash or two tokens for 15 cents. At the same time tentative rate-making valuation was fixed at $52,024,192 and further proceedings were ordered definitely to determine the fair value.

Further hearings were held and on June 20, 1928, after the Public Service Co. had purchased the property from the receiver, the commission issued an order finding the fair valuation of the property used in public service to be $63,500,000, and authorizing a straight 8-cent fare. This case is pending in the Cole County Circuit Court on the city's application for review and was recently argued. Meanwhile the authorized fare is being collected.

In 1922 the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. applied to the Public Service Commission for authority to purchase the Kinloch Telephone Co., a competitor, whose rates were lower than the Bell rates. Permission was given, but pending complete physical consolidation, the Bell company was required to operate the Kinloch exchanges at their existing rates. However, when a Kinloch subscriber without Bell service was given the Bell service he was charged the regular Bell rates.

Increase in Rates Granted.

After the consolidation had been completed in 1924, the Bell company filed application for an increase in business rates aggregating $900,000 a year. This increase was granted in full June 6, 1925, and the company's property was valued for rate-making at $24,703,459.

With the introduction of the dial system in many of the exchanges, the company imposed an additional charge of 25 cents a month on business telephones with dial connected to private branch exchanges. The city filed a protest, but the case has been pending for about a year without decision by the commission. Meanwhile the additional charge is being collected.

The repeated reductions in electric rates made voluntarily by Union Electric Light and Power Co. have brought the average cost a kilowatt hour for domestic users down from 7.67 cents in 1918 to 4.79 cents in 1928. This is a reduction of 42 per cent. Commercial and power rates also have been reduced but not in so large a percentage. The latest reduction made last summer applied only to commercial and power customers.

Electric Rates Come Down.

Since 1918, reductions were made effective Oct. 31, 1919; Sept. 1, 1923, and June 1, 1927. The announced policy of the company under the present management is to make such reductions in rates as are justified after a fair return has been earned on the company's property. Rapid growth of the company's business has made possible proportionately lower operating costs and contributed to rate reductions. On the other hand, rate reductions undoubtedly have contributed to growth of electric current consumption.

Although the city has welcomed the voluntary electric rate reductions and accepted them, it has at times contended the reductions could have been greater. The city contented the reduction made last year saving commercial and power customers about $700,000 a year, should have been extended also to domestic users for a like saving and still would have enabled the company to earn a fair return.

For more than 10 years the company has been practically the sole judge of the fairness of its return. The latest valuation of its property by the Public Service Commission through an audit was made in 1915, when the rate-mak-

4 KILLED, 30 HURT BY DYNAMITE SET OFF IN BARN FIRE

By the Associated Press.

SCRIBNER, Neb., March 8.—Four men are dead and more than 30 persons injured as a result of the explosion of a dozen cases of dynamite in a fire last night on the farm of County Commissioner Carl Hollander. The explosive was stored in the barn for use in blasting out ice around bridges during the spring thaw.

The dead are: Gus Pattack, assistant Postmaster; Guy E. Clark, barber; Fred Ribble, mechanic; Fred Felgner, grain store owner.

Two other volunteer firemen are in grave condition. They are W. F. Strube, garage owner, and Arthur Schoeneck, truck driver.

Twenty-one persons, severely injured, were in the Scribner General Hospital. Doctors and nurses came from Dodge, North Bend, Fremont and Omaha.

Firemen approaching the place were told by a spectator that there was no danger of explosion as there were no caps with the dynamite. Hardly had this assurance been given before a tremendous explosion rocked the countryside.

PERSIA AND TURKEY FOUND TO BE SOURCES OF OPIUM

League of Nations Committee Reports It Is Unable to Trace Distribution.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, March 8.—A committee report to the League of Nations today said that Persia and Turkey are producing huge quantities of opium, the distribution of which the Advisory Committee of the League is unable to follow.

. The report, presented by Raoul Dandurand, Canadian delegate, said the production in Persia and Turkey, so far as the committee was able to ascertain, amounted to more than 1,000,000 kilograms per annum.

The committee suggested the attention of the Persian Government be drawn to the matter, and also that efforts be made to obtain information regarding the production in Turkey, which is not a member of the League.

BRITAIN'S NAVAL ESTIMATE $6,945,000 LESS THAN IN 1928

No Diminution in Strength of Fleet and Air Service, However; Net Total $270,386,000.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 8.—Naval estimates for 1929, made public today, show a decrease of £1,435,000 (about $6,945,000) from last year, but there will be no diminution in the strength of the fleet and the naval air service. The net total for this year's estimate is about $270,386,000.

W. C. Bridgeman, first Lord of the Admiralty, in a statement accompanying the estimates said:

"Apart from the fact that the reduction is somewhat greater than seems to have been expected, the estimates present few specially noteworthy features, based as they are on the naval policy adopted in 1925 when the program of new construction was announced in Parliament."

MRS. CHARLES H. SABIN QUITS

National Committeewoman Opposes G. O. P. Dry Views.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Mrs. Charles H. Sabin resigned today as member from New York of the Republican National Committee. Her letter giving notice of her retirement went to Dr. Hurbert Work, chairman of the national committee, in Washington, and gave no specific reason for her action other than that she had served ten years and it was time for another to take the work.

There has never been any se-secrecy about the fact that she was not in sympathy with the dry policy of the present Republican leaders. She has been outspoken in her opposition to prohibition by governmental edict, although always a strong advocate of temperance. Her husband, Charles H. Sabin, chairman of the board of the Guaranty Trust Co., served as treasurer of the association against the prohibition amendment last summer and was a Smith supporter. Friends of Mrs. Sabin say it is not unlikely that she may take leadership of a group of women who are opposed to prohibition. Mrs. Sabin was Pauline Morton, daughter of the late Paul Morton who was Secretary of the Navy under President Roosevelt.

ing value was fixed at $26,000,000. Since then, additions and betterments carried on the company's books and accepted by the commission had brought the book value up to $59,000,000 in 1928. Present value claimed by the company is $62,000,000.

At the request of the city, following the latest rate reduction, the Public Service Commission ordered its engineers to make a complete audit of the company for the purpose of determining its fair valuation. This audit has been in progress since last fall.

PAPER SAYS EUGENE O'NEILL WILL WED CARLOTTA MONTEREY

Quotes Letter Telling of Intention to Marry Actress When Wife Divorces Him.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The Herald-Tribune says Eugene O'Neill playwright, has disclosed in a letter to a friend that he intends to marry Carlotta Monterey, actress, as soon as his present wife obtains a divorce. O'Neill has been abroad for a year. He is now in France after a trip through the Orient.

O'Neill's first marriage to Kathleen Jenmins, ended in a divorce in 1912. His present wife was Mrs. Agnes Boulton Burton when they were married in 1918. They have two children.

The Herald-Tribune quotes O'Neill's letter as follows: "Carlotta and I are going to be married as soon as my wife divorces me. I'm just beginning to realize how much the journey did give me. When I was on it, with new faces, places, impressions of all sorts banging against me one after another, I was too confused to sort them out. It is only now that they're assuming their unique values and appear clearly. . . . The reporters in Shanghai got on my trail to show me up as a fake masquerading as O'Neill. Can you beat it?

"I've started work again. One reason I came back so soon was I had a strong hunch I'd never write a line east of Suez and I felt a longing to get back on the job."

JAMES W. BYRNES CALLS H. S. PRIEST OUTSTANDING MAN

Advises Voters Interested in Growth, Prosperity and Future of City to Choose Him.

James W. Byrnes, who was Democratic nominee for Mayor in 1921, and who is supporting former Judge Henry S. Priest in today's primary, reviewed the array of Republican and Democratic nominees in a radio talk last evening, on Station WIL.

"We are approaching the season during which each succeeding four years all of the good government element of the city becomes excited for about 30 days and is casting about for the man best equipped for the office of Mayor of the city of St. Louis," he said. "During all of this time the professional politician, and those who suck from the public pap, have been busily engaged during the entire period of four years maintaining their status and continuing patrons of the pie counter. This being the case, it would appear necessary, and, in fact, the only possible thing the general public may do, to review all of the candidates presenting themselves for the important position of chief executive of the city of St. Louis.

"As a matter of fact, there is no partisan consideration except for those within that organized body that secures its livelihood from the consideration of partisan politics, which has no reference whatever to a bigger, greater and better St. Louis. In view of the circumstances, it would appear that this latter consideration is the only one to which the general public may attach its support. Just who is the best candidate for the office at this time suggests some note of the gentlemen who have presented themselves, and it is to this sequence we should give consideration.

"First, the present incumbent, his honor, the Mayor, the pride of the Ozarks, who is busily engaged with the slogan "One good term deserves another." He is most boastful, in fact, has placarded the city with respect to certain items of improvement under the bond issue, which was passed neither by himself nor his predecessor, but by a group of progressive men, with vision, desiring progress in the city of St. Louis, and to secure same followed the very practical method of obtaining the support of the two local committees of the organized parties in the city of St. Louis to get out the vote. However, this gentleman becomes rather amusing in all of his protestations. He lays great stress on his achievements. Really on the question of the airport it is a wonderful performance, wherein the head of his department is very much in the position of the square peg being fitted into a round hole—a complete, utter and dismal failure.

"On the other hand we have a most genial and experienced contractor asking the nomination with a great cry of economy. In fact, both of these gentlemen, the Mayor and Mr. Kiel, are stressing this point. They have become so acute and so insistent that it would seem they are presenting the pitiable spectacle of a dress rehearsal of that classic kitchen drama wherein the pot sagely calls the kettle black. Whereas, a matter of fact on the record, Mr. Kiel operated the city with a concealed deficit, the present Mayor with an acknowledged deficit. Now, just on what ground have either of these gentlemen, the lord high custodians of the deficit, any claim to economy?

His Opinion of Simon.

"Then we turn to a man, my old friend Simon, an educated, cultivated man—in a recent address he admits it—standing high in his profession, branching out to become Mayor of the city. It would appear he is best fitted and best suited to the position of Health Commissioner.

"Then we have a most genial, affable, and quick-witted attorney, a great prosecutor, indeed, with an enviable record in that direction, but with no background of administrative experience, but he is very practical. He states that the great philosopher, Aristotle, who has written the fundamental things of life and government, does not count because he is not registered. This is in the element of practical politics and it might not be out of place to invite the attention of the practical politicians to the fact that some years ago a candidate who was supported by the entire local Democratic contingent, and who refused to announce his position on a fundamental of American government—sumptuary law—was defeated, and lost the city to a candidate who merely run for the express purpose of insisting that this questions be met. I refer to Judge Henry S. Priest.

"If we consider without sentiment and without prejudice all of the men seeking the suffrage at the present time for the office of Mayor, there is but one outstanding man with a knowledge of the fundamentals underlying the American Government, with experience in large affairs, with business acumen, and with a knowledge of the laws applying thereto. There is just one candidate presented to us with these qualifications and that is Judge Henry S. Priest. He does not need the office, he does not seek the office, but would consider it the honorable rounding out of a long and useful career in the service of this community.

"It would appear that the voter looking to the interest of the city, which indeed is his own interest, would vote in the primary regardless of party, as a matter of enlightened selfishness, with a view to the growth, prosperity and future of the city of St. Louis for Judge Henry S. Priest."

Women's Votes Will Influence Election Results

If women use the same good judgment in casting their vote today in the city primary election that the average homemaker displays in the selection of her furniture at the Prufrock-Litton Furniture Store, Fourth and St. Charles Streets, the City of St. Louis will be benefited.

Mr. Coolidge's Own Story

In April Cosmopolitan he Breaks his Silence and tells

THE PRICE in HEARTACHES of BEING PRESIDENT

Now and then a President of the United States has written something which became historical as a human document rather than as a state paper. Washington's farewell address, Lincoln's letter to a mother; these were the thoughts of great men written in a manner so human that none could fail to feel the heart behind them.

In April Cosmopolitan Calvin Coolidge begins his account to the American people of his years in the White House. We believe he has written a human document as fine as those by Washington and Lincoln.

WITH such an outstanding feature as keystone of a superb issue, Cosmopolitan could well have postponed starting a new serial by an author as distinguished as Fannie Hurst. However, here it is—the finest novel ever written by the author of "Humoresque."

"RED LIKKER"

In April Cosmopolitan

We put especial emphasis on that word "human." You, of course, have heard that Calvin Coolidge was a sphinx. That he had ice-water in his veins. That he never smiled.

Bosh! Calvin Coolidge enjoys a joke as much as you do. He can tell as entertaining an anecdote as you can. He's no hail-fellow-well-met—thank heaven—but he's a very human being.

Those who thought they were smart in calling him a sphinx seemed to resent the reserve of their President. That never worried him. He believed the words of the President were important; that they should be chosen carefully and used sparingly. But Calvin Coolidge, the man—that's a different matter. And it's the man who talks to you in his own story.

In Part One, in April Cosmopolitan, he tells you the human reasons why he did not choose to run in 1928. They are reasons which will touch the heart of every American; reasons which will make you understand when he says, "It costs a lot to be President."

We may exceed our province as prophets when we say that we believe these words by Mr. Coolidge will become historical, but we are within our province as editors when we say that his is the most warmly human document it ever has been our good fortune to publish.

YOUR family is one of those for whom Mr. Coolidge's story in Cosmopolitan was written. The April issue containing the opening instalment is now on sale.

FUMES OVERCOME SIX FIREMEN AT 1014 OLIVE STREET

Three Sent to Hospital in Fire From Burning Batteries in Universal Electric Co. Basement.

Six firemen were overcome by fumes from burning batteries while fighting a fire in the basement of a six-story building at 1014 Olive street, occupied by the Universal Electrical Supply Co., last night.

Three of the firemen, Lieut. Julius Vogel and Edward Maloney, Truck Co. No. 3, and Ray Juergens, Engine Co. No. 41, are at City Hospital recovering from the effects of the fumes. Three others, Capt. Walter Schoff, Engine Co. No. 6, and Lieut. Frank Fahey and Thomas Cox, Engine Co. No. 14, were revived at the scene.

The fire was discovered at 8 o'clock by Marcus Traube, a salesman for the electrical company. A cloud of smoke issued from the basement as Traube opened a door. He turned in an alarm and the first firemen on the scene sent in a second alarm. Firemen experienced great difficulty in penetrating the smoke-filled basement, the six named above being overcome in the attempt. After the blaze was extinguished and the basement cleared of smoke it was found that the fire had been confined to a storage room for dry batteries and that the damage was about $500, covered by insurance. The cause of the fire was not learned.

POISONS DAUGHTER, KILLS SELF

Woman Leaves Note Saying Child Is Too Young to Face World.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., March 8.—Mrs. Minnie Layton, 31 years old, committed suicide yesterday after giving some of the poison she took herself to her daughter, Dolores, 7. The child was not expected to recover. Donald Layton, 10, one of three other children, found them when he returned from school. His mother had left a note, asking forgiveness and stating she was taking the child with her because she was "too young to face the world."

William Layton, the husband, could assign no reason for the act, he said.

Women's Votes Will Influence Election Results

If women use the same good judgment in casting their vote today in the city primary election that the average homemaker displays in the selection of her furniture at the Prufrock-Litton Furniture Store, Fourth and St. Charles Streets, the City of St. Louis will be benefited.

Visit their store today or Saturday and see the new Spring Furniture Styles at their store!

MASTER PLUMBERS IN ILLEGAL PACT, REFEREE DECIDES

Bankruptcy Official Holds St. Louis Association Is Operating in Restraint of Trade.

The St. Louis Master Plumbers' Association, an organization of 208 members comprising about 40 per cent of the contracting and employing plumbers of the city and county, was held to be operating under an agreement in restraint of trade in a decision by Referee in Bankruptcy Coles yesterday which disallowed the association's claim for alleged "dues" of $3774 against the bankrupt Henry D. M. Doerner Plumbing Co.

When the plumbing company entered bankruptcy last July, the association filed its claim for "dues" based on a system of charging members 2 per cent of the amount of accepted bids for contract work. The trustee in bankruptcy sought to avoid the claim on the grounds that the association was operating under an agreement which was in restraint of trade, lessened competition and controlled prices. Eugene J. Blake, secretary of the association, testified at a former hearing that the practices complained of were designed purely for "statistical and educational purposes."

Referee Coles held that provisions of the association's constitution, by-laws and rules and regulations that members must notify the secretary of their intention to bid on a contract at least a day in advance, that the bids must be opened at the office of the secretary and only the bidding members notified of the result, and that members may revise bids upwards, but not downwards, constitute a combination in contravention of Missouri statutes.

Although the Referee did not find that the association actually fixes prices, he pointed out that "the evidence as a whole raises a strong suspicion that the elaborate procedures governing the making of contracts by members is intended to operate as a price-fixing scheme."

Reviewing the evidence on this phase of the case he explains in his opinion the provisions of the association's rules that arouse such a suspicion.

"A member is required to report to the secretary at least a day in advance his intention of bidding," the opinion points out. "A member who makes a bid must file it with the secretary. No member can make a revised bid lower than the one on file, but he can file an increased bid before opening of bids by the builder. It is required that the list of bids be disclosed only to bidding members. The member who is 'low' is declared to be entitled to the job and further bidding is prohibited.

"The association's contention that these provisions are intended to provide statistical and educational information for members does not seem to be a plausible and convincing explanation.

"If the amount bid has an educational value for other members, it is difficult to see why the amount of the bid is disclosed only to bidders and not given out to all so they may share in this educational feature.

"Again, if the scheme is designed to furnish statistical and educational information, why are members required to notify the secretary a day in advance of making the bids? Why are members allowed to make revised bids increasing but not decreasing the amounts? Why must copies of bids filed with the secretary be opened for the sole inspection of bidders before the successful bidder can sign a contract for the work?

"The attorney for the trustee (Harry A. Frank) suggests a more plausible explanation of the scheme.

"He contends this is a thinly disguised price-fixing scheme and that members are required to notify the secretary in advance so they may be known in advance and can get together to determine who, if any of the members, is to get the work and at what price. He contends further that the other features of the scheme are intended to enable bidding members to check up on one another and see that the original agreement is carried out and to safeguard the agreed 'low' bidder in obtaining and retaining the contract at the price of the bid.

"Although all the principal features of the constitution, by-laws and rules and regulations seem consistent with the operation of such a price-fixing scheme, some material links in the essential chain of facts are left to conjecture. There is no positive showing that members do confer in advance and agree on the amount of bids to be submitted.

"As the evidence engenders only a strong suspicion of the existence of an illegal combination with reference to this phase of the case, I have concluded it does not warrant a finding that members are participants in an illegal price-fixing scheme.

"But as the practices of the claimant contravene Missouri statutes prohibiting combinations in restraint of trade and which tend to lessen competition, it follows the claim must be disallowed."

In 1925 the Attorney-General of Missouri began anti-trust proceedings against 19 corporate members of the association, based upon information gathered by the Post-Dispatch, but dropped them in September, 1927, with the announcement that the concerns had made an oral agreement to discontinue practices complained of.

SHOTS SCARE ROBBERS IN DRUG STORE HOLDUP

John Hanneke, druggist at 5400 Southwest avenue, was behind the prescription counter in the rear when two armed men entered the store at 10:35 o'clock last night and held up his sons, August H. and Frank X. Hanneke, who were in the front of the store. The father obtained a revolver, but decided not to shoot at the holdup men through fear his sons might step within range. Instead, he fired four shots into the floor. The holdup men ran out and away.

Augustine Gonzales, 30 years old, a Mexican, 1403 Chouteau avenue, did not understand two youths who ordered him to hold up his hands on the Eighteenth street viaduct. He made no answer. They slugged him, fracturing his skull. He staggered to St. Mary's Infirmary and collapsed.

Other holdups: Drug store of Mrs. Ida Fiedelman, 3442 North Ninth street, $25 and 10 ounces of narcotics; Kroger store at 5097 Union boulevard, $44; Max Gold, 5347 Vernon avenue, and Miss Ida Turk, 5539 Enright avenue, held up in front of her home by two men who took his auto.

Benjamin Johnson, 18, a Negro, arrested for investigation, had a Russian ruble and two Stone Mountain half-dollars in his possession. Later Samuel Levi, grocer at 1200 Wash street, reported his store had been entered and $5, a Russian ruble and two Stone Mountain half-dollars taken. Johnson then confessed the burglary and implicated another Negro.

Farm Institute Election.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 8.—William Webb of Plainfield was rectors Tuesday, succeeding W. A. Farmers' Institute Board of Directors yesterday, succeeding W. A. Curtiss of Stockton. Senator Harry Wilson of Pinckneyville was elected vice president and H. E. Young was re-elected secretary. Galesburg was selected for the next convention.

M'DANIEL SUPPORTED BY 27 COMMITTEE MEMBERS

Some members of the Democratic City Committee and some Democratic ward organizations deferred making indorsements of candidates for the nomination for Mayor for so long that it did not become possible until today to determine the final lineup of the party body. Doubt existed in a few cases even after the election got under way today.

Lawrence McDaniel is supported by 27 members of the committee and claims two more. Henry S. Priest is backed by 21 members and claims one more. Dr. John H. Simon has only three members for him. Two committeemen have withheld announcements, one of them having been ill.

McDaniel has the aid of 16 committeemen and 11 women members of the committee and claims in addition both the man and the woman from the Twentieth Ward. Priest is backed by 14 women and seven men and claims the aid of another woman. One committeewoman is among Dr. Simon's supporters.

Ten ward organizations indorsed McDaniel, three indorsed Priest and six voted not to make a choice. There were differences of opinion between the men's and women's organizations in some wards. McDaniel has the indorsement of men's groups in six wards and of the women's in one. In two wards the women's units voted for Priest and in one for Dr. Simon, while another woman's organization voted neutrality. The attitude of two women's organizations and of both men and women in one ward has not been reported.

EDDIE STINSON TAKES OFF FOR NON-REFUELING RECORD

Will Attempt to Better Mark Now Held by Two German Airmen.

BAY CITY, Mich., March 8.—Eddie Stinson and Randolph Page, Detroit aviators, made a successful take-off from the ice of Saginaw Bay this morning in an attempt to establish a new non-refueling airplane endurance flight record. Flying their Stinson-Detroit monoplane, the "Sally Sovereign," they made a graceful take-off with none of the difficulties that marred their attempts last week.

The plane carried approximately 800 gallons of gasoline, which Stinson hopes will keep it in the air close to 80 hours. They seek to better the record of the Germans, Risticz and Zimmermann, of 65 hours and 31 minutes.

SUIT OVER BIRGER ESTATE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HARRISBURG, Ill., March 8.—Attorneys representing creditors of the late Charley Birger are preparing to institute suit against Mrs. Ray Schamsky of St. Louis, sister of the executed gangster, in an effort to have deeds to Birger's property set aside. The contention is that Birger made over the deeds to his sister while he was in the Benton jail awaiting execution, with a view of defrauding his creditors.

The administrator appointed to look after the estate found there wa no estate, that Birger had transferred all his property to his sister, hence the contemplated suit. Several judgments were entered against the estate yesterday by various creditors. It is said the amount due the creditors is approximately $1600.

MAYOR PLEADS TO BE ALLOWED TO FINISH WORK

Asks Voters Not to Break Up Business Organization He Has Created During His Term.

Mayor Miller, in the last speech of his campaign, a radio talk over Station KMOX, last night asked Republican voters to give his administration "a chance to complete the many things we now have in process rather than break up this large business organization."

He declared that, in the face of opposition by political opponents, he had carried out all of his campaign pledges of four years ago and laid a groundwork for the city's future.

"Regardless of what any one might say or whatever whispering campaign may be circulating among you," he said, "I have sincerely and honestly from the day I took office tried to be the Mayor of all St. Louis. I have tried to make no discriminations between persons or sections. I have been unmindful of the race, creed, religion or color of any citizen.

"There are about me in the City Hall officials and employes of many different nationalities, creeds and religions, but I pay no attention to what they are. What I want is work and accomplishment and I have tried by an example to be an inspiration to my organization.

"I do not claim to be perfect, as my opponents would have you believe. I am fully aware of my shortcomings and I strive to overcome them. But I will let no man question my earnest endeavor, my sincerity of purpose, or my honesty and fairness.

"If I have not been born an orator that is my misfortune, but I feel that conversation alone does not make a city. If it did, the Delmar viaduct, the southern approach to the Municipal Bridge, the Courthouse, the lighting system and all the lesser building projects, as well as the better conduct and condition of all of our public institutions, would not have been accomplished in these past four years.

"It is too much to ask you that a chance be given us to complete the many things that we now have in process rather than break up this large business organization, which I think I am justified in taking pride in? We have worked up a real organization at the City Hall which is not hitting on all cylinders, and which I believe can do more for you the next four years than any other set of men you might choose."

The personnel of the Anti-Change of Administration Committee, which had been withheld during the campaign, was announced last night on the eve of the primary in a radio talk by William R. Orthwein, chairman of the organization. The members of the committee, he said, were: Nelson Darragh, Howard V. Stephens, August A. Busch Jr., Edward Magnus, A. M. Cornwell, F. J. Cornwell, Edwin B. Meissner, H. W. Geller, H. L. Hellmuth, J. E. Sullivan, E. H. Turner, Richard E. Gruner, A. C. F. Meyer, Julius Seidel, William T. Mellow, Lloyd Scruggs, Pery J. Orthwein and Cyrus Crane Willmore.

SIX MEN, TWO WOMEN HELD IN 19 PEORIA LIQUOR DEATHS

Charged With Murder; Father and Son Sought; Samples Being Analyzed.

By the Associated Press.

PEORIA, Ill., March 8.—Six men and two women are under arrest, charged with murder; a father and his son are being sought as suspects; and Federal prohibition agents are analyzing samples of liquor, as investigation of 19 deaths from poisonous liquor in Peoria, Galesburg and vicinity goes forward.

Ed Bailey, and his son, Wesley, are sought on a charge of having sold poisonous alcohol to Mrs. A. Carey of Peoria, one of the first to die. Herman Wolforth, alleged bootlegger, has been arrested and, according to police, has confessed selling liquor to George Mills of Bloomington, a student at Illinois Wesleyan University, and Harold Huddleston of Peoria. Huddleston died, supposedly from the effects of the alcohol, and Mills was made seriously ill.

Mills appeared before the State's Attorney and confessed that he and Huddleston had bought the liquor from Wolforth, who implicated Morris Mansfield, already charged with murder.

Federal authorities entered the inquiry with the dispatch from Chicago to Peoria of an agent working under George Hurlburt, assistant Federal Prohibition Administrator there. Hurlburt said the agent would take back a sample of the liquor to Chicago.

SHOTS SCARE ROBBERS IN DRUG STORE HOLDUP

John Hanneke, druggist at 5400 Southwest avenue, was behind the prescription counter in the rear when two armed men entered the store at 10:35 o'clock last night and held up his sons, August H. and Frank X. Hanneke, who were in the front of the store. The father obtained a revolver, but decided not to shoot at the holdup men through fear his sons might step within range. Instead, he fired four shots into the floor. The holdup men ran out and away.

Augustine Gonzales, 30 years old, a Mexican, 1403 Chouteau avenue, did not understand two youths who ordered him to hold up his hands on the Eighteenth street viaduct. He made no answer. They slugged him, fracturing his skull. He staggered to St. Mary's Infirmary and collapsed.

Other holdups: Drug store of Mrs. Ida Fiedelman, 3442 North Ninth street, $25 and 10 ounces of narcotics; Kroger store at 5097 Union boulevard, $44; Max Gold, 5347 Vernon avenue, and Miss Ida Turk, 5539 Enright avenue, held up in front of her home by two men who took his auto.

Benjamin Johnson, 18, a Negro, arrested for investigation, had a Russian ruble and two Stone Mountain half-dollars in his possession. Later Samuel Levi, grocer at 1200 Wash street, reported his store had been entered and $5, a Russian ruble and two Stone Mountain half-dollars taken. Johnson then confessed the burglary and implicated another Negro.

Farm Institute Election.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 8.—William Webb of Plainfield was rectors Tuesday, succeeding W. A. Farmers' Institute Board of Directors yesterday, succeeding W. A. Curtiss of Stockton. Senator Harry Wilson of Pinckneyville was elected vice president and H. E. Young was re-elected secretary. Galesburg was selected for the next convention.

M'DANIEL SUPPORTED BY 27 COMMITTEE MEMBERS

Some members of the Democratic City Committee and some Democratic ward organizations deferred making indorsements of candidates for the nomination for Mayor for so long that it did not become possible until today to determine the final lineup of the party body. Doubt existed in a few cases even after the election got under way today.

Lawrence McDaniel is supported by 27 members of the committee and claims two more. Henry S. Priest is backed by 21 members and claims one more. Dr. John H. Simon has only three members for him. Two committeemen have withheld announcements, one of them having been ill.

McDaniel has the aid of 16 committeemen and 11 women members of the committee and claims in addition both the man and the woman from the Twentieth Ward. Priest is backed by 14 women and seven men and claims the aid of another woman. One committeewoman is among Dr. Simon's supporters.

Ten ward organizations indorsed McDaniel, three indorsed Priest and six voted not to make a choice. There were differences of opinion between the men's and women's organizations in some wards. McDaniel has the indorsement of men's groups in six wards and of the women's in one. In two wards the women's units voted for Priest and in one for Dr. Simon, while another woman's organization voted neutrality. The attitude of two women's organizations and of both men and women in one ward has not been reported.

Will Attempt to Better Mark Now Held by Two German Airmen.

BAY CITY, Mich., March 8.—Eddie Stinson and Randolph Page, Detroit aviators, made a successful take-off from the ice of Saginaw Bay this morning in an attempt to establish a new non-refueling airplane endurance flight record. Flying their Stinson-Detroit monoplane, the "Sally Sovereign," they made a graceful take-off with none of the difficulties that marred their attempts last week.

The plane carried approximately 800 gallons of gasoline, which Stinson hopes will keep it in the air close to 80 hours. They seek to better the record of the Germans, Risticz and Zimmermann, of 65 hours and 31 minutes.

SUIT OVER BIRGER ESTATE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HARRISBURG, Ill., March 8.—Attorneys representing creditors of the late Charley Birger are preparing to institute suit against Mrs. Ray Schamsky of St. Louis, sister of the executed gangster, in an effort to have deeds to Birger's property set aside. The contention is that Birger made over the deeds to his sister while he was in the Benton jail awaiting execution, with a view of defrauding his creditors.

The administrator appointed to look after the estate found there was no estate, that Birger had transferred all his property to his sister, hence the contemplated suit. Several judgments were entered against the estate yesterday by various creditors. It is said the amount due the creditors is approximately $1600.

POWERS LIKELY TO SHARE STOCK OF REPARATION BANK

Under This Scheme, U. S. Would Have Right to Part Ownership of International Depository.

By ARNO DOSCH FLEUROT,
Paris Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

Copyright, 1929, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (the New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

PARIS, March 8.—Plans for the creation of the international bank to which will be assigned the entire task of collecting German reparations will come before the plenary session of the Young committee today for elaboration.

The possibilities of the bank in international finance are being discussed editorially here. The Temps says it might easily acquire the task of handling Allied war debt payments as well as reparations, a possibility which has been foreseen from the beginning, but which has never been presented before the experts, who have scrupulously avoided any direct references to war debts of the Allies.

The bank is Owen D. Young's idea, but has been developed in detail by many others, notably Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the German delegation, so Young is trying to avoid having his name attached to the plan, which is expected to prove more important and far-reaching than the Dawes plan.

Board to Have Great Power.

The bank's board of directors, it is already apparent, will have control of international finances. The question of transfer will be placed in the board's hands as one of its ordinary duties. The directors, it is now seen, might order Germany to cease reparation payments for a limited time, without Germany's even asking for a moratorium. They will have a finger on the financial pulse of the world as no other group of men ever has had before.

Actual organization details have been left vague in the public announcements. It has not been decided whether the bank will issue stock which the general public will be able to buy. It is more likely, it is reported, that the stock will be divided among the world's principal nations, according to their financial importance, letting in the United States.

Strain Relieved.

Presentation of the plan has had a tonic effect on the conference as it gives something tangible to work on and has relieved the strain which was beginning to be felt over the length of time the conference had been in progress without discussing any definite reparations figure.

The bank will be established first in principle, it seems certain, and after the plenary session goes over it today the plan in considerable detail may be made public.

The experts make no secret of the fact that they consider it the greatest undertaking in the history of international finance, and that it will have as its work the solution of the biggest international problem with which the world has ever been faced.

Further possibilities, such as taking over war debts and turning them into unnoticed financial operations as well as chances for controlling international credits and stimulating world trade, are regarded as inevitable developments which will take form, however, only after the bank is in operation.

TWO, USING NEW DEVICE, RISE 200 FEET FROM SUBMARINE

Reach Surface Uninjured in 13 Minutes in Test of Mechanical Lung.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ON BOARD U. S. S. MALLARD AT SEA, Off Key West, Fla., March 8.—Men pitted science against the waves in the Gulf Stream off Key West yesterday in an effort to make the sea bottom safe for crews trapped in submarines, and came out victorious.

Lieut. C. B. Momsen and Chief Torpedoman Edward Kaloniski, members of the volunteer crew of the S-4, wearing only the recently invented mechanical lung and ordinary bathing suits, escaped from the S-4 while the undersea craft was submerged to a depth of 200 feet, and made their ascent to the surface uninjured in 13 minutes.

This is the first time, naval officers think, that a man has been at such a depth outside a vessel and lived.

The two men left the submarine through the new escape lock. Their ascent to the surface was aided by a life line attached to a buoy which was released by Kaloniski, the first to leave the submarine. Chief Gunner Clarence Tibbals, who remained in the escape lock to close the door after the two had made their escape, suffered an attack of the bends and had to be placed in the recompression chamber. He recovered rapidly.

Medical examination of the two men who escaped from the undersea craft showed they had suffered no ill effects. Lieut. Momsen, co-inventor of the lung, said that breathing conditions throughout his ascent were normal. Earlier in the day escapes had been made by the two men from a depth of 160 feet.

HOUSE KILLS BILL SADDLING COST OF INSANE ON STATE

Measure to Relieve Counties of Paying for Their Charges Beaten When Entered for Engrossment.

By BOYD F. CARROLL,
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 8.—A bill designed to relieve the counties of paying approximately $1,150,000 of their present annual bill for maintenance of their insane persons in State eleemosynary institutions, by transferring this burden to the State, was defeated by the House late yesterday, without a record vote, when it came up for engrossment.

Discussion of the bill developed into a wrangle over whether the counties should pay for the support of patients they send to the State hospitals, or whether it should be loaded on the State general revenue fund, now inadequate to meet the demands of State departments and institutions. The latter course would force an increase in State tax rates, it was said, to carry a burden that was directly chargeable to the counties.

Now Pay $18 a Month a Person.

The bill was introduced by Representative Bales of Shannon County, Armstrong of Pulaski County, Steiner of Franklin County and Campbell of Cedar County. It proposed to reduce the amount the counties now pay for support of each person they send to the State hospitals for the insane, from $18 a month to $5 a month. The State hospitals now receive, about $1,560,000 a year in such fees from the counties, exclusive of amounts paid for support of private patients, whose relatives have means to pay for their support. The bill would reduce the amount paid annually by the counties to slightly in excess of $400,000.

Bales and Armstrong declared the present annual bills for maintenance of insane patients sent from their counties to the hospitals were too great for the present financial condition of the counties, and the burden should be assumed by the State as a whole.

St. Louis members were opposed to the bill, but took little part in the discussion. The part of the city was taken up by Representative Smith of Callaway County, who pointed out that St. Louis provides for its insane patients and other unfortunates in hospitals built and maintained out of city funds and sent no patients to the state hospitals.

Would Have Hit St. Louis Hard.

"If this bill is passed, St. Louis not only will have to provide for its own unfortunates, but will have to bear a large part of the cost of caring for patients sent to the state hospitals by other counties," Smith said, "as the bulk of the taxes comes from the cities."

Other members pointed out that Bales, as one of the joint authors of the pending bill to increase the State income, corporation franchise and property tax rates, had declared an urgent need existed for additional revenue and that all of the additional funds that would be derived would be needed for the schools and institutions. Adoption of the bill relieving the counties of paying the cost of maintenance of their insane would nullify a considerable part of the increase, it was said.

Representative Snyder of Lewis County said the bill was "an attempt by some of the counties to unload their expenses for their public charges upon the wealthier counties."

The House defeated an amendment offered by Representative Freeland of Taney County, which would reduce the payment from $18 a month per patient to $12 a month, and then defeated engrossment of the bill by a loud chorus of "noes."

OLD POLICE HEADQUARTERS TO HOUSE AIR SERVICE UNIT

Headquarters for the Thirty-fifth Division Air Service, National Guard, are being established in the former police headquarters building, 208 North Twelfth street.

The air unit had been promised the former police garage on Clark avenue as a headquarters, but the Board of Police Commissioners have retained that building for storage.

Partitions are being removed from the "show up" room of the old headquarters building, on the third floor, and it will be used as a drill floor. The air unit has been sharing quarters with the local National Guard artillery group at Battery A Armory.

EMERICK HEIRS LOSE SUIT

Court Dismisses $39,000,000 Claim Against Astor Estate.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Federal Judge Thacher yesterday dismissed the amended complaint in the suit for approximately $39,000,000 against the estate of the first John Jacob Astor. The action, brought by the heirs of Nicholas Emerick, sought to show that Emerick made Astor a one-third partner in his business in 1787 and that no accounting ever was made to Emerick's descendants.

The court, in dismissing the complaint, said: "To attempt to determine the right of an accounting for acts occurring over 100 years ago would be an unconscionable act of injustice."

BRITISH GENERAL ELECTRIC CO. BARS U. S. STOCKHOLDERS

They Will Not Be Allowed to Purchase 1,600,000 Shares of Additional Stock.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The New York Times says that formation of a protective committee of American bondholders in the General Electric Co., Ltd., a British corporation, was decided on yesterday following receipt of cable information that only British stockholders would be allowed to purchase the 1,600,000 shares of additional stock soon to be put out by the company.

The American investors felt, according to the Times, that the General Electric Co., Ltd., was setting a precedent by which American investors in British enterprises would not be on equal terms with the subjects of the British Empire and by which the flow of American capital into foreign investments might be checked.

The American General Electric Co., the Times will say, is understood to own several hundred thousand shares in General Electric Ltd.

Life Sentence for Slayer.

SKELETON OF WOMAN FOUND ON VANDERBILT ESTATE

Victim of Either Suicide or Murder Apparently Had Been Dead More Than a Year.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The skeleton of a young woman, apparently dead more than a year, was found yesterday on the grounds of the summer home of William K. Vanderbilt Jr., about 100 yards off North Hempstead turnpike, between Manhasset and Rosiyn, L. I.

Clinging to the bones were remnants of clothing consisting of a light blue checked dress, pink corset and black silk stockings. On the ground near the skull was a pair of wing-shaped earrings marked "14 carat gold," the wings engraved like the facets of diamonds.

The bones of the feet were encased in black pumps, with five straps fastened to five blue buttons. A few feet away was a blue straw toque hat.

The skeleton lay face upward, with the arms extended. The teeth were small and in perfect condition. The victim of either suicide or murder appeared to have been about 5 feet 3 inches tall.

Governor to Investigate Placing of $157,000 in Non-Marketable Drainage Securities.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 8.—An inquiry was instituted today by Gov. Caulfield into the condition of the securities comprising the $157,900 State Seminary fund of Missouri, the interest on which goes to the support of funds of the State University, the College of Agriculture and the State School of Mines. On learning that all the fund, with the exception of $1000, was invested in Missouri drainage bonds, not easily marketable, and many of which are of doubtful value, the Governor said he would convene the State Fund Commission to look into the situation.

The investigation, it is understood, will go into the circumstances under which $28,000 of the bonds were purchased less than four months ago at a price above par, at a time when drainage bonds were virtually unsalable on the market, and also into the circumstances of the purchase in August, 1927, of $4000 of the bonds of one drainage district which several months prior had defaulted in the interest on its bonds, $9000 of which were owned by the State.

Who Invests Funds.

Investment of the seminary funds is under the direction of the State Fund Commission, which consists of the Governor, Attorney-General, State Auditor and State Treasurer. No purchases have been made since Gov. Caulfield and State Treasurer Brunk became State officials Jan. 14 last. At the time of the purchase of the $28,000 of bonds Sam A. Baker was Governor, C. E. Stephens was treasurer, L. D. Thompson was auditor and Stratton Shartel was Attorney-General. Thompson and Shartel were reelected and are still members of the board. At the time of the purchase of the bonds of the district which had defaulted in its interest payment on another issue, Baker, Stephens, Thompson and North T. Gentry, then Attorney-General, composed the board.

The attention of the Governor was directed to the seminary fund investments by a correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. He said he considered the matter one of importance and that through the fund commission he would institute an inquiry immediately. The commission is engaged today in receiving bids for the deposit of State funds, and it will be unable to take up the investigation before tomorrow.

Derived From Land Sale.

The seminary fund is a trust fund held by the State for the benefit of the university, college of agriculture and school of mines. It has long been in existence and consists of moneys derived from the sale of seminary lands nearly 100 years ago, from an issue of bonds by the State in 1872 and from money derived from the sale of lands donated to the State by the Federal Government. Under the law the fund is invested and the interest on the investment goes to the educational purposes stated.

The bonds mature from time to time and the money paid in on that account is re-invested. This re-investment in recent years has been entirely in Missouri drainage bonds, until the entire fund, except for $1000 in a bond of the City of Malden, is in that character of securities.

For the past two years such bonds have been virtually unsalable due to an unfortunate condition existing in Southeast Missouri, where most of the drainage districts are. In many of the districts there has been great difficulty in collecting sufficient taxes to meet the interest payments, and in some there has been a default in the interest. The floods of two years ago caused great damage to the land in a number of the districts.

While some of the bonds are considered good and probably a considerable majority of them will be forth par in time, the bond buying public has become afraid of them, and practically all drainage securities have suffered.

Last Wednesday when State Treasurer Brunk offeerd for sale a miscellaneous lot of securities which he held as a guarantee of the state's deposit in the defunct Argyle Bank of Kansas City, he was unable to obtain a bid of any kind on $12,000 of drainage bonds of a district which never has defaulted and which is considered one of the best in the state. He obtained a price above par for all the rest of the securities, but not one bank or investment banking house of 20 solicited would take the drainage bonds at any price. They told him, he said, that there was no sale for them.

Of 20 issues of this character of bonds held for the seminary fund, two have attracted particular attention.

Bought After Default.

In 1927 the fund owned $9000 of bonds of the St. John levee and drainage district, in New Madrid and Mississippi Counties. June 1 last year the district defaulted in its interest payments, the State Treasurer holding for the fund interest coupons to a total of $270 which were not paid. Aug. 15 of that year, notwithstanding the default in the interest, the commissioners bought from A. G. Becker & Co. of Chicago, for the same fund $4000 of another issue of bonds of the same district. There has been no default in these. Within the past few weeks the June 1, 1927, interest has been paid, but the district still is in default for its Dec. 1, 1927, its June 1, 1928, and its Dec. 1, 1928 interest, a total of $810, which is owing to the state. Treasurer Brunk yesterday made inquiry as to whether there were funds on hand to meet these coupons, and was informed officially the coupons could not be paid.

The other purchase which has caused comment is the $28,000 of an issue of the New Madrid County drainage district No. 38, which was bought Nov. 20, last year, when the drainage bond market generally was much the same as today. These were purchased from the investment banking house of Taussig, Day, Fairbank & Co., 208 Merchants Laclede Building, St. Louis, the State paying 101, or above par.

ber of the State Fund Commission, who also was a member of the board at the time the $28,000 of bonds were purchased, said today he had no clear recollection of the transaction.

"The board probably was not attentive enough to these matters," he said. "Treasurer Stephens attended to them, made the purchases and reported to the board what he had done. I recall that was the usual custom, and that on several occasions he made such reports. We had full confidence in him and his reports were approved as a routine matter."

Points to Law on Per Cents.

Former Treasurer Stephens today said that all of the bond transactions were handled by the State Fund Board.

"Whenever there were funds to invest I obtained from the investment banking houses and the banks their bond offerings," he said. "These were laid before the Fund Board and the best offering from the standpoint of the State's interest was taken. The law requires that these seminary funds be invested at not less than 5 per cent, and it not always easy to get bonds which pay that.

"At the time the $28,000 of New Madrid County drainage bonds were purchased last November, these bonds were worth above par. The situation was different then.

"At the time the second issue of St. John levee and drainage bonds were bought I had no knowledge that the district had defaulted in its previous interest payment. Necessarily such matters in the treasury's office as sending in coupons for collection are attended to by clerks. In this instance someone slipped. If I had known the district had defaulted the board would not have made another purchase of the bonds of that district."

Bonds Held by State.

The bonds held by the State for the seminary fund are:

$9000 St. John Levee and Drainage District, date Dec. 1, 1920, maturing June 1, 1939 to 1940.

$4000 St. John Levee and Drainage District, dated May 1, 1925, maturing May 1, 1938 to 1939.

$7000 Brimson Drainage District, Grundy County, dated Aug. 1, 1923, maturing March 1, 1939 to 1940.

$500 New Madrid County Drainage District No. 32, dated May 1, 1921, maturing May 1, 1937.

$33,000 New Madrid County Drainage District No. 38, dated May 1, 1926, maturing May 1, 1938 to 1945.

$10,000 Hope drainage district, Daviess County, dated March 1, 1923, maturity Feb. 1, 1931, to 1941.

$1000 Pemiscot County drainage district No. 6, dated July 1, 1918, maturity May 1, 1929.

$29,000 Pemiscot County drainage district No. 6, dated May 1, 1922, maturity May 1, 1939, to 1941.

$1000 Pemiscot County drainage district No. 9, dated July 1, 1918, maturity May 1, 1937.

$800 Pemiscot County drainage district No. 10, dated Nov. 1, 1920, maturity Nov. 1, 1929, to 1933.

Brunk has been giving the drainage bond situation particular attention in view of the fact that when he came into office he found in excess of $2,000,000 of drainage bonds held as security for deposits of State money in banks throughout the State.

Bids are being opened today on a reletting of the State money for deposit. They law prohibits the fund commission from accepting as security bonds of this character worth less than par. He has announced that he will not accept them. There is pending a bill in the Legislature which would permit their acceptance at their actual market value. If this is passed he will be able to take them, but if it is not passed he will be unable to receive them at any valuation.

Auditor Explains Practice.

He said today that the situation was particularly acute in view of the failure of investment bankers to quote values on the bonds, as evidenced by their refusal to bid on those in the collection of Argyle Bank securities which he offered for sale Wednesday.

He has announced that banks which have them up for security must, if they are successful bidders in the letting today, replace them with satisfactory bonds.

Admiral Pratt Promoted.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Admiral William V. Pratt, commander-in-chief of the battle fleet, was appointed today commander-in-chief of the combined United States fleets. He succeeds Admiral Henry A. Wiley. Vice Admiral Louis M. Nulton, commander of the battleship divisions of the battle fleet was assigned to be commander-in-chief of the battle fleet, Rear Admiral Charles B. TOWNS IN COUNTY WILL VOTE APRIL 2

77 City and Village Officials to Be Elected—Two Primaries March 19.

Seventy-seven city and village officials will be elected in the 16 incorporated communities of St. Louis County April 2. Mayors and other officials will be chosen for two-year terms in five fourth-class cities and in Florissant, which operates under a special charter. In four other towns in which this is an "off" year, only Aldermen will be elected.

The communities of Brentwood, Oakland, McKnight, Ladue and Deer Creek, which operate under village charters, each will elect five trustees. The cities of Maplewood and Webster Groves, conducted under the commission form, will elect a Mayor and two Councilmen each and are the only towns which will hold regular primary elections. These will be March 19.

University City, largest of county municipalities, will select a Mayor, Collector, Police Judge, Marshal and three Aldermen. Candidates who have filed to date are: Mayor, Eugene D. Ruth Jr., incumbent; Collector, W. S. Steele, incumbent; Police Judge, A. A. Ladd, incumbent, and James G. Cox; Marshal, George F. Ward, incumbent; Alderman, First Ward, Edward Schilling, incumbent, and Frank Mackey; Alderman, Second Ward, Arthur E. Ebbs, incumbent, and George T. Williams; Alderman, Third Ward, Orval C. Sutter, incumbent, and John W. Vogler. Last filing date for candidates is March 15.

In Maplewood, seven candidates have filed for the two positions on the City Council and two have filed for Mayor. The four high candidates for Councilmen in the primary will be voted on in the April election. John D. Fels, incumbert; Oliver J. Jaros, Fred E. Heidemann, Pierrejean Van Beers, Alva E. Middleton, Fred Foan and Lee Wilson are candidates for the Council, and Charles S. Humphrey, incumbent, and Dr. Jay P. Marshall are candidates for Mayor. Last filing date in Maplewood is tomorrow.

Only two candidates have filed in Webster Groves for municipal offices. George Kriegsman has filed for Mayor and Bert Forester for one of the two offices of Commissioner. As in Maplewood, the last filing date is tomorrow.

A Mayor, a Marshal and five Aldermen will be chosen in Ferguson. S. R. Millman and W. H. Blick have announced their candidacy for Mayor, and Irvine H. Skinker, incumbent, will run for Marshal. March 25 is the last filing date.

In the other incorporated towns candidates have not yet announced. Offices to be filled are: Kirkwood, four Aldermen; Glendale, Mayor, four Aldermen, Police Judge, Marshal and Collector; Richmond Heights, five Aldermen; Shrewsbury, two Aldermen; Florissant, Mayor and two Councilmen; Valley Park, Mayor, Police Judge and four Aldermen, and Clayton, five Aldermen.

DAUGHTER OF BRYAN SAYS GOVERNMENT NEEDS WOMEN

Congresswoman Owen of Florida Declares They Are Needed in Every Council.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The need for women in every council of Government that settles questions of war and peace was emphasized yesterday by Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, Congresswoman from Florida and daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan.

She was among the honor guests at a testimonial luncheon given by the League of Political Education to the women members of Congress in anticipation of their entrance into the seventy-first session of the House of Representatives.

Congresswomen Ruth Baker Pratt, Edith Nourse Rogers, Florence P. Kahn, Mary Teresa Norton and Katherine Langley also were among the honor guests who spoke.

"Women's place is in the home, but the walls of home have widened since a few years ago to include the scope of politics," said Mrs. Owen. "And women should be able to help the nation find some way to settle quarrels that does not involve throwing the bodies of men into the balance."

The elimination of sex consciousness and the personal equation from the point of view of Congresswomen was urged by Mrs. Kahn, Congresswoman from California. "Each of us enters the House of Representatives as a Congressman," said Mrs. Kahn. "We stand on our own feet and ask no favors."

A. C. SCHWARTZ, POLO PLAYER WEDS MISS CRAIGIE M'KAY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 8.—A. Charles Schwartz, financier, turfman and polo player, and Miss Craigie McKay, Pittsburg society girl, were married yesterday at the Hotel Plaza. The Rev. Dr. Roelif Hasbrouck Brooks, rector of St. Thomas Church, officiated.

The romance of Miss McKay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert McKay, and the sportsman developed on a recent trip made by New York polo players to California. In the party, which also included women, were Schwartz, William Averill Harriman, Laddie Sanford, Jock Whitney and others.

Mr. and Mrs. Schwartz will sail today on the Berengaria to attend the Grand National in England, in which Schwartz has an entry.

ACCEPTS RESIGNATION OF HEAD OF COMPENSATION COMMISSION

Gov. Caulfield Says He Will Select Successor to A. S. Phillips by March 15.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 8.—The resignation of Alroy S. Phillips of St. Louis as chairman of the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission was accepted yesterday by Gov. Caulfield. It becomes effective March 15.

Phillips announced his resignation Jan. 19, giving as his reasons the size of the salary and the state of his health. The salary of the chairman is $4500 annually. He was one of the leaders in obtaining enactment of the compensation law.

Gov. Caulfield said he was not ready to announce a successor, but would pick the chairman before Phillips' resignation took effect. The Governor said there were a number of applicants for the place.

EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS FACES MANY PROBLEMS

Called Primarily to Consider Farm Relief and Tariff, Numerous Legislative Subjects Crop Up.

RAIL CONSOLIDATION BILL DISCUSSED

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—A host of new subjects had taken their place today alongside of farm relief and tariff revision on the tentative programs of Congressional leaders for the extra session of Congress called by President Hoover for April 15.

Mr. Hoover and leaders at the Capitol contemplated a short session, limited, so far as possible, to farm relief and the related topic of upward tariff revision.

But the President had no sooner issued his call for the session than several other legislative problems cropped up in the talk at the Capitol.

At the Senate office building there was discussion of consideration during the forthcoming term of railroad consolidation and a reconsideration of America's reservations to its adherence to the World Court.

Among members of the House it developed that some were contemplating the consideration of reapportionment of the House, a census bill, and a measure for repeal of the national origins provision of the immigration act.

The House, because of its strict rules, is in a position to limit the legislative program of the session by restricting the organization of committees. However, it was admitted today by leaders in that body that if the Senate should send it any legislation the bills could be taken up there without reference to committee, under a suspension of the rules.

Plan of Senator Watson.

It has been the hope of Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican leader in the Senate, where the Republicans have an increased majority over last session, that the Senate should consider farm relief while the House is taking up the tariff revision measure. Now there are indications that the House leaders want to start the work on both the tariff and farm bills.

This would leave the Senate without anything to do at the start. Watson is not inclined to take up a House reapportionment bill before the House acts on that measure, although last session the House did approve a bill. Therefore, he may yield to a demand for consideration of the measure reported last session by Senator Fess (Rep.), Ohio, to provide for voluntary consolidations of the railroads until the Senate gets one of the farm bills from the House.

Chairman Snell of the House Rules Committee declared that if the Senate should send to it the bills authorizing a census providing for reapportionment of the House or repealing the national origins provision of the immigration act, House leaders would be inclined to take them up under a suspension of the rules. All three propositions were passed last session by the House, but went unacted upon in the Senate.

Divided Over New Quotas.

The new immigration quotas provided by the national origins clause will go into effect July 1, unless Congress acts. Mr. Hoover advocated repeal of this clause in his campaign, but his party is divided upon it.

Snell concurred with Mr. Hoover's view that the clause should be repealed.

Republican House leaders feel confident, Snell said, that if the Senate passed a reapportionment bill satisfactory to the House, there would be no difficulty in obtaining final congressional action.

An estimated sum of $30,000,000 would be needed for the taking of the 1930 census. Snell expressed the belief that there would be no tendency on the part of the House Republican leaders to defeat such a measure, because if it is not passed, the census taking probably would be delayed until late next year.

Hoover New Red Cross President.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—President Hoover has accepted the presidency of the American National Red Cross, a post always held by the nation's chief executive. The new President has been previously identified with the Red Cross, having been the administrator of its Mississippi flood relief work in 1927.

Coolidge Says Loss of Son Was Price Exacted for His Occupancy of White House

With Death of Youth, "Power and Glory of Presidency Went With Him," He Writes in Magazine Article.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Calvin Coolidge felt that if he had not been occupying the White House his son would not have died. And with the death of Calvin Coolidge Jr. July 7, 1924, "the power and the glory of the presidency went with him."

The former President begins his career as an author in a simple and concise article, "On Entering and Leaving the Presidency," the first part of which is published in the April Cosmopolitan, now on the news stands. It will be concluded in the July issue.

"My own participation in the campaign of 1924," Mr. Coolidge writes in part, "was delayed by the death of my son, Calvin, which occurred on July 7. He was a boy of much promise, proficient in his studies, with a scholarly mind, who had just turned sixteen.

"He had a remarkable insight into things.

"The day I became President he had just started to work in a tobacco field. When one of his fellow laborers said to him, 'If my father was President I would not work in a tobacco field.' Calvin replied, 'If my father were your father, you would.'

Rejected Title of "First Boy."

"After he was gone someone sent us a letter he had written about the same time to a young man who had congratulated him on being the first boy in the land. To this he had replied that he had done nothing, and so did not merit the title, which should go to 'some boy who had distinguished himself through his own actions.'

"We do not know what might have happened to him under other circumstances, but if I had not been President he would not have raised a blister on his toe, which resulted in blood poisoning, playing lawn tennis in the south grounds.

"In his suffering he was asking me to make him well. I could not.

"When he went, the power and the glory of the Presidency went with him.

"The ways of Providence are often beyond our understanding. It seemed to me that the world had need of the work that it is probable he could do.

"I do not know why such a price was exacted for occupying the White House."

Later on in the story, after discussing the death of his father at the Coolidge farm home in Vermont, he says:

Relations With the Press.

Elsewhere, Coolidge, a citizen of Northampton, Mass., touches on his relations with the press as President:

"I have often said that there was no cause for feeling disturbed at being misrepresented in the press. It would be only when they began to say things detrimental to me which were true that I should feel alarm."

Coolidge, tersely, even flatly, with the greatest economy of detail, describes his career as a county lawyer, steadily climbing to the the Presidency. He tells his story with nouns, rarely allowing himself the luxury of an adjective, and the telling becomes a portrait, poignant, bare, with an occasional wrinkle of a small chuckle.

At 10 o'clock one Saturday morning, about six weeks ago, Ray Long, editor of the Cosmopolitan Magazine, was ushered into President Coolidge's office in Washington. The President handed him a sheaf of papers.

"I've got something done," he said. "I don't know how good it is, but anyway it's here."

Really an Autobiography.

That "something" was Coolidge's story of his years in the White House. The work, says Long, is really an autobiography.

Long described how he went about persuading Coolidge to write the story.

"When he made the announcement that he did not choose to run again, in the summer of 1927," Long said, "I immediately wrote him—he was then in the Black Hills—suggesting that he write for us. As soon as he was back in Washington I went down to see him.

"I got no direct answer. Mr. Coolidge had no confidence in his ability to write.

"Then I decided to keep after him, just as a reporter keeps after a man on a story. Every 60 days from that time I went down to Washington to see him. Still I could not get him to promise.

Called to White House.

"Finally I was called to the White House on Saturday, Jan. 26—about six weeks ago. I arrived there at 10 o'clock in the morning. When I went in, the President looked at me, grinned and said:

"'Well, you're an early bird.'"

"'Mr. President,' I replied, 'beneath this business suit beats the heart of a Canadian mounted policeman. I've come down to get my man.'

"After a few more words, Mr. Coolidge handed me a sheaf of papers. 'I've got something done,' he said. 'I don't know how good it is, but anyway it's here.'

"He then had me go into the Cabinet room to read it. But before I went in, he said: 'If you're not pleased with it, none of the things we've said need bind you.'"

Long said that Coolidge wrote his story first in long hand, later dictating from that copy to a stenographer.

Only Coolidge, Everett Saunders, who was the President's secretary, and he himself, know what Cosmopolitan is paying for the series.

URGES DEMOCRATIC WOMEN TO BREAK TAMMANY HOLD

Chicago Woman Lawyer Addresses League Session; Raskob's Resignation Demanded.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The victory of Herbert Hoover in the 1928 election was attributed to the woman vote of the country by speakers at the annual convention meeting of the National Woman's Democratic Law Enforcement League yesterday.

"Even though they were Democrats, they voted for Hoover," said Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch, Chicago lawyer. She urged the women members of the organization to give their full support to the Democratic party, in an effort to rid it of the "influence of the Tammany Tiger."

Daniel C. Roper, who was Internal Revenue Commissioner during the Wilson administration, declared that since the women had been so influential in putting Hoover in the White House, the program for law enforcement should be carried on.

"I would suggest a weekly radio summary by President Hoover," he said, "to give the people of the country an unbiased account of what has happened in official Washington."

The League unanimously adopted a resolution demanding the resignation of John J. Raskob as chairman of the National Democratic Committee, urging him to "pay off the debt he incurred in the name of the Democratic party, and at once resign, that a competent leader acceptable to the majority of our party may be appointed to succeed him."

King's Chaplain Dies.

By the Associated Press.

LIVERPOOL, March 8.—The Rev. G. A. Studdert Kennedy, chaplain to the King, died today of influenza. During the war he was known as "Woodbine Willie" to thousands of soldiers to whom he endeared himself by frank talks, helpful advice, sympathy and an unfailing supply of cigarettes.

MAJOR AND STATE DAIRY OFFICIAL PASS THE LIE

Former Governor in Near Fight in Senate Committee Dispute Over Oleomargarine.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 8.—A dispute between former Gov. Elliott W. Major of St. Louis and T. A. Brown, Assistant State Dairy Commissioner, before the Senate Committee on Agriculture yesterday, approached the stage where the short and ugly word was being applied when Senator B. T. Gordon, chairman of the committee, intervened.

Brown had told in a hearing on a bill to regulate sale of oleomargarine of seeing large tubs of the product, unmarked, being offered for sale in St. Louis, causing buyers to think it was butter.

Major, representing oleomargarine interests, said this was never done. Brown interpreted Major's denial as a dispute of his integrity and said so.

"I never permit a man to dispute my word," said Brown.

"But I am disputing it," shot back Major.

"You're a liar," countered Major, removing his glasses.

Gordon, reaching for his cane, cautioned the men to quiet down. At a suggestion of Senator Hildreth, both apologized and the hearing progressed peacefully.

Arguments on Pocket Veto.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Attorney-General Mitchell will appear in the Supreme Court Monday to argue the Government's side of the pocket veto case upon the outcome of which will determine whether the pocket veto of the Muscle Shoals bill by President Coolidge was legal. The case to be argued concerns the pocket veto of an Indian bill, but the decision on the case will affect 120 similar vetoes which have been given bills between sessions of Congress.

PORTO RICO SENDS HOOVER APPEAL FOR MORE SELF-RULE

Majority in Legislature Also Requests That a Native Be Elected to Governorship.

By the Associated Press.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, March 8.—The first message of the Island Legislature to President Hoover is a request for a greater degree of self-government. In the form of a concurrent resolution, the Legislature asked the President to recommend to Congress amendments to the organic act which would give a greater measure of self-rule.

It was also asked that on the retirement of the present Governor, Horace M. Towner, and until an elective Governor is provided for, that the President appoint a Porto Rican Governor who has the confidence of the people.

The resolution was passed by a strict party division, all Alianza members supporting it while the minority opposed.

The minority also has sent a message to President Hoover, the text of which has not been given out. It was understood to explain the opposition to the resolution and to stress the belief that the Island problems are economical rather than political and that the changes urged in the majority resolution would only hinder economic betterment.

TRYING TO DRIVE LADY ASTOR OUT OF POLITICS, SAYS HUSBAND

He Charges Certain Forces Are Attempting to Oust Her From Parliament.

LONDON, March 7.—Lord Astor, speaking yesterday at a luncheon of the Soroptomist Club, an organization of professional and business women, startled his audience by declaring "certain forces" are trying to drive Lady Astor out of politics and Parliament.

He said he would not mention names as he "is not looking for libel suits just now." He added he was largely responsible for advising his wife to enter public life and thinks she is an asset to Parliament.

Lady Astor long has been politically unpopular with the die-hard wing of the Tory party, especially with the liquor interests, because of her attitude on social questions, particularly that of prohibition. She is a teetotaler and a believer in local option.

STATE COMMISSION FOR CARE OF DISABLED CHILDREN URGED

Bill Creating Board Favorably Reported in Missouri House and Is Pending in Senate Committee.

Support of a bill pending in the Legislature to create a State commission for the care of crippled children is urged in a bulletin issued by the Missouri Society for Crippled Children, of which Dr. Archer O'Reilly is chairman.

In the House the bill, No. 251, has been reported favorably by the Judiciary Committee, but the companion Senate bill, No. 408, has not yet come out of the Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence, to which it was referred.

The commission to be created under this bill would serve without compensation and would supervise the treatment, education and vocational training of crippled children. The bill provides for medical treatment to be given as near as possible to the children's homes and also provides for free surgical attention.

WOULD COMBAT U. S. TARIFF

Canadian Conservative Urges Retaliatory Duties.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 8.—Closing of the Canadian market to farm products from the United States in retaliation for increased tariffs on Canadian products entering the United States has been urged by Hugh Guthrie, acting Conservative leader in a speech before Parliament.

He said farm products were imported into Canada from all parts of the world each year to the value of $60,000,000 while Canada exported to the United States agricultural products slightly more than that amount.

"If the United States closes its doors on Canadian products, Canada can close hers on the agricultural products of the rest of the world," he said. "The dominion is in a position to supply her own needs."

Sinclair Appeal Hearing April 22.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The Supreme Court today advanced for hearing on April 22 the appeal of Harry F. Sinclair, Henry M. Day, William J. Burns and the latter's son, W. Sherman Burns, convicted here of contempt of court in connection with jury shadowing. In granting the motion of Owen J. Roberts, special counsel for the Government, to advance the case, the Court also consented to pass on the whole controversy on its merits, instead of merely answering certain questions asked by the District Court of Appeals for its guidance.

U. S. to Use 300 Plane Patents.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The War and Navy Departments have entered into a new contract with the Manufacturers' Aircraft Association by which the Government is licensed to use more than 300 airplane patents covered by the cross-licensing agreement of that association. In announcing the new contract the War Department said the arrangement would reduce the license fees to be paid to the industry by the Government.

JUDGES TO WEIGH U. S. PROPOSALS ON WORLD COURT

Council Decides to Send Question of American Adherence to Commission Which Meets Monday.

ROOT'S FORMULA WELL RECEIVED

League Secretary-General Gets Copy of Kellogg Note Suggesting Reopening of Negotiations.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, March 8.—The Council of the League of Nations, meeting in private session today, decided to send the question of the adhesion of the United States to the World Court of Justice to the commission of jurists which will meet Monday to consider revision of the World Court statutes.

Hitherto, the mandate of the jurists had been merely to study the statutes of the Court and to determine whether they required modification in the light of past experience. Today's preliminary decision implies that the committee's power would be increased so that it would be authorized to submit a new protocol fixing the condition of American adhesion. This protocol would be a substitute for the one adopted at an international conference in 1926 which the United States never accepted because it did not accord a desired veto privilege on requests for advisory opinions.

Elihu Root's formula attacks this difficulty from a new angle by creating the machinery for the discussion of concrete cases, and is receiving increasing support here.

U. S. Minister Delivers Note.

A fresh move in the question of American adherence to the World Court came yesterday when United States Minister Hugh R. Wilson handed to Sir Eric Drummond, Secretary-General of the League of Nations, for his information a copy of the American note suggesting reopening of negotiations.

This was the note of Secretary Kellogg of Feb. 19, inviting governments that have signed the World Court protocol to conduct an informal interchange of views among themselves with the idea of admitting the United States. This was the first formal move of the United States since 1926 when the American reservations were rejected at Geneva.

The Kellogg note will be dispatched to all members of the League for their information. It may be made the basis for some action concerning the formula submitted by Elihu Root.

Although the Council members have this formula, it is unofficially since the text has not been published here.

Root Continues Conferences.

Root, meantime, continued yesterday his talks with members of the Council and apparently got results from direct contacts and explanations, which the statesmen seemed to prefer to longdistance written communications.

He conferred with Mineichiro Adachi, Japanese Ambassador to France, and Hjalmar Procope, Foreign Minister of Finland. Both statesmen, according to League circles, were favorable to the American proposal, while the British were said to have also manifested approval.

Minister Wilson and Elbridge D. Rand, United States consul here, lunched yesterday with Root, both wishing to pay their respects to the distinguished jurist.

Would Retain Unanimity System.

It was remarked that the Root formula skillfully alludes to the possibility that requests for advisory opinions will continue to be made by an unanimous vote of the Council. Should the unanimity system prevail, the American veto would operate in its entirety since without an American assenting vote the Council could not ask an advisory opinion.

It is only in event a majority system operates that it would be necessary to devise procedure of consultations between the United States and the Council as to whether an American objection should be sustained. It is this contingency which Root provides for in his formula.

Acceptance of Root Formula Will Require Senate Approval.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—If the Root formula designed to clear the way for the adherence of the United States to the World Court is accepted, the question of America's adhesion will be fought out in the Senate.

All members of the Senate, who have publicly expressed an opinion, declare that Senate ratification seems to be necessary, even if the suggested redraft of article IV of the 1926 protocol is agreed to

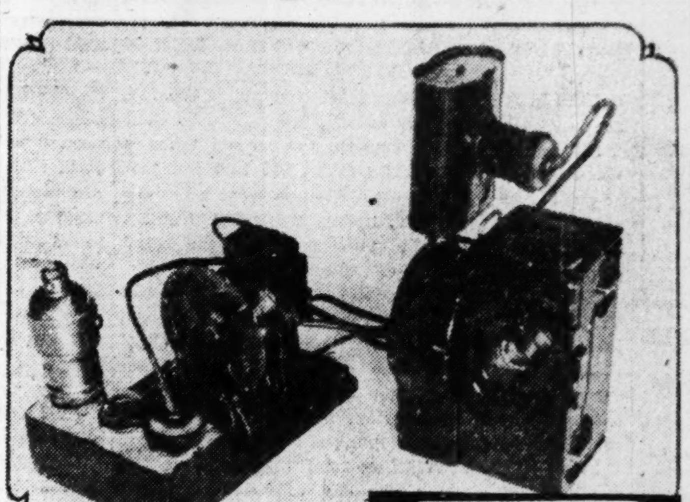
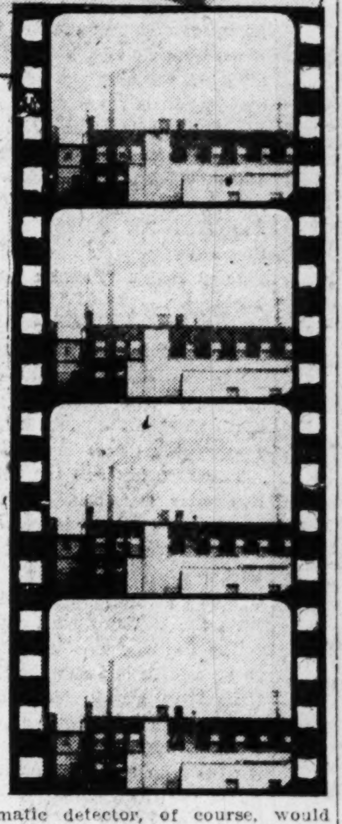
New Device Is Detective In Finding Smoke Sources





Machine Developed by Abatement League Embodies Movie Camera — Does Work of Several Inspectors.

An automatic smoke detector which can enable one smoke inspector to do the work of several has been devised in the research laboratory of the Citizen's Smoke Abatement League, 6625 Delmar boulevard.

The instrument, devised by Victor J. Azbe, chairman of the Research Committee, and L. R. Andrew of the laboratory, is like that used for taking moving pictures of the growth of flowers. It consists of a moving picture camera and an electrical timing device, which can be set to make photographs every minute or every 15 seconds.

It can be set for the one-minute intervals, plugged into a light socket, aimed at a smokestack or a group of them and left alone with the assurance that it will get the evidence on that particular smoke nuisance for four hours and ten minutes.

The inspector himself, Andrews said today, could scarcely do as well. For one thing, an inspector is subject to the human limitations of concentration. He can accurately observe only a few stacks at a time, while in busy industrial districts the "electric inspector" can record the output of dozens—beyond the human liability to error—so that they can be studied at leisure.

Andrews pointed out that, since the device costs only about $100 to make, several such machines might be obtained and each inspector could plant two or three of them at strategic points each day and double or triple his observations.

Evidence gathered by the automatic detector, of course, would be admissable in court. Nothing, however, could be further from the aims of the league, it was said. Instead, the indisputable record of the photographs is to be used in the work of persuading individual offenders to abate their smoke nuisances.

Most industrial stacks, Andrews said, belch heavy smoke for periods of perhaps five minutes, and then are virtually smokeless for like period. A glance down the strip of film will show the length of the intervals and the comparative density. By means of the league's projecting machine, the evidence can be shown in a moving picture that will convince, though it will not be used to convict any offender.

KELLOGG TREATY HOPE OF MASSES, BORAH ASSERTS

It Is of Especial Interest and Value to the Small Nations, Senator Tells Foreign Press Society.

"BETRAYAL ONLY PERIL TO SUCCESS"

Assailing 'Economic Boycott,' He Declares the United States Will Have Nothing to Do With It.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, speaking last night at the annual dinner of the Foreign Press Association of Washington, gave his views on the Kellogg peace pact, declaring it to be of special interest and value to small nations, and denounced the "economic boycott."

He said the boycott would never be used except against small or weak nations.

"So far as I am concerned," he said, "the United States will have nothing to do with it."

Borah spoke in part as follows:

"No man can know whether we have reached the time in international affairs when reason and justice may be substituted for brute force or whether we must go on with the old system. It depends, in my opinion, to what extent in the future a few men, who do no fighting and make no sacrifices when war comes, can manipulate and control matters in the direction of war as against the wishes and the prayers of those upon whom the burdens and the sacrifices fall.

People Do Not Believe in War.

"To the extent that the people as distinguished from the few can be permitted to have a voice in determining peace or war, to that extent the peace pact will be successful, to that extent we will come to settle our international controversies through pacific means as provided for in this great treaty rather than by the means of war. The people do not believe in war, but their leaders sometimes do.

"I assume there is no doubt left

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The R. R. War on Motor Transport.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE recent lobbies in this State by railways attempting to restrict the development of transportation by excluding from permits to operate all nonmembers of the A. R. A. and A. E. R. A., that propose motor transport service in sections where the member operating companies of these two groups already have some form of service, in many cases very unsatisfactory and incomplete, should be the subject of a rigid investigation.

The 22-year war of the railways on motor transportation has cost the United States many billions of dollars and the extraordinary protection given the railways by the last two administrations has enabled them to so seriously check the general development that a heavy increase in unemployment has been the result.

The theory that the railways, steam and electric, are necessities and no competition should be permitted that did not fit in with the convenience and necessities of railway bondholders would be logical provided the railways themselves, in the 22-year period following the initiation of motor transport on a practical scale in 1907, had bent their efforts to develop this form of transportation especially in those sections where rail construction would not be feasible, or railroad service could not be made adequate to the sectional needs or profitable to the railroads themselves.

The present methods of persecuting the pioneers who have developed motor transport in the face of tremendous opposition by railway lobbies using Federal commissions and Federal Judges in their anti-motor transport campaign, are self evident and it is about time to call a halt.

The greatest factor in this nation's development is destined to be flexible motor transportation that can penetrate where rail service is impractical and provide a direct delivery service that unsupplemented railway transportation cannot give.

Perils of the Auto Age.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN this age, referred to as the "automobile age," the chance of reaching three score and ten is rapidly vanishing. Hence, in the very near future, the 70-year-old person will be as rare as the bison.

Gradually, but constantly, the pedestrian is being removed, and the day not far distant when the death rate will exceed the births unless some method is devised to curb the selfish, reckless, vile, and ungovernable drivers of high-powered machines that leave destruction in the wake of the death-dealing instrument in their hands.

The Neglected Pop Concerts.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

"MUSIC is the only cheap and unpunished rapture upon earth." Sydney Smith wrote these words in 1844. Eighty-five years later I repeat them—most emphatically. Where can anything be found as beautiful, as inspiring as Cesar Franck's "D minor symphony?" or, as majestic and stirring as the prelude to Wagner's "Die Meistersinger" and all this for 25 cents. Fifty cents buys a seat on the lower floor where one may sit enchanted under the spell of such artists as Oberhoffer, Molinari, the fiery Latin, or the charming Senor Arbos.

Why then, are the people of St. Louis not more appreciative of the Pop concerts? Sunday after Sunday finds only a scanty following of the "chosen" from a city which boasts many thousands at every performance of its municipal "opera." Surely from these thousands, hundreds at least there are to enjoy "strains that might create a soul under the very ribs of death."

The Public Service Commission.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

A BILL was recently introduced in the Legislature to abolish the Missouri Public Service Commission. Your paper has had a great deal to say of late regarding the findings of this commission. It seems that you would be greatly in favor of this bill.

This is the only way in which the public will ever get any relief from the extortionate rates which the Commission allows.

A Remedy for Unemployment.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I NOTE that Congressman Cochran brought up in Congress the matter of the unemployed here in St. Louis, and let me tell you he is right and has "started something" that should be finished.

As a real estate agent here in St. Louis, having a large rental collection, of both white and colored, I want to tell you I have never seen the collection of rents as bad as they are at present, and people out of work wherever I go, and this does not apply wholly to the poorer or laboring class, but to the better and higher class of people as well. It is really something awful, and reading Mr. Cochran's activities, the thought struck me that this could, to a very great extent, be relieved by the city, if it has a mind to do so, and that is by beginning at once to tear down all those old buildings that have been bought for the site of the various Plaza projects.

FERD A. BENEKE.

BUSINESS OFFICE IS A PUBLIC TRUST.

Grover Cleveland voiced a popular conviction when he said "public office is a public trust." Before Cleveland spoke the majority of public officials had met that standard. Since Cleveland's time we have had official delinquency, but "the faithless public servant," as the Supreme Court described Albert B. Fall, is happily the rare exception.

The Cleveland definition of public office is now applied to business. Incorporated business is not a private enterprise. As pointed out by an article which the Post-Dispatch recently reprinted from "The Outlook," business is publicly owned. The executive heads of a corporation are trustees for their stockholders. They are responsible to the stockholders in much the same sense that public officials are responsible to their constituents.

All this is obvious enough, but it has taken a spectacular battle to write that truth into the code of the business day's work. That is what was done at Whiting, Ind., on Thursday, when Col. Stewart was removed from the chairmanship of the board of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana.

Mr. Stewart's connection with the Continental Trading Co., and that of the three other oil executives associated with him, is too familiar to require repetition. Their offense was that they betrayed their official trust. They used the credit of their companies as if it were their personal credit and by so doing stood to profit personally.

In the trial at Whiting—and that is what the stockholders' meeting was—Mr. Stewart was found guilty of violating the law that the chairmanship of a corporation is a public trust. This judgment establishes formally the precedent that the head of a corporation is responsible to the stockholders for all his official acts. The distinction for establishing this precedent, of embodying this truth into corporate policy, belongs primarily to John D. Rockefeller Jr., and is shared, of course, by the stockholders who supported Mr. Rockefeller in the ousting of Mr. Stewart.

They have rendered a service of lasting value to business.

A NINE-BILLION-DOLLAR CONGRESS.

The Seventieth Congress, which has just ended, appropriated a total of $9,281,599,377. The Sixty-ninth Congress appropriated $8,620,000,000, and the Sixty-eighth Congress $7,935,000,000.

Twenty years ago the country marveled at a billion-dollar Congress. That was before its wealth had been so greatly increased from within and without that single departments required almost half a billion every two years. For example, the army, though on a peace-time footing, received $453,789,632 from the last Congress.

The United States has become a big country, and as its wealth has increased its activities and aspirations have grown. The Interior Department was given $285,585,463 for the last biennium. It finances the Government's share in roadbuilding. It is possible that in time to come the system of good roads which the Government is helping to build all over the country will be regarded as the outstanding evidence of the wealth and spirit of our time. It proved so with Rome. In her almost 1000 years of grandeur she left her greatest material monument in a system of roads which is standing up under traffic in many places even now.

How some of the Federal departments have grown is best illustrated by the Department of Agriculture. It employs 40,000 people, and the last Congress gave it $144,511,554. The navy received $360,236,697.

Is it any wonder that we have probably stretched a constitutional point to collect an income tax? No country such as the United States, a country that can vote hundreds of millions for flood control, authorize 15 cruisers to be built at once, scatter gold all up and down the highways of 48 States, contemplate a billion-dollar canal in Nicaragua, etc., etc., could be run without it.

TACKLING THE FARM PROBLEM.

Mr. Hoover plainly feels himself obligated to take up the farm problem at once. He has therefore called Congress to convene in extraordinary session April 15 to deal with this question and what the President considers its principal corollary, the tariff.

Mr. Hoover says farm legislation cannot be delayed, and if it can be made effective in so important a matter it ought not to be delayed. There will be grave doubts as to the possibility of such relief as the President hopes to bring to this great industry. The relation of the tariff itself to it, or more particularly any further aid than present import duties afford, is highly speculative. If it can be made a means of alleviating the plight of farming the cost of such relief will in all likelihood fall upon industries exposed to retaliative tariffs in countries from which we import farm products. In Canada, for instance, and Canada is our largest foreign market, there are already demands for retaliation against American products. The same alarm and indignation are felt in every other country which exports farm products to the United States.

It remains to be seen how far other American industries will consent to farm relief upon these terms. The farmers are only a troublesome element in national elections. They are not powerful in Congress, nor have they been through all the years in which manufacturing has been increasingly protected. It is the manufacturers who hold the capital. Mr. Hoover seems to feel that there is a way around this impasse, and his plan, whatever it is, is considered practicable by many of the farm leaders. The Post-Dispatch very gravely doubts that there is any way around it. From the time of the Gracchi this problem of balancing the fortunes of urban and suburban communities has plagued humankind. In our opinion there is no solution for it. It could be solved only by the voluntary surrender of some part of their advantage by urban communities, and unless we are mistaken the special session of Congress which Mr. Hoover has called will abundantly show how contrary to human nature that benevolence is.

Nevertheless, the President is entitled to a chance to prove his theory. He has one, and it is true that the appearance of a trained economist at the head of this or any other government is something unheard of hitherto. Perhaps we look at the question too much from the historical point of view. Let us hope that is so. The rising conflict between urban and suburban communities in a country as rich as the United States is a matter of profound disquiet to the nation. It disturbs the political serenity of the country, and it divides Congress upon unfortunate lines. It plagues even the state Legislatures. Mr. Hoover therefore has our well wishes.

THE PEORIA MURDERS.

The Government is gravely concerned with Peoria's poisoned-liquor week-end in which 20 persons have died.

Two men and two women, charged with supplying some of the deadly poison, are now held on murder warrants.

Chemical analysis shows that the liquor contained a considerable percentage of wood alcohol. A chemist is quoted to the effect that the liquor seemed to be industrial alcohol that had been poorly redistilled.

Among the victims were men of affairs who had attended a livestock convention at Peoria. They had used the liquor at a dinner party. It was a festive occasion. There were many such occasions at the Republican national convention at Kansas City that nominated Mr. Hoover, also at the Democratic convention at Houston that nominated Mr. Smith. Indeed, that Peoria dinner party last Saturday night was simultaneously duplicated in every city in the country. What happened in Peoria might have happened anywhere else. The victims, too, would have been the same sort of people—substantial, law-abiding citizens, with a normal talent for enjoying life. It is a monstrous libel on the customs of humanity and the manners of civilization to stigmatize such people as criminals, but the Government of the United States does so stigmatize them.

As for the people who made that poisoned liquor and sold it, they, too, are law-breakers, but we do not understand how the Government can either accuse or prosecute them on the charge of murder. They have merely broken the prohibition law. The murderous result of their poisoned liquor is incidental.

Is it shocking to speak of this tragedy that has saddened so many homes as "incidental"? It assuredly is. Nevertheless, one of the most self-righteous organizations in our country holds that view. We refer to the W. C. T. U., which recently submitted statistics showing that deaths from alcoholism have increased from one to 40 per 1,000,000 inhabitants between the years 1920 and 1927. That grewsome tally was lightly dismissed by the W. C. T. U. with the comment that the victims had "simply declined the benefits of prohibition."

And that is the ghastly attitude of our Government, which may also be charged as jointly responsible with the bootleggers for the Peoria murders. The Government deliberately poisons industrial alcohol—does so at the clamorous demand of the holy zealots in command of the dry forces—notwithstanding it knows that much of this alcohol is used in supplying the popular demand for liquor. If murder warrants may be issued against the Peoria bootleggers may not murder warrants also be issued against the Federal Government, the Anti-Saloon League and the W. C. T. U. as accessories before the fact?

The Post-Dispatch does not condone lawlessness. We are trying to face realities. We believe that a law which makes the sale, purchase or proper use of liquor in the natural gayeties of people a crime is not law. It is, instead, the tyranny of fanaticism. Imprisonment and death may be the price of resisting this tyranny. But that is the price which mankind always has paid in defying tyranny.

THE MATLOCK VERDICT.

The 12 chivalrous gentlemen who comprised the Matlock jury returned a verdict of "Not guilty," though the main facts in the case were undisputed. Mrs. Matlock, after lying in wait a good part of an afternoon for her errant husband, shot and killed him as he entered the room. There were, it is true, mitigating circumstances, but only maudlin sentiment could find in them an excuse to set the woman utterly free.

SENATOR BUFORD'S COMEDY.

Something like a scene from a comic opera was enacted by the State Senate Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence when two criminal code reform bills came up for consideration Tuesday. The two bills are very important ones. One provides that indictments should not be invalidated by technical errors, such as the omission of a "the," an omission which actually gained freedom for a defendant at the hands of the Supreme Court some years ago. The other would make it essential only that the indictment be stated in plain and concise language.

When the bills were called up and a vote was to be taken on the first one, the chairman, Senator Buford, said:

> Those in favor say aye, those opposed say no, the noes have it.

Buford then left the room before a vote could be cast. The vote showed a majority for the bill, but upon Buford's return a moment later a reconsidered vote showed a majority against it. Buford made the point that "some parties want to be heard against it" but he was unable to name them. The second bill was also killed.

There is only one answer to the wretched record made by both houses of the Legislature on the reform program of the Missouri Association for Criminal Justice. It is that the program would cut into the revenues of lawyers with extensive criminal practice, many of whom are members of the Legislature.

CONGRATULATIONS AND A GUARANTEE.

We congratulate the League of Women Voters on the passage of the McQueen bill by the lower house of the Legislature. By a vote of 80 to 51 the House approved the idea of permitting women to serve on juries in Missouri. It is said that the league made a brilliant presentation of its case before the committee which had the bill in charge, and the impression thus produced prevailed against the "old-fashioned bloc."

The bill is expected to encounter hard going in the Senate. To that front the league must now send its loveliest and most accomplished shock troops. We have no idea what the outcome will be, but if we were the Senate it would pass by acclamation. The only argument against permitting women to serve on juries is the medieval ones used against permitting women to vote.

If the Senate passes the McQueen bill, thus making Missouri the twenty-third State in which women are eligible for jury service, we guarantee that no jury of women will ever do worse than the 12 good men and true who served in the Matlock case.

How We Get on With Canada

In the creation of the International Joint Commission which settles Canadian-American questions, the United States has an implement of peace which might well be applied in other situations; many disputes arise on our unfortified northern border but the Commission's machinery settles them before they become troublesome.

PAUL U. KELLOGG in THE SURVEY GRAPHIC.

NOW it may be said that we are well out of the embroilments of Europe; that we have matched the League Covenant with the Kellogg treaty, and that all further pacts for the implementation of peace are things that do not concern us. The world knows where we stand—and if they want to see our policy in practice, look at our northern border where we have banned war for a century.

But if we look closer at that unfortified boundary which runs from the Atlantic to the Pacific, we shall see that Canada and the United States have not only relegated war—we have implemented peace. More than that, in the International Joint Commission which looks after our recurrent troubles and our mutual interests there, we have a new world instrument which in some directions goes further than the European arrangements I have set down—an American invention, if you will, that is suggestive for all mankind.

That we know little about it—that we are more alive to what has gone forward in the last two decades in the ancient fighting ground of the European lowlands than what has gone forward in the St. Lawrence basin—is not a gauge of its significance. It's high time we told not only the world about it, but ourselves.

Nevertheless, examine that border in the light of modern history and you will see that it bristles with sources of conflict, with difficulty, with trouble. In the St. Lawrence and the Great Lakes, we have one of the great assets of the North American Continent and one which must be shared. For while the St. Lawrence River is the jugular vein of Canada, it is also one of the two arteries leading out from the great central basin of the United States. More than that, for a great part of the three thousand miles the boundary runs through water, which may be almost as fruitful a cause for dispute as land—issues of water rights in navigation and irrigation, power and sanitation; issues even of life and death. For there have been Canadian communities which felt their health was jeopardized by the sewage which Buffalo and Detroit were dumping into the marginal waters.

East and West have been at loggerheads; there have been clashes between rival corporations, conflicts between cities and farming country, between shipping companies and stockyards, between Chicago, which wants to canalize its sewage to the Mississippi, and the states and provinces which want to keep the lake levels high. Producers and shippers of grain and ore and manufactured goods have lined up one way or another. The greatest cities of the continent—New York, Chicago, Montreal, Detroit—have been agitated by their stake in what was done or left undone, involving, they felt, not only their prestige but their prosperity. In short, here in this water system is a great breeding vat for all sorts of conflicting interests and high feelings, the very sort of conflicts and the very sort of feelings which under modern industrialism set nations by the ears.

We get along for most of our hundred years of peace fairly well with conventional diplomatic machinery, but with the beginning of the new century, the situation became too tense, the old system or lack of system of composing difficulties broke down. In 1902, by concurrent action of the two governments, an International Waterways Commission was created. Its purpose was purely investigational, but out of it in 1909 grew the present International Joint Commission. This has six members, three on a side, each with its own chairman: it is a permanent body with offices in Ottawa and in Washington. Each country reserved jurisdiction and control over the use and diversion of water flowing across its boundaries or into the boundary waters. Injured parties have the same legal remedies in the neighboring country as if the diversion and the injury took place in the same country. But no further obstructions or diversions could be put through in the boundary waters without the sanction of the commission. Its decisions are final. It was provided that other frontier problems shall be taken up by the commission on the initiative of either government; and that other questions of mutual concern might be so taken up.

The commission's success is registered by the fact that it has never handed down anything but a unanimous decision. It has not only well-defined powers for decision within its province, and wide powers of investigation, but has been granted certain powers of control, as the work has proceeded, in seeing that decisions and agreements are carried out effectively. It is an agency of a new world, the contribution to the statesmanship of international relations not of military men, not of lawyers, but more especially of the engineers. This was a natural outgrowth of the supreme tasks with which the commission has been confronted in applying science to nature. It has been enhanced by the caliber of the engineers called to those tasks from both sides of the line. The commission has been especially fortunate in the fact that the Canadian chairman, Charles McGrath, is himself an engineer and public servant of distinction.

"Quarrels concerning water quickly get from the realm of engineering to the realm of emotion," said an American engineer in 1926. "The real question is to hold more water in the lakes. Lawyers and courts cannot hold it there, but engineers can." The speaker was Herbert Hoover, and it has been in that spirit that the International Joint Commission has demonstrated its worth as a scheme not merely for settling grievances but for working out the adjustments of a changing and developing borderland between two growing countries. It shifts the ground from conflict to mutual benefit, the method from self-defense to co-operation.

Here, no less than in the Kellogg Pact, we have something to offer to the world. It is a scheme we could well apply to our southern boundary as well as our northern. It is a scheme which could well complement the arbitration and conciliation machinery agreed to by the Pan-American Conference on Jan. 5—incorporated in a pact, the full significance of which the public has not yet grasped. It is conceivably a scheme that might be applied to the settlement of the cruiser problem between Great Britain and the United States. It is a scheme essentially of the future and one through which, under an engineering president, we may have to complement the "blazing ubiquities" of the Kellogg Pact with practical arrangements by which modern peoples may live next each other in peace and work together as neighbors.

WASHINGTON
DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, March 8.

WHATEVER direction Washington's theater may be going, its history offers one of the most interesting chapters in the drama described so often by theatrical critics—"The Fall of the American Stage."

There was a time, not so long ago, when theatergoers in the national capital turned a proud and defiant eye toward New York from the arches of Ford's Theater. Today it would not take a strong arm to throw a stone from old Ford's to the place where one of Washington's growing number of motion picture palaces rears a decidedly modern head above the theatrical heap.

These two locations mark the strides of the theater in this city. Taste, if it is the cause, has shifted in such abandon that today finds the cuffs of legitimate houses as frayed as those of the old-time actor who has outlived his usefulness.

IT SEEMS that Washington has given almost complete sway to the realm of motion pictures.

Ford's Theater has been relegated to the dusty shelf of history. True, it is pointed out by barkers on sightseeing busses. It is where President Lincoln was shot by a crazed actor, and—but the barker forgets—it was where Washington's theatrical history was made and buried. That is what the old-timers say. The moderns have Poli's and the National to answer with.

In the case of Poli's Theater the gleam of hope for that theater here sifts through. But it is dark many weeks in the year. Then there's the new National Theater. Satin rustled in the aisles of the Old National, but with the New National it is a different story. There are lines at the door, to be sure, but a stock company is playing, and at this writing the manager complains that he will probably have to close the doors shortly because he is unable to meet the demands of musicians for a seven-piece orchestra.

THE BELASCO—located within the shadow of the White House and once proud in these parts—has surrendered itself to a musical stock company. The President gave itself to stock. The popularity of stock was given it, and then it died. Lately sex movies have been projected on its screen, but now it is dark.

Even Keith's on Fifteenth street, where President Wilson was wont to drop in to lighten the burden of the war days, has locked its doors.

Meanwhile the motion picture industry is taking the candy.

And nobody seems able to answer questions about the future of Washington's theaters. The inhabitants merely watch the papers and then go to a movie.

"Of Making Many Books"

The Time-Ghost

DISCOVERING THE EARTH. By Gorge Parson. (Luce & Co., Boston.)

"TIS too so!
"What's so?"
"Anything that wasn't so before the war!"
"It ain't so!"
"What ain't so?"
"Anything that was so before the war!"

The foregoing brilliant snatch of conversation seems fairly to represent a certain conspicuous phase of the much vaunted modern mood. As for the doubtful grammar, why be a highbrow? Ain't that the way you and me talks?

At first glance, this tendency would seem to be very discouraging to old-timers who unfortunately discovered the world when it was still all wrong and before it was made safe for democracy. But the necessary readjustment may be made with great ease and considerable precision.

In modernizing oneself it is best to begin with the ten commandments, supplying negatives where lacking and eliminating them wherever found. This new code will assure sophistication. Thereafter, one may employ the same simple process in revising all other matters, from science to art, with a pretty good prospect of being up-to-date in the main; though here and there, of course, some foolish old prejudices still await demolishment at the hands of our overworked youths who, in addition to their iconoclastic duties, have to go about flaming all the time. So it happens that some things are still so that ain't so, but not very many, for we have become shrewd indeed these last few years.

On the lower and more obvious levels of human interest this tendency toward contrariness can scarcely be questioned. But are we to suppose that a powerful social tendency of the sort can be limited to the lower levels of human interest? The late Dr. Small once remarked that "purpose is the variant of theory"—which is only a cryptic way of saying that the major theorizing of a given time in any field of inquiry will be conducted in keeping with the prevailing temper of that time; and Dr. Small would have maintained that this is quite as true in science as in any other field of theorizing. Men live more or less unconsciously by prevailing life-patterns, and the data they may have, or think they have, will be cleverly arranged somehow to correspond.

The new scientific attitude toward Darwinism, with its hopeful outlook upon endless "progress," is a case in point. That sort of hope is hardly in keeping with our cynical sophistication. The fact that there seems to be sufficient data to justify the new view need not be surprising. There will always be data enough to support a subconsciously persuasive thesis. We humans are notoriously clever at seeing what we look for.

With the rise of physical science and the wane of the old humanism in scholarship, man has lost something of his old sense of dignity and importance. How much of our contemporary literature reflects this loss! How shall our writers portray humanity "realistically?" By focusing their attention upon the nasty and the sordid, of course!

It appears that even our ante-bellum cosmogony must now be revised to harmonize with this decidedly less flattering conception of mankind; and in "The Discovery of the Earth," we have the beginning of a proper post-war cosmogony such as might have been predicted. There is no intention here of presuming to belittle the work. Obviously it is the product of a fine mind and spirit, and a humble layman is willing to believe that it is scientifically sound, as cosmic theorizing may be. But surely the time-ghost looms large therein—and that is the point of these remarks.

A long while ago our earth was the center of the universe and man was the fine flower of creation. A little while ago man, though pitifully shrunken in his own estimation, was still living upon a planet of right smart significance in an august solar system, and his rather important planet had a faithful satellite of no mean proportions in attendance.

But things have changed again for the worse. Earth no longer has a servant. (Isn't this a democratic universe?) As a matter of lamentable fact, earth never did have a servant. Also earth is no longer a major planet. It is only the Moon's twin, and the nearest honest-to-goodness planet is Jupiter.

"The new concept when closely examined," says the author, "will be found to have deep significance in several respects. In the first place, we cannot doubt that it will gradually exert a very general cultural influence, due to the realization that we inhabit a celestial body of secondary importance and not, as hitherto believed, one of the major planets. The net effect of all this will probably be beneficial, for with the shinkage of the earth there should logically ensue a shrinkage of earthly vanity and pretense!"

Is not the time-ghost rather conspicuous in the passage just quoted? Note how the quantitative standard dominates the whole picture, with not a hint of quality. If man were living on Neptune, presumably he would be very much more important. But even if that were so, look how big Betelgeuse is! And since Betelgeuse is so inconceivably big and man is so microscopically small — well, the case appears quite hopeless. And even if man were as large as Betelgeuse, how unthinkably bigger interstellar spaces are! No chance at all for man to be of any significance whatever.

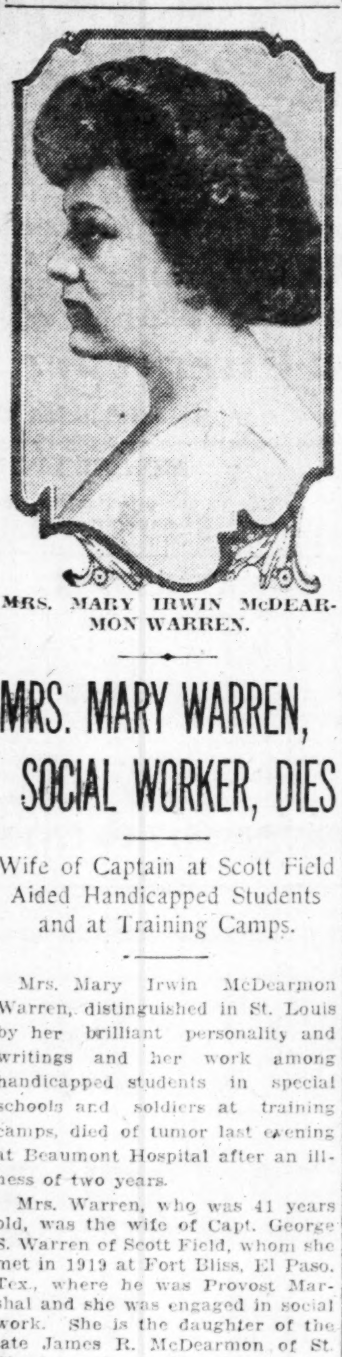
But it occurs to a mere layman at this point to inquire if, by any chance, Betelgeuse, with all its bulk, has as yet achieved consciousness. And if not, may not the brain of a mouse be somehow more wonderful than that burly mass?

As a matter of fact, after all, does not consciousness create all the meanings that there are—even the meaning of Betelgeuse and the interstellar spaces, if they may be said to have any?

Perhaps men are greater than they realize; and perhaps in some future time our best minds may outlive the present quantitative conception, seeking a very different direction of inquiry into the mystery.

And there are some who have reason for suspecting that human life may then be revealed as something more than even the epithet "immense" can describe.

SOCIAL WORKER DIES



MRS. MARY IRWIN McDEARMON WARREN.

MRS. MARY WARREN, SOCIAL WORKER, DIES

Wife of Captain at Scott Field Aided Handicapped Students and at Training Camps.

Mrs. Mary Irwin McDearmon Warren, distinguished in St. Louis by her brilliant personality and writings and her work among handicapped students in special schools and soldiers at training camps, died of tumor last evening at Beaumont Hospital after an illness of two years.

Mrs. Warren, who was 41 years old, was the wife of Capt. George S. Warren of Scott Field, whom she met in 1919 at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Tex., where he was Provost Marshal and she was engaged in social work. She is the daughter of the late James R. McDearmon of St. Charles and granddaughter of the Rev. Robert Irwin, president of Lindenwood College.

She was known in St. Louis, where she resided until her marriage, as a sparkling conversationalist and writer and an unusually gifted teacher and social worker. Although she had a law degree from the Benton College of Law, and two degrees, including a Ph.D, from Missouri University, lasting friendships followed her work among delinquents and the unfortunate. Newsboys and truck drivers remembered her from their days of stress and greeted her on the street.

Newspaper work claimed much of her activities, especially in the struggle for equal suffrage for women. She was on the staff of the St. Louis Republic, and wrote special articles for the Post-Dispatch up to several years after her marriage.

Her mother, Mrs. Mary Irwin McDearmon of Los Angeles, is en route to St. Louis for the funeral services, which will be held at 1:30 p. m. Monday at a chapel, 3621 Olive street, with interment in Oak Grove Cemetery at St. Charles. Mrs. Warren is survived also by a brother, Orrick McDearmon of Seattle, Wash., and a sister, Mrs. Arthur Barrett of Los Angeles.

New York Day by Day

NEW YORK, March 8.

THOUGHTS while strolling: A drum and banjo "hospital." Who remembers when a neck was a noun? Rarely see a white wing on New York streets any more. Unknown civic poo-bahs with motor cycle escorts. Fannie Brice and her new husband. The long and short of it.

Candy "initialed to order"—$5 a pound. The famous Western gambler with a drooping eyelid. A wailing prayer from a synagogue. E. N. Hurley, who held a big job—I forgot what—during the war. What's become of Lillian Lorraine? Chop suey cafes with all-star revues. Moe Ducore, the Broadway druggist.

Mary Hay is thinner. Hair parlor sign: "Hollywood white rinse." One of those privately tutored boys with buck teeth and flaring translucent ears. Visiting movie stars in a rented Rolls. C. A. Hughes—ask anyone in Detroit. Russel Crouse, a Cincinnati (O.) boy, who made good in the city.

Doormen stealing a puff in doorways. A honey store. Sneeze, a singing favorite in the cabarets. Those hard-boiled top kick army boys with a perpetual scowl. Doesn't George Jean Nathan ever like a show? Sign in a cheap chinaware store: "Combination finger bowls and soap dishes."

A sale of bean pot lampshades. I don't know either. The brass tablet on Mark Twain's home. The beauty of the Arch at sunset. Basement dining roms and ancient, silent butlers. Ben Hecht. Prowling cats. Babe Ruth will soon be knocking the apple over the garden wall.

A CAFE in Mulberry street, famed for Italian dishes, has many patrons among opera stars who come for food, a game of chess and perhaps a goblet of chianti. The proprietor checks those who recognize the song birds and annoy them with requests for songs with the stern warning: "Positively no singing permitted."

LOVE in a cottage was widely exploited several years ago with the marriage of an extremely rich man's daughter to a penniless youth. With commendable independence they went to live in a $40 a month suburban home. He worked for $25 a week in a factory and for two years their union was idyllic. The girl's father was convinced the boy had the right stuff and gave him a $20,000 a year post in one of his enterprises. Two months later, the marriage went on the rocks, the girl returned to her family and the husband became a Broadway play boy. Every night he is seen here and there hitting the high spots.

A SUPERINTENDENT of hotel service says the most unpopular guests from the servant viewpoint are the very rich. They leave tipping to personal maids, valets or secretaries who often keep it themselves and the hotel help receive nothing.

MY enthusiasm for the theater has already touched six below zero, and with just one more of those "liquor off the boat—scraped off the side" musical comedy gags I am going to begin my long-planned, personally conducted, one-man Reign of Terror.

"EVERY night in my dance place in Fifty-second street," writes a proprietor, "there comes a young fop who eats two orders of chocolate eclaires, takes a handkerchief from his cuff to touch to his lips and tra-la-las away. What would you do with a hellion like that?"

Run him down, crate him and ship him to Tom Hill's barber shop in Gallipolis, O. Some of the boys back there have never seen one.

VICTOR KOLAR REHEARSING ST. LOUIS SYMPHONY GROUP

Detroit Conductor Will Lead Orchestra in Sunday Afternoon Concert.

Victor Kolar, associate conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, is now in St. Louis rehearsing the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra for the Sunday afternoon concert which he will conduct. Kolar said he found the orchestra flexible and responsive.

Having seen 12 conductors in orchestra hall in Detroit, Kolar has some firmly established views on the value of the guest system. The Detroit orchestra, he said, has gained in flexibility as a result of this year's experience but he did not think it would be wise to extend the policy beyond the one year.

FATHER AND SON ACQUITTED OF $1300 EMBEZZLEMENT

Thomas and Roy McCrady Testify Money Given Them by Mrs. Mary Colthar Was a Loan.

Thomas McCrady and his son, Roy McCrady, 207 Pendleton avenue, Brentwood, were acquitted of a charge of embezzling $1300 yesterday by a jury in Circuit Judge Mulloy's Court at Clayton.

Mrs. Mary Colthar, 77 years old, testified she gave the two men $3500 to buy property at 6705 Raymond avenue and pay off a $1300 mortgage. They appropriated the $1300, she charged. McCrady and his son testified that the $1300 was to have been a loan to them. They had offered payment, they declared, but Mrs. Colthar had refused to accept it.

in the minds of reasonable men that the World War resulted not from the uprising or the passion, not from the blind drifting of the masses, but from the unconscionable and brutal, not to say criminal, manipulation and cheming of those who were temporarily in places of authority and power. And all know now perfectly well that these individuals were not all in one or two countries.

"Of course, against such conditions, no one can prophesy what may happen. Under such conditions all treaties, all laws, human and divine, seem to give way. But nevertheless the peace pact represents the aspirations and the hopes of the masses. It has crystalized into a rule of conduct that which finds expression in the hearts and minds of the people of the United States, the people of Great Britain, of France and Japan, of Germany and Russia; the people everywhere want to see the peace pact successful. If it does not prove successful, it will be because of the betrayal of those who have been entrusted with authority.

Salvation of the Small Nation.

"There is one phase of this peace pact which interests me greatly, and that is the interest which small nations have in the principle which the pact embodies. 'If this policy is not to prevail, there is no hope for the small nation. They must live, if they are to live in freedom and independence at all, in a world governed by reason and justice rather than by force. A world dominated by force will be dominated by the great nations which can maintain great armies and great navies. The small nations will enjoy just such freedom, just such security, as great nations may graciously vouchsafe to them.

"What chance, what right, what independence, what security has Haiti, or Nicaragua, or any other of these small nations as against the United States, as Korea as against Japan, or Albania as against Italy, or Egypt against Great Britain, and so on, in a world governed by forces? They have just such rights and just such security as these nations may in their imperialistic beneficence see fit to grant them. If the rights of small nations, especially small nations which have been so unfortunate as to be found in the possession of great natural wealth, are not to be determined in the open day, through peaceful methods where justice and conscience have play, then step by step they will sink into territories to be preyed upon by rapacious exploiters which will make the old proconsular days of Rome seem uninteresting and tame. The principle of the peace pact is the salvation of the small nation. Without that, they are tenants at will on this earth.

Assails "Economic Boycott."

"There is something being said at this time about the economic boycott as a factor in the peace program. This is another question in which the small or weak nations are particularly interested. Against whom would the boycott operate? Against no one but the small or weak nations. Can anyone imagine the League of Nations or any other tribunal, or any nation, undertaking to apply the boycott to Great Britain, or to the United States, or France, or Japan, or Italy, or to any other Power strong enough to resent and resist it?

"A boycott under such circumstances would simply be a declaration of war. Agreeing to join in a boycott would be agreeing to join a war. It would always be within the power of the large nations to manipulate the situation so that the small nation would be an aggressor nation, technically so at least, if it did no more than to buy new uniforms for its ragged constabulary. Then, of course, under such circumstances the boycott would work with ease and drastic conclusiveness.

"I can easily understand the facility and the humanitarian grace with which women and children could be starved and the nation driven into submission without very much cost to the larger nations. The economic boycott for these great Powers, which are now organizing armies and building navies upon a scale such as the world has never before known, is a false pretense, a fraud, a lie. And, so far as I am concerned, the United States will have nothing to do with it.

"The United States has agreed to reject war and has agreed to seek settlement of her controversies through peaceful means only. No nation could go farther in the cause of peace. But if, in spite of all this and in defiance of such an agreement, there is ever to be an appeal to force, then, in that event, the United States should be perfectly free, committed in no way, embarrassed in no respect, to determine under all the circumstances what it is in the interest of our people to do. When that exigency arises, let those who must meet it, those who must make the sacrifices, decide according to the facts as they then exist and according to their interests as they then see them. In other words, any commitment for peace we can afford to undertake. But commitments for war, express or implied, sanctions of any name or nature, ought never to be considered."

A new automatic traffic signal will be placed in service at Grand boulevard and Bates street tomorrow. Left turns will be permitted when a white light, replacing amber lights in other signals, appears. Traffic will be controlled in the same manner as at Page and Union boulevards where signals permitting left turns have been in satisfacroty operation for several months.

VERDICT BY 11 JURORS TO SUPREME COURT

Circuit Court of Appeals Decides to Ask Highest Tribunal for Ruling.

The question of whether a defendant in a case on trial can waive his right to a trial by a jury of 12 men and, by agreement of counsel, submit to the verdict of 11 men, has been submitted to the United States Supreme Court by the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Eighth District, in session here.

The unusual problem grew out of the case of John Patton, Harold Conant and Jack Baker, who were tried in Oklahoma City under liquor charges. Trial was under way when a juror became ill and was removed to a hospital. Government and defense counsel, in a signed stipulation, agreed to proceed with the trial. The men were convicted and their attorney appealed on the grounds that they had no right to agree to less than 12 jurors.

The case had been under consideration by Judges Kenyon, Faris and Sanborn in the Court of Appeals for several days. Finally they decided it was a question which should be settled for all time by the Supreme Court. The question was certified, with a full record of the case, to the higher court yesterday.

by the countries concerned. Senators Walsh of Montana and Swanson of Virginia, both Democrats and both supporters of this country's allegiance to the Court, have declared that the Root formula was satisfactory, but they have also declared that they thought Senate ratification necessary. It is regarded as certain if the question comes up in the Senate that there will be a vigorous fight made against adherence by some members who have been consistently opposed to adhesion by the United States. Walsh indicated that he thought the matter might be taken up at the special session.

Chairman Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has been a foe of American entry into the Court and, while he has not made his present attitude public in detail, it is known he is against adhesion so long as there is a possibility of the Court being able to render advisory opinions over the opposition of the United States.

ICEBREAKER ASKS FOR HELP

Russian Ship Was Escorting German Steamer; Drifting in Ice.

KIEL, Germany, March 8.—The Russian icebreaker Truwor which was escorting the disabled German steamer Saym in Mecklenburg Light, today sent out a wireless message asking for help.

Both ships were reported drifting helplessly with the ice in an easterly direction. Another Russian icebreaker, the Yemak, is rushing to help.

Democratic Candidate for Mayoralty Nomination Asserts Kiel and Miller Factions Are Battered.

Concluding his campaign for the Democratic nomination for Mayor with a speech over radio station KWK last night, Dr. John H. Simon played up discord in Republican ranks and harmony among the Democrats as factors tending to give the Democratic party the best chance of electing its nominee that it has had for 20 years or more. Dr. Simon was the nominee in 1913 and lost by about 2200 votes.

He pictured in the Republican campaign between Mayor Miller and former Mayor Kiel "two prematurely battered armies, with blades already dripping with their own gore, tired and exhausted after weeks of nauseating small talk, endless bickerings, concealed insinuations and charges openly made.

"The Republicans have spent, he continued, "hundreds of thousands of dollars in a brief few weeks to capture a prize which pays $10,000 a year." He added that there had been among them "no intimation of a struggle for high ideals."

His own supporters were depicted by Dr. Simon as "a union of independents. Democrats and liberal Republicans, recently joined under the banner of Alfred E. Smith, a quiet, orderly army.

The Democrats, he continued, have "no sound of strife or discontent, no saber unsheathed, no unkind word spoken, "but only friendly rivalry. He referred to himself and his opponents, Lawrence McDaniel and Henry S. Priest, as "three musketeers united in a common purpose of defeating a soulless monster, the Republican machine, which has for so many years held our city in political thralldom."

City a Business Concern.

Dr. Simon continued: "We are a minority party, but since this is a municipal campaign in which there is no party principle involved, I should expect the aid of that large group of independent voters and progressive Republicans who realize that a city is a large business institution which should be conducted along business lines. Municipal elections should be nonpartisan and are non-partisan in many of the most enlightened cities of the world. Furthermore blind party idolatry is abhorrent to reason and common sense.

"Not in 20 years have Democratic prospects been so promising as they are now. My prophesy is that the Democratic independent and progressive Republican vote, combined as they will inevitably be in the election, will inaugurate a new era, will mark the dawn of a period of civic enlightenment that will put St. Louis in her proper place among the cities of the land.

His Digestion Intact.

"The campaign is closed and I have not made a single enemy that I know of. I have not been compelled to kiss any babies, to do any singing or other cabaret stuff at tea parties, or to eat chitterlings at smelly barbecues. So my conscience, my voice and my digestion are intact. Should I be honored with the nomination, all the laws of evolution may be upset at one fell swoop, for the cooing dove may be metamorphosed into a screaming eagle."

In conclusion, Dr. Simon thanked the Smith-for-President Club and the German-American Smith-for-President League, which drafted and supported him; the "small army" of men and women who have worked for him, his "esteemed competitors" in the contest for their courtesy, the women voters "whom I feared because it was my first attempt at political speaking since women were accorded the vote"; the newspaper men who wrote about him and the radio audience, "at least that part of the audience which has not turned the dial on me in favor of jazz."

TEACHER'S SLAYER GETS STAY

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 8.—David Shanks, Negro slayer of Miss Jennie Constance, was saved from the electric chair for the second time last night. Chief Justice John J. Sullivan of the Criminal Court granted a petition for an insanity hearing only a few hours before Shanks' execution had been scheduled.

April 9 was set as the execution date in case Shanks is found sane. Judge Sullivan said a ruling on a previous similar case made it mandatory for him to grant the petition, alleging Shanks had become insane since the imposition of the death penalty. Shanks was convicted last summer for clubbing to death Miss Constance, a Peoria school teacher and post-graduate student at Northwestern University.

Farm Bill Hearings March 28.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Hearings before the House Agriculture Committee on farm relief legislation were set today to begin March 27. Chairman Haugen of the committee said the hearings should be completed by the end of the first week in April in order to allow a week for the drafting of a farm relief bill.

ASSOCIATED PRESS APPLIES FOR RADIO RIGHTS FOR NEWS

Counsel Seeks Permit to Use Short Wave Channels for Supplying Its 1250 Member Papers.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The reservation of adequate short wave channels for the use of the Associated Press has been asked of the Federal Radio Commission in its allocation of 40 wave bands for the press of the country.

In setting forth the position of the Associated Press in regard to the radio allocations, Kent Cooper, its general manager, through Milton Garges, his executive assistant, has presented a statement to the commission in which he cited 1250 newspapers of the country as Associated Press members and said, "We confidently believe the commission will find that it can consistently take care of the needs of such an important press association effort."

The commission today planned the conclusion of its hearings on the press radio allocations. William C. Cannon, counsel for the Associated Press, prepared an argument to show the organization could not operate radio facilities as a public utility.

Protest by Press Group.

The hearings of the commission were held after a protest by John Francis Neylan of San Francisco, representing the Hearst newspaper organization, against the suggested allocation of short wave facilities proposed in a report by Joseph Pierson, cable editor of the Chicago Tribune, on behalf of the American Publishers' Committee.

Declaring that the Associated Press asked the commission for the allocation of wave bands "in no spirit of antagonism to any other interests," Cooper in his statement said that "thus far we have not been advised of any antagonism to our request upon the part of any other interest before the commission." He added that "an informal statement by one of the commissioners has led us to believe that the commission can and may consistently do what we request."

"If that now is to be the decision," Mr. Cooper's statement continued, "the Associated Press asks that reservation of adequate wave bands for its exclusive use be made and that the Associated Press be given time to make its application therefor."

Not In Business for Profit.

Cooper explained that the Associated Press was a membership corporation, engaged solely in the collection of news and its distribution to its members and that it was not engaged in business for profit.

Neylan attacked the proposal of the American Publishers' Committee to allocate the 20 available lenghts to the American Traffic Corporation and a group of other individual newspapers and news gathering organizations. He said that the award to the American Publishers' Association would give it the control of 17 out of a possible 40 wave lengths, which included 20 trans-oceanic wave lenghts set aside several months ago to the Chicago Tribune, the New York Times, the San Francisco Chronicle and the Los Angeles Times. He said that the rest of the wave lenghts had "been so farmed out" that there could be no effective competition with those papers.

20 Wave Lengths Set Aside.

The Radio Commission in December last set aside 20 continental wave lengths to be allocated later by the commission after the American press had agreed on how and to whom the wave lengths should be allocated.

Neylan charged that the proposed allocation of the American Publishers' Committee was not made in good faith and that as "it is founded in fraud it will fall of its own weight." The National Radio Press Association, Inc., represented by H. S. Snelling, joined in the protest of Neylan and asked that the commission give the 20 wave lenghts to it. Snelling said that his organization was formed to gather news for dissemination over radio broadcasting stations. He said that Herbert Bayard Swope, former managing editor of the New York World, was chairman of the board of directors of his organization.

BEAUTY SALON OPENS WITH PUBLIC RECEPTION TONIGHT

The new Stix, Baer & Fuller beauty salon will be formally opened with a public reception from 7 to 10 o'clock this evening. Guests, including beauty specialists from other cities, will be conducted on a tour of inspection.

The walls are natural woods: American walnut in the lobby, English hairwood in the salon proper, and light maple in the booths. The latter, combined with reflected illumination, provides the 25 booths with almost natural light. Fixtures are concealed, each booth being modeled to represent a small, ornamental boudoir with the "work table" a vanity dresser. The prevailing color in rugs and furnishings, consisting of lounges and deep chairs, is a soft green.

NO DATE SET FOR MELLON TO LEAVE HOOVER CABINET

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Despite reports that have been circulated that Secretary Mellon will retire as head of the Treasury after serving a year in the Cabinet of President Hoover, it was learned today that he has set no definite time for his departure.

Mellon has wanted to be in position to devote time to his own business but when he entered the Government service his own affairs had been organized to a point where his absence did not affect the business. It has been one of his chief desires to perfect the organization of the Treasury to the same point before retiring and this work is regarded as nearly completed. In beginning his service under a third President, Secretary Mellon expects that he will be able to finish his reorganization of the financial department before the close of the four years, and if so he then probably will retire.

Measure Sponsored by Gov. Emmerson Adopted 35 to 14 and Now Goes to House.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 8.—The Senate passed Gov. Emmerson's 3-cent gasoline tax measure yesterday, 35 to 14. The bill now goes to the House.

Three down-State Senators voted against the bill and seven of the 19 Chicago Senators supported it.

Senator Thomas J. Courtney, Chicago, leader of the fight against the tax, proposed a last-minute delay. He asked the appointment of a commission of two Representatives, two Senators, a representative of the Governor and the Chief Highway Engineer, to study the needs of the highways and report back on June 1, and that the vote be delayed until then.

Woods Opposes Passage.

Senator Woods opposed passage of the bill, but said he would support the administration in other matters.

Down-State Senators who voted against the bill were Abt, East St. Louis; Kessinger, Aurora, and Michel, Peoria; Chicago Senators who supported the measure were Barbour, Haenisch, Joyce, Leonardo, Marks, Mason and Roberts.

The roll call showed the following Senators voting for the tax: Adair, Baily, Baker, Barbour, Barr, Bohrer, Boyd, Carlson, Cuthbertson, Dunlap, Felts, Finn, Flagg, Haenisch, Hamilton, Hanna, Jewell, Joyce, Lantz, Lee, Leonardo, McCauley, Marks, Mason, Meeents, Meyers, Miles, Paddock, Reynolds, Rober-Searcy, Smith, Thompson, Wilson and Wright. Vote for Drainage Board Inquiry.

Four years after the financial affairs of the Chicago Sanitary District was first called to its attention, the Senate adopted a resolution asking investigation of the district payrolls. The resolution adopted was introduced Jan. 30, by Senator Harry W. Starr of Chicago. The resolution of four years ago was introduced by Senator Daniel Webster of Chicago and sought substantially the same thing. It was tabled during debate and lost.

The House of Representatives passed a similar resolution Wednesday.

Debate which at times threatened to develop into bitter personalities featured arguments on the resolution. Senators Barbour and Marks, both of Chicago, fought desperately to keep the resolution from passing. Barbour proposed an amendment which would have

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 8.—Three persons were killed and seven seriously injured in a street fight between Communists and Fascisti last night in the small town of Woehrden in Holstein.

The trouble arose when a large body of Communists attacked members of the Fascisti who were leaving a meeting.

drawn the teeth of the measure, but it was tabled. The vote adopting the amended resolution was 37 to 1, Boehm of Chicago lifting the only voice in opposition.

"They have passed the gas tax bill to rob Chicago," Boehm said. "If Chicago is to be robbed further, let our people do it. I'm against the investigation."

Before the lower house adjourned until next Tuesday, Speaker David Shannon announced plans that indicate a shorter session.

Four meetings will be held each week hereafter, instead of three. Next week will be the only exception, as members will entrain for their annual visit to the University of Illinois next Thursday. But in following weeks, business sessions will be held Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Bills passed in the lower house included: McCarthy, Elgin, appropriates $13,000 for expenses of Emmerson's inauguration; Sinnett, Rock Island, increase library tax from 9-10ths of a mill to 1½ mills, and Galvin, Chicago, increases interest rates on school anticipation warrants from 5 to 6 per cent, making it possible for Cook County School Board to sell anticipation warrants and pay teachers' back salaries.

ARRESTED IN AUTO BOUGHT WITH STOLEN MONEY ORDERS

Thomas Holding, Pickpocket, Has Been in Custody Approximately 250 Times.

Thomas Holding, 61-year-old ex-convict and pickpocket, with a police record of approximately 250 arrests, was arrested yesterday while riding with his wife in an automobile. The automobile, police say, was purchased with part of $500 in money orders lifted from the pocket of John Reusch of Madison, Wis., while he was changing trains at Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 6. A slip of paper bearing the name "Thomas Holding" was found at the scene of the larceny.

Holding admitted having the money orders, but said he acquired them legitimately. His last previous arrest here was Dec. 4 when he fled from the Ambassador Theater into the arms of a traffic policeman, chased by a theatergoer whose pocket had been picked.

"Quickly Konjola Went to Cause of My Ailments"

St. Louis Man Freed of Suffering, After a Year of Fruitless Quest for Relief.

"O, that I could have had Konjola sooner!" How frequently this thought is expressed in the spoken and written indorsements of this celebrated medicine by those who have found in this super-compound their first and only relief from the pangs of suffering and disease.

MR. RUDOLPH CRETIN.

Only two months ago this amazing medicine was introduced in St. Louis, but already the news of its victories over the most obstinate cases has spread far and wide; daily throngs gather at the Walgreen Drug Store, 515 Olive street, where the Konjola Man is explaining how and why Konjola succeeds when all else fails to give relief in cases of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel troubles and in nervousness and kindred ailments. Konjola is preeminently a medicine of performances, not promises. Its 32 ingredients, working together and individually, go at once to the seat of the troubles; the very source of the disease. Only a medicine that does this is worthy of the name. Konjola is not concerned with mere temporary relief; the mission of this modern remedy is to restore new and abundant health, lasting and glorious. The files of Konjola fairly overflow with experiences like that of Mr. Rudolph Cretin, 726 South Newstead avenue, St. Louis. Beaming with newly found health, happy to be free from suffering, Mr. Cretin said to the Konjola Man a few days ago:

"My only regret is that I did not have Konjola sooner, for when I took a treatment this master medicine quickly went to the cause of my ailments. For the past year I had been in a completely rundown condition, suffering from a complication of stomach, liver and kidney disorders. My food did me little or no good; soon after each meal quantities of gas formed and I was often forced to vomit before I could get relief. I was weak and lacking energy—hardly able to hold my position. Headaches and dizziness came from my liver and pains from my kidneys. Daily I got worse, and daily I continued my search for a medicine to reach my case. It seemed a hopeless task.

"But finally my diligence was rewarded. I came across an indorsement of Konjola, saw how it was working such wonders among St. Louis people and then decided to find out what it would do for me. I believe the first dose went to the cause of my suffering, for I began to feel better before the first bottle was finished. Daily I noticed a marked improvement and daily I gained strength and weight. I am now on the third bottle and actually feel like a different person. I have gained ten pounds; am free of stomach, liver and kidney troubles; work every day and never feel tired or worn-out. I have spread the good word about Konjola to all my friends; I will praise it as often as I possibly can, for I am convinced that Konjola is the master medicine—a boon to humanity."

Konjola needs no harmful drugs, narcotics nor alcohol. This super-compound is a remedy that Nature herself might have compounded. Konjola brings health to old and young alike; it is the medicine for all the people.

The Konjola Man is at the Walgreen Drug Store, 515 Olive street, this city, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

TWO NEW DEALS MADE IN RAILWAY MERGER SCHEME

Van Sweringens Buy Control of Wheeling & Lake Erie From New York Central and B. & O.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Two important moves designed to speed up and facilitate the grouping of Eastern railroads into the "four party plan" were made yesterday. Control of the Wheeling & Lake Erie Railroad was acquired from the New York Central and Baltimore & Ohio Railroads by the Allegheny Corporation, an investment trust controlled by the Van Sweringen interests, which, in turn, sold its interest in the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg to the Baltimore & Ohio.

Both transactions were made on the basis of cost plus carrying charges, and subject to the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

This new grouping follows the lines of the revised consolidation plans recently submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission by the Baltimore & Ohio and Van Sweringen systems.

The New York Central has not yet filed its plan, but the fact that it consented to the sale of its Wheeling stock indicated that the road approved these new groupings. It is understood that arrangements will be worked out whereby the New York Central will obtain from the Baltimore & Ohio a small part of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg which it desires to complete its system in northern New York.

Officers of the Pennsylvania system have not yet indicated when their consolidation plan will be filed.

As the Allegheny Corporation is an investment trust and not a holding company, it is thought that the Wheeling stock acquired by it eventually will be transferred to the Van Sweringen road.

Joint control of the Wheeling and Lake Erie was acquired in 1927 by the Van Sweringens, Baltimore & Ohio and New York Central, each of which had a one-third interest.

Subsequently, an examiner of the Interstate Commerce Commission found that the action of the New York Central and the Baltimore & Ohio in acquiring the Wheeling stock was a violation of the Clayton act, but no objection was found to the Van Sweringen holding in that property.

When the Van Sweringen interests acquired the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg last year, they indicated that their control might be temporary, pending a final grouping of Eastern lines. The Buffalo road was not included in the recent Van Sweringen consolidation plan, although the Allegheny Corporation held about 90 per cent of the stock.

DRY LAW INJUNCTIONS CLOSE 10 ST. CLAIR COUNTY PLACES

Ten temporary injunctions closing busines places in St. Clair County for violating the dry law have been issued. Unless the owners or operators appear in Federal Court within 20 days to contest, the injunctions will become permanent for one year.

The operators, owners and places are: Charles W. Smith, John Young, Shiloh, Ill.; Frank Lietz, Lena Schubkegel, Mascoutah, Ill.; Ira Clendenin, Fredericka Neumberger, Lenzburg; Edward Barthelme, David Graf, Lenzburg, two injunctions.

The following places were closed in East St. Louis: Sam Collins, Alphonse Stoltz, 1630 Missouri avenue; Tony Juehniewitz, Fourteenth and Lake avenue; William Baldwin, E. L. Soucy, 120 North Tenth street; Joseph T. Donovan, 916 Winstanley avenue; William and Nellie Lasky, 2705 Belleview avenue.

There are no charges of law violations against the building owners named in the injunctions, they being unaware, in some cases, of the use being made of their buildings.

BOY DIES TRYING IN VAIN TO MAKE SCHOOL TRACK TEAM

East Peoria High Closed in Honor of Student, 15, Who Fell Dead After Test.

By the Associated Press.

PEORIA, Ill., March 8.—A schoolboy who couldn't make the team died a champion yesterday because he wouldn't quit. Today East Peoria High School was closed in respect to Dwight Carlock, 15 years old, who fell dead after circling the running track at the school trying to make the track team. Dwight wasn't quite good enough to make the football team. He also failed to win a place on the basketball squad.

"Dilation of the heart," said a physician who examined Dwight's body last night.

Missing; Had $300 in Pocket.

Police have been asked to search for Frank Brown, 42 years old, who left his home, 1211A Geyer avenue, Wednesday and has not been heard from since. Members of Brown's family said he had $300 in his pockets and said he was going to purchase wall paper, according to police.

TWO MEN HELD FOR INQUIRY INTO IOWA BONDS RELEASED

Atlantic (Ia.) Sheriff Fails to Get Extradition Papers For Them.

John F. Mathews and Orville Shaner, real estate salesmen, were released yesterday after being held for questioning about the handling of $300 in bonds which were reported identified as part of the loot of a holdup at the Whitney Loan and Trust Co., Atlantic, Ia., Oct. 25.

Sheriff McKee of Atlantic, who requested the arrest of Mathews, later asked that he be released, stating he was unable to obtain extradition papers.

Shaner was arrested after Mathews said he obtained the bonds from him. Shaner made a denial.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, March 8.—Capt. Kisaburo Koynamagi, Japanese military attache here, committed harikari Wednesday night. The newspaper Vetchernaya last week printed an accusation that he had beaten a Russian woman teacher at a party in his apartment. It said also that neighbors had protested against his conduct.

SENATE GROUP OK'S SIMPLIFIED STATE GOVERNMENT BILL

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 8.—A proposal by Senator Wammack of Bloomfield for a complete revision of the executive branch of the State Government, under which the only elective officials might be the Governor and Lieutenant-Governor, and providing for an adequate budget system, was advanced in the Senate yesterday when the committee on elections reported it with the recommendation that it be passed. I proposes an amendment to the constitution and would be voted on in 1930.

Wammack's plan would limit the number of State executive departments to 12, including he Governor's office. Direct provision is made for only six, that of the Governor, Department of State, Department of Audits and Accounts, Department of the Treasury and Department of Education, though the Legislature is authorized to add such additional departments as it sees fit, though the number shall not exceed six. The Legislature would decide whether the heads of departments should be elected or appointed by the Governor.

A comprehensive budget system, going far beyond the possibilities under the present Constitution is provided for. The Governor would prepare a budget, setting out the estimated receipts and recommended expenditures, and the Legislature would be powerless to increase any of the amounts recommended, though it would have power to strike out or diminish the amounts recommended for specific purposes.

Wammack said today that he was advocating a simplified Government, putting definite responsibility on a few officers, and that he thought it would meet the approval of the public and would be voted if submitted at an election.

It is entirely separate from the budget proposal now being worked out by a joint committee of the House and Senate, which can prepare a plan only within the limitations placed by the present constitution. Under the law, as it exists, the Legislature is under no restrictions in matters of appropriation, and the power cannot be taken from it to increase recommendations. Wammack's suggested amendment to the constitution would change this and would provide in the constitution full power for an executive budget.

Charged With Auto Theft.

HARRISBURG, Ill., March 8.—State Highway Patrolman C. M. Robinson of Grayville, who has charge of Route 1, Mt. Carmel to Harrisburg, arrested Raymond Heeley at Norris City yesterday morning charging him with the theft and transportation of an automobile from Detroit, Mich., to Norris City, his home. The car, a Chevrolet sedan, was stolen in Detroit March 2.

Robinson placed Heeley in jail and then came to Harrisburg, where he secured a Federal warrant of arrest before Commissioner W. C. Kane. Heeley will either be brought to Harrisburg for safe keeping or taken to the Federal jail in East St. Louis.

IN A BAD FIX AFTER ILLNESS

Lady Says She Had No Appetite; Continued Weak Until Cardui Helped Her.

"I have taken Cardui several times in my life, and have always felt a marked improvement after I had used it," says Mrs. Claud Owens, of Smyrna, Ga.

"When I was first growing into womanhood, I had little strength and lost my appetite almost completely. My mother had used Cardui, and she knew what a fine medicine it was, so she got some for me to take. I got lots better, so since that time, which was nine or ten years ago, I have taken Cardui when I felt badly.

"Last year I was ill and did not recover as fast as I should have.

"My back had given me trouble. It ached a lot, and I suffered considerable pain in my side. I felt weak, and it was such an effort on my part to do my housework.

"It seemed to me like I just could not eat. Nothing tasted good, and my digestion was poor.

"After I began to take Cardui my improvement was noticeable. In a little while I was much stronger. I began to eat and enjoy my meals."

MOVE TO BLOCK ROAD PROGRAM FAILS AGAIN

Obstructionists Attempt to Slip Over Bill Compelling Commission to Follow Prescribed Plan.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 8.—Another move by the Bales-Elmer group of rural House members who proposed the recently defeated plan to pork barrel the State road fund, to force the State Highway Commission to follow a prescribed program of construction for the next eight years, again was blocked when the House Roads and Highways Committee late yesterday adopted an unfavorable report on the bill, for the second time.

This followed an unsuccessful attempt by the Bales-Elmer group yesterday to override the first unfavorable report by the committee, and place the bill on the House calendar for engrossment. Instead the House re-referred the bill to the Roads and Highway Committee for such action as it desired to take.

The committee was called together by Chairman Wingo of Dallas County, immediately after adjournment of the afternoon session. Representatives Bales of Shannon County and Elmer of Dent County, who introduced the bill, were heard.

Vote Is 21 to 15.

Defenders of the road program approved when the $75,000,000 additional orad bond issue was voted last November were in the majority on the committee, and a report recommending that the bill do not pass was adopted by a vote of 21 to 15. The adverse report goes to the House today.

The committee submitted the first unfavorable report several days ago, and it was thought the bill was dead, as adverse reports of committees almost invariably dispose of bills without further action.

The move to override the adverse report and place the bill on the calendar of engrossment was made shortly before the noon recess yesterday. It was made possible by Representative Freeland of Taney County, majority floor leader, who moved that the House turn from third reading and passage of bills, the order of business then before the House, to the order of engrossment of House bills.

Elmer immediately moved that the bill, No. 514, be placed on the calendar despite the adverse report, on the ground an adequate hearing had not been held. Bales joined in the request. No explanation of what the bill involved was given, the reference being by the number of the bill. Freeland then moved that the House place the bill on the calendar by using the same vote that had been cast on a roll call taken a few minutes previously, in passing another bill.

Move Quickly Blocked.

Representative Duensing of Lafayette County, a member of the Roads Committee, objected, which prevented use of the previous roll call, and explained what the bill involved. He said the same proposal had been rejected in defeat of the former measure of the Bales-Elmer group.

Other members objected to overriding the report of a committee. Representative Robertson of Saline County brought the matter to a quick decision by offering a substitute motion that the bill be rereferred to the committee. This was adopted by the House, blocking a vote on Elmer's original motion to put the bill on the calendar.

The Bales-Elmer bill would make it mandatory for the Highway Commission to carry on construction during the next eight years, according to the provisions of a tentative outline of annual expenditures prepared by the commission, before the bonds were voted. These estimates were written into the bill, by years, for the various classes of construction.

GALE SWEEPS WASHINGTON: MANY PERSONS SLIGHTLY HURT

Windows in Business Section Broken, and Skylight Over Senate Chamber Smashed.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—A heavy March wind swept down the Potomac Valley and blew into the capital yesterday, doing damage to property and menacing pedestrians.

Blinds were torn off windows on Seventeenth street near the White House, clattering to the ground along with shingels and other debris. More than 20 persons were treated at hospitals for minor injuries.

The wind broke several windows in the business section and crashed a glass skylight over the Senate chamber.

At the Washington Monument, half a dozen women were blown to the ground while they walked around the promontory from which the monument rises. In some sections of the city the wind was so strong that tops of automobiles were torn from their frames, metal roofs were blown away and scores of trees were uprooted.

There was damage from the gale in many other Eastern cities yesterday and there were number of accidents. A section of sheet iron was torn from the roof of the Long Island Railroad freight station in Brooklyn, the falling metal fractured a woman's skull.

The storm toppled over a huge crane at the Bethlehem Steel plant at Coatesville, Pa., and one man was killed and the operator of the crane was badly hurt.

Take Salts If Rheumatism Is Bothering You

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Take Salts to Get Rid of Toxic Acid.

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat no sweets for awhile, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and, above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid or body waste matter, and is often generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this toxic acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste and stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

LINDBERGH TO OPEN MEXICAN MAIL ROUTE

To Fly From Capital to Brownsville, Tex., and Back in Spite of Revolution.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, as technical adviser to Pan-American Airways, will formally open that company's air mail service between Mexico City and Brownsville, Tex., tomorrow despite the Mexican revolution.

He will fly a Ford monoplane (now at Valbuena flying field) both to the American border and back to the Mexican capital, although, until late yesterday afternoon, Government officials in Washington withheld final sanction for the latter part of the program through fear of jeopardy to Lindbergh and resultant diplomatic complications.

J. T. Trippe, president and general manager of the Pan-American Airways, with his wife and James M. Eaton, general traffic manager of the concern, left New York by train for Brownsville so late that they will miss Lindbergh's arrival but will reach the border in time for the return flight. It is planned that all three shall accompany Lindbergh back to Mexico City.

Whether the mail plane would be exposed to rebel fire on its round trip flight from Mexico City by way of Tampico (the only stop on the route) to Brownsville, caused the United States Government much concern. It was pointed out that if Lindbergh made the flight northward, taking whatever risks were involved, he would do so as an individual, but on the return trip carrying United States mail, he would automatically have an official status.

Pan-American officers disclosed that at the outbreak of hostilities in Mexico their operating subsidiary company, the Compania Mexicana de Aviacion, which is to operate the mail route, turned over all its equipment to the Government. The Government has turned the air fleet back to its owners. This is construed to indicate that the authorities have the situation well in hand, at least in that section of Mexico.

Before leaving for Brownsville President Trippé said that officials of the Mexican Government had been invited to accompany Lindbergh on the first plane and that representatives of the United States probably would be in the ship also. The big Ford 'planes will be operated daily in both directions over the route, which requires about five hours' flying each way, exclusive of stops.

Passengers are to be carried on a regular schedule with the mail, leaving Brownsville at 10 o'clock in the morning and reaching Mexico City at 3:30 p. m.

Service Actually Begun Two Days in Advance of Schedule.

By the Associated Press.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., March 8.—Air mail service between Brownsville and Mexico City was opened unofficially two days in advance of schedule, because of the emergency created by the Mexican revolution. The passengers arriving from Mexico City included Mrs. Nelvia E. Ritchie of Pittsburg, Pa., wife of the general passenger agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and her traveling companion, Mrs. Leland Hyzer of Miami, Fla. Mrs. Ritchie had been delivering Christian Science lectures in Mexico.

Usually, however, it is a combination of all of these elements that wins the decision for Nisley Shoes.

Two bloodhounds, owned by a private detective agency, were taken to the horseradish field of Ben C. Bertels, on the edge of Fairmont City, early today, when Bertels discovered that his field had been robbed. Other fields in the vicinity have been robbed recently.

The dogs led City Marshal Frazen and Special Deputy Musick to a farmhouse, where two men were arrested after three bags of the root, valued at $35, were found in the house.

GAMBLER SOUGHT AS MURDERER OF ROTHSTEIN GUARD

Alleged Proprietor of Gaming Layout in Hotel Where Shooting Took Place Named in Warrant.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., March 8.—An all-night search failed to disclose any sign of Eddie Wilson, wanted for the murder of Thomas Walsh. Police thought he still was in hiding in the vicinity of Miami.

Wilson, and alleged gambler and gangster, was named in a murder warrant last night as the man who shot the former bodyguard of Arnold Rothstein as he was playing cards in a suite in a hotel here late Wednesday night.

Suspicion centered on Wilson after police learned he had quarreled with Walsh shortly before the killing. The two men, it was understood, had previously had a number of minor difficulties.

Wilson was said to have been proprietor of a gambling layout that occupied a fourteenth floor suite of the hotel. The suite was leased by K. E. Gaylord, and Walsh and Arthur Clark, who was wounded at the time Walsh was killed, were understood to be associated with them.

Miami gamblers with whom Wilson was said to be at odds were understood to be assisting in efforts to apprehend him.

The Walsh killing Wednesday night was the signal for the opening of a concerted drive on gambling within the county by Sheriff M. P. Lehman. A number of gambling halls were raided last night.

More than 12 men picked up yesterday in connection with the killing still were held for investigation in the county jail today.

Clark, who was removed to the jail yesterday from the Miami hospital where he had received treatment for bullet wounds in the left side of his chest and arm, was a witness before the grand jury today. From his previous actions and statements, however, officials held but little hope of obtaining information taht would positively identify Wilson as the slayer.

CONVICTED GANGSTER, UNDER 50-YEAR SENTENCE, MISSING

Court Will Be Asked to Forfeit $20,000 Appeal Bond of George Faudi.

George Faudi, sentenced two years ago to 50 years in the penitentiary for a $120 holdup of a dry cleaning establishment, can not be found by the Marshal of the Supreme Court, and a motion to forfeit his $20,000 bond will be field at the next session of the court, according to the Marshal, H. C. Schulte, who is in St. Louis today.

Faudi's conviction was affirmed last December by the Supreme Court. He has been at liberty under an appeal bond signed by Charles Meichel, 2608 Locust street. Following his conviction Circuit Judge Ossing fixed his bond at $125,000, later reducing it to $100,000, which Faudi was unable to furnish and he served a month in the penitentiary. He appealed to the Supreme Court, which reduced bond to $20,000.

Faudi was a member of a gang of robbers implicated in a series of crimes two years ago which culminated in the killing of a collector for the telephone company. The leader of the gang, Anthony Bergmann, pleaded guilty and is serving a life sentence for murder. The crime for which Faudi was sentenced was the robbery of the Standard Cleaning and Dyeing Co., 3444 Gravois avenue, on Jan. 29, 1927.

SCRATCHED BY TAME BEAR, WOMAN LOSES $10,000 SUIT

Belleville Jury Denies Mrs. Mary Daley's Claim Against East Side Roadhouse.

A suit for $10,000 damages because she was scratched by a tame bear, feature attraction of an East Side roadhouse, was lost yesterday when a jury in Belleville Circuit Court decided against Mrs. Mary Daley of East St. Louis.

Mrs. Daley had sued George Beckett, one of the owners of Dew Drop Inn, located on the Mascoutah road, 5 miles east of Belleville. She alleged that on a visit to the resort with friends, Oct. 23, 1927, the bear pawed her right hand, lacerating it almost to the bone. She was trying to feed the bear at the time.

The defense contended that Mrs. Daley had tried to force the bear to eat from her hand and that the pawing of the bear was a natural reaction.

JUANITA KLOERIS

Missouri Lady Has Problem

As a rule, milk is about the best food for children, but there are times when they are much better off without it. It should always be left off when children show by feverish, fretful or cross spells, by bad breath, coated tongue, sallow skin, indigestion, biliousness, etc., that their stomach and bowels are out of order.

In cases like this, California Fig Syrup never fails to work wonders, by the quick and gentle way it removes all the souring waste which is causing the trouble, regulates the stomach and bowels and gives these organs tone and strength so they continue to act normally, of their own accord. Children love its rich, fruity flavor and it's purely vegetable and harmless, even for babies.

Millions of mothers have proved its merits and reliability in over 50 years of steadily increasing use. A Missouri mother, Mrs. Wardie Kloeris, 5206 Kansas St., St. Louis, says: "My little girl, Juanita's tendency to constipation was a problem to me until I began giving her California Fig Syrup. It helped her right away and soon her stomach and bowels were acting perfectly. Since then I've never had to have any advice about her bowels. I have also used California Fig Syrup with my older girl, with equal success."

To be sure of getting the genuine, which physicians endorse, always ask for California Fig Syrup by the full name.

WONDER BREAD
One woman tells another!

All about a New and Better Bread

Note What it Does for You and Your Family

It is called Wonder Bread, and according to many dietetic experts it marks a notable advancement in family health.

By ALICE ADAMS PROCTOR

MADAM: No matter what you think of your present bread, please get a loaf of Wonder Bread today. Do this, if you wish, in the nature of a trial. It costs you no more. It promises you much.

For toast it knows no equal. And eaten plain it amazes with its delicate flavor. It slices without crumbling. And keeps its freshness for days.

Also this about health.

This bread supplies an abundance of calories. Enough, say several authorities, to restore as much as 30 per cent of all energy used up by the human body.

It provides many necessary proteins, too. The elements, as you know, that build sturdy muscles.

To maintain its quality day after day, we go to great lengths. We specify a specially milled short patent flour. Only the heart of the wheat berry is used.

We use double the usual amount of milk. Every drop pasteurized.

We employ, too, a special method of baking. Slo-baking, it is called. A method that seals in the dietetic value of our ingredients and improves their flavor.

Hence when you get Wonder Bread you get the best. Millions have found this to be so.

So please try it at once. Simply to prove what it offers you.

SEVEN QUICK FACTS
About Wonder Bread

5. Ingredients tested for quality, nutritive value.
6. Made of specially milled short patent flour. Heart of wheat berry.
7. At your grocer's, oven-fresh, twice daily.

CANDIED ORANGE PEEL IS A DELECTABLE SWEET

A Most Attractive Sweetmeat for the Afternoon Tea Table.

Candied orange peel is quite simple to make and if stored in a tin box or a closely covered jar it may be kept for some weeks without drying out. When it does become dry it can be steamed to soften it and then rolled again in sugar.

Use the bright yellow orange skins, as they have the best appearance. Drop them into boiling water and boil for half an hour or until they are tender enough to be easily pierced with a fork. Drain, cool and scrape off most of the inside white rind with a teaspoon. With a sharp knife or with a pair of scissors, cut the yellow peel into strips about one-quarter inch wide.

Mix two cups of sugar with three-fourths cup of water and one-fourth teaspoon of cream of tartar. Boil until the mixture spins a thread, then drop in the orange peel (this quantity of syrup will take care of the peel of five large oranges) and cook slowly for 10 minutes or until it is transparent around the edges.

It is generally better to cook half of the peel in the syrup at a time.

Skim the peel from the syrup and drop into a pile of granulated sugar. Roll the peel around in the sugar with a fork to separate the strips and coat them with sugar. Grapefruit peel may be candied in the same way.

French Minted Potatoes.

Wash and scrape potatoes; cut into balls with vegetable cutter; cook until tender in boiling water to which mint has been added. Melt butter and add lemon juice, salt, pepper and parsley. Pour over drained potatoes.

ST. PATRICK OFFERS IDEAS TO HOSTESS

Nothing Prettier for Table Decorations Than Green Color Scheme.

This month St. Patrick's day offers the hostess the only opportunity for special entertaining. It may be a little early to talk of this holiday, but I know that many of you like to plan ahead, therefore I am giving these suggestions now so that you will have plenty of time to think about them.

It is an easy matter to carry out a green and white color scheme in table decorations and menu. Since bridge luncheons or suppers are about the most popular form of entertaining, I am giving a menu that can be used for either.

A table centerpiece of shamrocks and any of the small white flowers such as the paper white narcissi, baby's breath, phlox, etc., may be used. Tall white candles in flat green holders, or green candles in white porcelain holders are attractive.

There are a great many varieties of nut cups and place cards that may be selected from those shown in any shop.

For the menu serve cream of spinach soup; broiled lamb chops with mint jelly, parsley potatoes and peas; watercress salad with tiny cream cheese balls; pistachio ice cream, cake and coffee.

For relishes I would suggest large green olives, crisp white celery and small sweet pickles. Clover leaf rolls make an appropriate form of bread to serve.

If preferred, instead of soup, the first course might consist of a fruit cocktail made with diced apples, white grapes and grapefruit garnished with green maraschino cherries and served in tall green glasses.

A Bavarian cream, colored pale green, flavored with almond and decorated with whipped cream sprinkled with blanched pistachio nuts, may be substituted for the ice cream.

Salted nuts and bonbons may be added to the menu; little hard green and white mint candies, in this case, should be used to fill favor baskets at each place.

SOME INTRODUCTORY DISHES FOR THE FORMAL MEAL

Any One of Them Will Add Distinction to a Company Dinner.

The introductory course of the formal or informal luncheon or dinner is planned to meet two requirements: to attract the eye and to stimulate the appetite.

The first course may consist of a canape, a fruit juice cocktail, a cocktail of fruits or sea foods, or, as a California custom, a fruit salad. When salad is served as the first course, it is not again included in the meal.

Suggestions for First Courses.

Sardines with hard-cooked eggs. Lemon slices.

Crab meat Louie. Lemon and paprika.

Lobster cocktail.

Anchovy canapes.

Oysters on the half shell. Lemon quarters.

Tomatoes with asparagus tips. Mousselaine sauce.

Sardines with tartare sauce.

Caviare canapes.

RECIPE FOR BAKED BEANS

Many Housewives Continue to Bake Beans in the Family Oven.

Plain baked beans which make a nice dinner are made with one quart dried navy beans, one and one-half teaspoon salt, one medium-sized onion, one-third pound salt pork and four tablespoons dark corn syrup. Wash beans thoroughly and soak over night. In morning use same water to cook beans.

Boil one hour counting from time the water starts to boil, then at end of hour put in bean pot with the onion, salt and syrup. Place one piece of pork in center of beans and put remainder, cut in slices, on top of beans and bake in a slow oven until the beans are thoroughly cooked. Before removing from the oven brown the pork which is served with the beans.

ANNIVERSARY CANAPE

A Very Unusual Appetizer for a Formal Dinner.

Take three chicken livers or one-half cup liver sausage, two tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, 12 small squares white bread and one-half cup colored butter.

Spread mashed and seasoned livers or liver sausage on bread. Decorate top with butter, which has been colored with vegetable color and put through pastry tube using No. [illegible] tube for design.

As the canape is eaten with the fingers the paste should not be spread too near the edge of the bread.

Creamed Finnan Haddie.

Select a full thick half of a smoked finnan haddie and let stand one hour in fresh, cold water. Drain and place in a covered baking dish and add a very small amount of water—just sufficient to steam the fish. Steam, well covered, for about twenty minutes. Remove to platter, clear the meat of the bones and cover meat with a rich white sauce. Garnish with slices of hard-cooked eggs and sprinkle lightly with paprika.

CLEVER HOUSEWIVES SERVE RICE OFTEN

A Valuable Article of Food Which Combines With Other Foods.

Rice, a convenient starchy food, is nutritious and palatable and digests well. It may be cooked quickly without waste, and is an economical addition to the diet.

Serve occasionally as a breakfast cereal with milk, and if desired, cook dates or raisins with it; combined with cheese, minced meat or poultry, fish, eggs and beans a variety of dishes may be made; serve as a vegetable with stewed tomatoes with curry powder or a little onion added as a seasoning; use freely in soups.

Left-over boiled rice may be mixed with pancake or muffin batters of wheat, buckwheat or cornmeal; also, with a little meat or vegetable with seasonings for croquettes; or as filling for baked tomatoes or baked green peppers.

A great variety of substantial desserts may be made using rice as a foundation, with the addition of milk, eggs, fruits, nuts, etc.

Boiled Rice.

Put one quart boiling water and one teaspoonful salt in a double boiler. Add gradually one cup rice. Cook rapidly, uncovered, from twenty to thirty minutes without stirring. When rice has absorbed all the water, place a tight cover on the double boiler, set on back of range, and let steam finish the cooking. The kernels will be full and distinct, and cooked in this way, rice retains all its nourishment.

Rice With Egg Sauce.

Line a greased bread pan with warm, salted rice. Cover bottom and sides of pan, fill center with any flaked fish, well seasoned, cover top with rice and steam one hour. Turn on a platter for serving and surround with egg sauce.

Egg Sauce: Melt two tablespoonfuls drippings with three tablespoonfuls flour, salt and pepper. Pour on gradually one and one-half cups milk, or hot water, stir occasionally and boil a few minutes, then add one egg yolk, slightly beaten, and season with one teaspoonful lemon juice or vinegar.

Rice Griddle Cakes.

One cup cold cooked rice, one-half teaspoonful salt, one-fourth cup sugar, one and one-half cups milk, two tablespoonfuls melted drippings, one well beaten egg, two and one-half cups flour into which has been sifted two teaspoonfuls baking powder. Beat well and bake on a very hot griddle.

Rice and Cheese.

Melt three tablespoonfuls drippings, add three tablespoonfuls of flour, salt and pepper, and one-fourth teaspoonful mustard. When smooth, add slowly two cups hot milk and stir until it boils, add one cup cheese cut in small pieces, and when melted mix lightly with one cup cooked rice. Pour in baking dish and cover top with fine breadcrumbs and bake until brown.

Cold Rice Pudding.

Soak three-fourths tablespoonful of gelatine in one-fourth cup cold water ten minutes, dissolve in one-fourth cup boiling water. Cook one tablespoonful rice in one-half cup water until soft, in a double boiler, adding a little salt. Add dissolved gelatin, one-half cup (altogether) of walnut meats, figs, dates or prunes, and one-fourth cup sugar, then fold in one-half pint of whipped cream. Place on ice. When firm, remove to platter. Milk may be substituted for the cream by adding one-fourth of a tablespoonful more of gelatine.

EPICUREAN HERRING SALAD

Always Served in Homes Where Good Cooking Is Appreciated.

Three salt herring, two cups of beets, two apples, one dill pickle, two cups of boiled beef, two and one-half cups of cooked potatoes, four tablespoons of vinegar, one-half teaspoon of sugar and a little white pepper.

Soak the herring in water for 24 hours. Clean well, removing the skin and the bones. Dry in towels and cut in cubes. Also cut in cubes the pickle, peeled apples, meat, beets and potatoes. Mix all together and add vinegar, sugar and pepper.

Pack firmly in a mound on a platter covered with lettuce leaves and garnish with hard-boiled eggs cut in quarters and arranged horizontally around the base of mound.

Pop Corn Cheese Balls.

Put through the food chopper one cupful of popped corn and one cupful of American cheese. Season this mixture to taste with salt and pepper and moisten with mayonnaise so that it will stick together. Make into balls, rolling in a little extra ground pop corn and serve with either vegetable or fruit salads.

Cookery Uses of Fish.

There is such a wonderful opportunity of using fish daily when one stops to realize its various uses, as a cocktail, soup, salad, as main dish of the meal, either baked, broiled, boiled, sauted, fried, encasserole, croquettes; and now it even makes its appearance on the dessert menu in a custard.

Sardines and Peas.

Allow two or three sardines for each person. They should be skinned and boned if they have not been before canning. Put in a small stewpan with the peas and a little catsup, about a tablespoon for each portion. Mix and heat well and then spread on hot buttered toast.

Use Baking Powder Cans.

Steam fruit puddings in baking powder cans. Fill the cans about three-fourths full with dough to allow for swelling while steaming. These puddings will keep for some time.

PLANNING NEW MENUS FOR FAMILY MEALS

Variety Can Often Be Gotten by the Selection of New Combinations.

While a roast seems to be more or less traditional for Sunday dinner, there are times when it is good to make a change. This week, for instance, plan broiled steak for Sunday, and use a roast in the middle of the week.

If your family is large it will pay to buy a good-sized steak so that the end and the bone may be utilized for making the beefsteak pie that is served the next night. If there is not enough meat left over from the steak for this, combine the remnants with as much bottom round or chuck as may be required.

Select tomato bouillon to precede the steak. This is simply made, is very appetizing, and helps make the meal more satisfying. If French endive is not available, use any fresh salad green, serving it with the same plain French dressing. Fruit ices or sherbets are always popular and can be very readily made at home. If, however, it is more convenient to substitute some other type of dessert for the frozen, I would suggest a fruit Bavarian cream, charlotte, or gelatine whip.

Cream of onion soup served with toasted rolls or crackers makes a very satisfying and nutritious luncheon dish. Peel six medium-sized onions, and cut them in slices. By the way, speaking of peeling onions, I read the other day that some scientist in England had discovered that if you hold a needle between your lips while peeling onions, you will not suffer from the flow of tears that so often accompanies the process. I have not tried this experiment, but it was given in all seriousness, so I am passing it on for what it is worth.

To go back to the soup put the sliced onions in a saucepan with one quart of hot water and one and one-half teaspoons of salt. Cover and boil for 20 minutes or until the onions are tender. Then rub through a coarse strainer, saving all of the liquid. Melt three tablespoons of butter, add four tablespoons of flour and when well mixed stir in two cups of milk, and cool until thickened and smooth. The mixture will be of the consistency of a thick white sauce. Add the onion pulp and juice, and season to taste with salt and pepper. Serve very hot.

Meatless meals have been planned for Wednesday and Friday to meet the requirements of those who observe Lent.

The lamb croquettes served on Thursday are made from the leftover roast of Tuesday. Any mixture of raw vegetables, such as shredded cabbage, celery, carrots and green peppers, will make a wholesome salad to serve with the croquettes.

Use Leftover Baked Beans.

Press one cup of leftover baked beans through a sieve, add one-half cup of sifted soft breadcrumbs, one teaspoonful onion juice, one teaspoonful chopped parsley, one-half teaspoonful paprika, six tablespoonfuls tomato catsup and two eggs well beaten. Mix all together and turn into individual molds well greased, or turn into a single mold. Bake in a pan of hot water until firm in the middle. Turn from the mold and serve hot with a tomato sauce.

What Are Crusties?

Crusties are sometimes considered tarts and are very attractive for luncheons, teas, picnics. They are simply tarts made of pastry mixed with fruit juice instead of water. Try them some time.

Thanksgiving Day, 1928

Golden Harvest Year! These are the words used by Mayor William McLaughlin (above) of Sunnyvale, California, in his Thanksgiving Day Proclamation celebrating the wonderful crops of 1928. Chief among the crops thus celebrated is the magnificent harvest of Libby's Peaches

NOW they are being offered to all this city! Libby's wonderful peaches of the Golden Harvest Year. Peaches which the maitre d'hotel of a famous New York restaurant says are "as remarkable for beauty as for flavor."

Fruit of the Golden Harvest Year—Libby's California Peaches!

Golden Harvest Year! It was thus that William McLaughlin, Mayor of Sunnyvale, California, acclaimed 1928 in his Thanksgiving Day Proclamation. For 1928 saw crops more bountiful, more perfectly ripened, more tempting in flavor than ever before!

Chief among the crops celebrated was the remarkable harvest of Libby's California Peaches. Peaches famed for beauty and rare perfection—mellow, luscious, exquisitely full ripe!

Big halves of tender gold

To all California the Golden Harvest Year brought peach crops of amazing size and fineness. To Libby's great canning kitchens in Selma, in Gridley, in "peach villages" scattered half the length of the state, an abundance of superb peaches was brought from the surrounding orchards.

Now this wonderful fruit can be offered at a price within the reach of all! Already the first great shipment has reached this city.

Tender gold from the land of sunshine! Fruit that has been left hanging on the trees until the very moment of perfect ripeness. Then packed at once so all its matchless flavor is sealed in. Libby's California Peaches of the Golden Harvest Year!

A luxury for your table, and at a moderate price. Just ask your grocer for a can of Libby's California Peaches. Libby, McNeill & Libby, Chicago.

To get choice varieties of all fruits: Hawaiian Pineapple, Bartlett Pears, Apricots, Plums, Cherries, etc. as well as Peaches, be sure to ask for Libby's.

TRY THIS CHICKEN LOAF

It Is Simply Delicious Served Either Hot or Cold.

Two cups cold cooked chicken, either fresh or canned, two cups soft bread crumbs, one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon grated lemon rind, one tablespoon minced parsley, one beaten egg and one cup chicken gravy or milk. Mix all together, pour into a buttered, rather shallow bread pan, brush the top with melted butter and bake in a moderate oven for 45 to 50 minutes. Serve hot or cold.

If hot, cream gravy, mushroom sauce or tomato sauce are good accompaniments. If served cold, add a crisp salad, small moulds of cranberry jelly or a vegetable salad.

FISH IS NOW MADE INTO DELECTABLE RAREBITS

A Welcome Addition to a Friday Luncheon or an Evening Supper.

An unusual fish dish is baked haddock rarebit. The directions for making it call for one and one-half pounds fish, one teaspoon salt, few grains pepper, melted butter or drippings, one-fourth pound cheese, one-fourth cup cream or rich top milk, one egg, one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon mustard, a few grains of salt and a pinch of baking soda.

Place fish on baking sheet, springling with salt and pepper. Brush with melted butter or drippings and bake in a moderate oven 30 minutes. Remove to platter and serve with hot rarebit, garnishing with parsley.

To make the rarebit, coarsely grate cheese and put in top of double boiler with cream or milk. When cheese is melted add slightly beaten eggs, to which seasonings have been added. Stir constantly, never allowing to boil. When mixture begins to thicken, add baking soda. Serve very hot.

Pear and Ginger Salad.

This Week's Simplified Recipe—BAKED ALASKA!

Cake Mixing Time, Less Than 4 Minutes!

Another Adventure in "Kitchen-tested" Baking

Now Baked Alaska has been simplified. Of the first 427 women trying this recipe, 424 succeeded perfectly. Two who failed blamed a mistake in mixing; the third her oven. Try it.

By the development of an utterly new type of flour—Gold Medal "Kitchen-tested" Flour—baking has been simplified amazingly for housewives. And the cause of most baking disappointments banished.

"Kitchen-tested" means that every batch of this flour has been tested in an oven just like yours, before it goes to you. Tested for uniformity of result with home recipes.

That means Gold Medal Flour always acts the same way EVERY TIME with your recipes.

Ask your grocer for GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Flour. For perfect results, be sure and get that brand of flour before you try this recipe.

RECIPE . . . . Baked Alaska

6 egg yolks, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup GOLD MEDAL "KITCHEN-TESTED" FLOUR, 2 tsp. baking powder, ¼ tsp. salt, ⅓ cup boiling water, 1 tsp. lemon juice.

METHOD: 1. Beat egg yolks with rotary beater until thick and lemon colored. 2. Add sugar gradually, beating all the while. 3. Sift flour once before measuring. 4. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. 5. Add boiling water, flour mixture and lemon juice to egg mixture and beat well, still using rotary beater. 6. Place batter in ungreased pan and bake. The spring form cake pan in which the bottom has been inverted to form a depression in center of cake is correct size, or regular Mary Ann Cake pan can be used. TIME: Bake 40 minutes. TEMPERATURE: 350° F., moderate oven. SIZE OF PAN: One 10-inch spring form pan, or a Mary Ann Cake Pan, not a tube center pan. AMOUNT: 12 to 16 servings. Meringue and Filling: 6 egg whites, 1 cup sugar, 2 quarts strawberry ice cream. METHOD: 1. When cake has cooled and it is time to serve dessert, make meringue by beating egg whites very stiff and gradually beating in sugar. 2. Place cake on paper on board and fill depression in cake with ice cream. 3. Cover ice cream and sides of cake with thick icing of the meringue. Be sure ice cream is thoroughly covered so that heat of oven will not melt it. 4. Place in oven for few minutes until meringue is delicately browned. 5. Remove from oven, slip cake from board onto serving platter and serve at once. TIME: Bake from 3 to 5 minutes. TEMPERATURE: 500° F., very hot oven. NOTE: You can make one-half this recipe, enough to serve 6 to 8 persons by making one-half the cake mixture in a bread loaf pan. When cooled place 1 quart of brick ice cream on top of loaf cake. The cake must extend out a little beyond the ice cream on all sides. Cover with one-half the meringue mixture and bake in same way.

GOOD COOKS MASTER MAKING OF SAUCES

They Can Be Used to Give Appearance and Flavor to Many Dishes.

There are perhaps few of the principles of cookery as important as those underlying the making of sauces—important that is from the standpoint of flavor and palatability. Many an economical dish, and many a one rather lacking in flavor, can be dressed up and vastly improved if one knows how to make a good sauce.

As this series of little talks is directed primarily to those who are inexperienced in the culinary art, we will divide the subject of sauces into two or three groups and discuss each separately. The first deals with the making of white sauce and some of its variations. This is one of the most important groups and has a great many uses. Its success lies in thorough blending and careful measuring of the ingredients, and in constant stirring during the cooking process.

All white sauces have the same base, though their proportions vary somewhat according to the thickness required.

For convenience they may be numbered 1, 2 and 3 according to the amount of flour used for thickening. One tablespoon of flour, one tablespoon of butter, and one cup of milk are used in making the first type of white sauce which is that commonly used for cream soups. Two tablespoons of butter and two of flour with one cup of milk make the second type of sauce, and is the kind generally used for meat and vegetable sauces. Three tablespoons of butter and three of flour with one cup of milk make a thick sauce that is used for some scalloped dishes, but mostly as a base for croquettes or souffles. In all of these types exactly the same method is used in mixing. Melt the butter first over a slow fire, then stir in the flour and mix thoroughly. Add the milk and continue stirring the mixture over a slow fire until it is thickened, smooth and boiling. Season with salt, using generally one-half teaspoon to each cup. Pepper and other seasonings may be added at will.

There are many variations of this sauce that can be very appetizingly used with meat, fish, eggs and vegetables. Number 2 sauce is that most used for sauces of this kind, as it has the best consistency for combination with these foods.

Parsley sauce: add one-fourth cup of minced parsley, one-half teaspoon of lemon juice, and a few drops of Worcestershire sauce to each cup of white sauce.

Mock hollandaise: stir one cup of hot white sauce into one well-beaten egg and add one tablespoon of butter and two tablespoons of lemon juice.

Chees sauce: add one-fourth cup of grated stale cheese to each cup of sauce.

The first deals with the making of white sauce and some of its variations. This is one of the most important groups and has a great many uses. Its success lies in thorough blending and careful measuring of the ingredients, and in constant stirring during the cooking process.

All white sauces have the same base, though their proportions vary somewhat according to the thickness required.

For convenience they may be numbered 1, 2 and 3 according to the amount of flour used for thickening. One tablespoon of flour, one tablespoon of butter, and one cup of milk are used in making the first type of white sauce which is that commonly used for cream soups. Two tablespoons of butter and two of flour with one cup of milk make the second type of sauce, and is the kind generally used for meat and vegetable sauces. Three tablespoons of butter and three of flour with one cup of milk make a thick sauce that is used for some scalloped dishes, but mostly as a base for croquettes or souffles. In all of these types exactly the same method is used in mixing. Melt the butter first over a slow fire, then stir in the flour and mix thoroughly. Add the milk and continue stirring the mixture over a slow fire until it is thickened, smooth and boiling. Season with salt, using generally one-half teaspoon to each cup. Pepper and other seasonings may be added at will.

There are many variations of this sauce that can be very appetizingly used with meat, fish, eggs and vegetables. Number 2 sauce is that most used for sauces of this kind, as it has the best consistency for combination with these foods.

Parsley sauce: add one-fourth cup of minced parsley, one-half teaspoon of lemon juice, and a few drops of Worcestershire sauce to each cup of white sauce.

Mock hollandaise: stir one cup of hot white sauce into one well-beaten egg and add one tablespoon of butter and two tablespoons of lemon juice.

Cheese sauce: add one-fourth cup of grated stale cheese to each cup of sauce.

CODFISH CAKES ARE NICE FOR BREAKFAST

When Properly Made They Do Not Fall Apart When Cooked.

Codfish cakes that are cooked in deep fat have a crispness that is impossible to get in a frying pan. Whether it is better to cook them in this way or not depends on personal taste. If you like them crisp and fluffy, I should say yes. I am sure you will find the following recipe satisfactory.

Codfish Cakes.

Scald two cups of salt codfish by pouring boiling water through it. Mix with three cups of hot mashed potatoes and whip in one beaten egg. Add two or three tablespoons of milk a little at a time, beating it in gradually.

Taste the mixture to see that it is seasoned enough and let it col. When cold, shape into fat cakes one-half inch thick, or into balls, dip in beaten egg diluted with one tablespoon of cold water, and then roll in fine dry breadcrumbs.

Fry in deep fat that has been heated until it will brown a piece of bread in one minute. Cook until well browned, drain on soft paper and serve hot.

If preferred the cakes may be cooked in a frying pan containing about one-half inch of hot fat. Fry on one side until brown, then turn and fry on the other side.

The use of egg in the mixture tends to hold the cakes together, and rolling them in egg and breadcrumbs is a further help.

The temperature of the fat is another important factor, for if it is not hot enough the mixture will become grease soaked and fall apart.

INFORMAL AFTERNOON TEAS ARE POPULAR DURING LENT

Simple Menus and Easily Prepared Foods Make the Functions Informal.

Food accompaniments for afternoon teas are usually quite simple nowadays, unless a very formal affair is being planned.

Sandwiches that are small and dainty in shape, and spread with some light, delicately flavored filling, are always good; toasted muffins, cinnamon toast cut in narrow strips, tiny baking powder biscuits split and spread with butter and brown sugar to give a butterscotch flavor, may be used instead of sandwiches. If, however, a large number of guests are to be served, sandwiches will be much simpler.

Tiny cakes, crisp wafers, thin small slices of fruit cake or pound cake, tiny cream puffs or any small dainty cakes are used for the sweet course. Salted nuts, bon bons, candied fruit — any or all of these may be added as "extras."

Be sure the tea is hot and fresh. Serve it with lemon or cream as desired, or have an assortment including slices of lemon and orange, whole cloves, maraschino cherries and thin slices of candied ginger that the guest may choose from and add to her tea if she desires.

CANTERBURY TARTS

To make Canterbury tarts take one cup raisins, one cup sugar, one egg, one soda cracker (ground fine), two tablespoons lemon juice, rind of lemon, pastry.

Method: Chop raisins, add sugar and egg slightly beaten, cracker crumbs, lemon juice and grated rind. Cut oblongs of pastry about three and one-half inches by two inches. Cut strips of dough and twist. Dampen edges of each oblong and put twisted strip around. Fill with raisin mixture and bake in a hot oven. When partly baked place a marshmallow on top of each tart and finish baking.

Vegetable Lore.

Many people do not appreciate the fact that vegetables do not require long cooking to make them edible. Indeed, overcooking spoils the texture and a great deal of the flavor of the vegetable, and also robs it of much of its valuable food elements. Vegetables should be cooked in a very small amount of water only long enough to soften them. Steamed vegetables usually retain more of their food elements than when boiled.

UNFAVORABLE REPORTS ON 7 REFORM BILLS

Several of Measures Were Advocated by Missouri Association for Criminal Justice.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 8.—Seven bills making reforms in the criminal laws of Missouri were reported with recommendations that they do not pass by the Senate Criminal Jurisprudence Committee yesterday. Several of the measures were recommended by the Missouri Association for Criminal Justice.

Two of the bills would simplify indictments and provide that any technical violation of form should not void the indictment. The measures were sponsored by Senator Bates.

Two measures by Senator Dearmont relate to records in the Prosecuting Attorney's offices and Sheriffs office were killed. Another of the measures would forbid suspension of sentence, paroles or pardons to persons convicted of a felony while armed with a deadly weapon, or to persons convicted four times of felonies.

Bills to Restrict Lawyers.

Three bills to place new restrictions about the legal profession were presented in the Senate today by Senator Dearmont of Cape Girardeau. The bills are recommended by the Missouri Bar Association.

The principal bill is aimed at "ambulance chasing." It provides for removal of an attorney who solicits, either himself or through agents, directly or indirectly, employment to present claims or prosecute or defend any action. The bill also makes any contract for this service secured by solicitation void.

Another bill relates to suspension of attorneys for moral turpitude, providing any attorney found guilty of any proceeding involving moral turpitude, irregardless of criminal action, shall be removed from practice.

Senator Cave of Fulton presented a bill setting out a schedule of speed limits on State highways. A series of measures relating to duties of recorders of deeds were introduced by Senator Morgan of Unionville, and Senator Whitecotton presented a bill to cut down the number of ballots printed in elections, to reduce the cost to the counties.

Salary Increase Denied.

The House defeated a bill to increase the salary of the Marshal of the State Supreme Court from $2000 to $2500 a year.

Reversing its action of Tuesday, the House yesterday passed a bill to repeal the bee inspection laws of the Missouri statute books. The bill, sponsored by a group of rural legislators, failed of passage Tuesday. It was voted to reconsider the measure yesterday, and it passed. The bill would abolish the position of bee inspector and remove the charge of 15 cents on each hive in the State to defray inspection costs.

Chief of Police's Home Bombed.

By the Associated Press.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., March 8.—The home of William Davidson, Chief of Police, was damaged by a bomb today. The bomb, placed under the front steps, wrecked the porch and shattered windows in nearby residences. No one was injured. The force of the blast awoke students in dormitories at Geneva College, a half block away. Chief Davidson said he believed the bomb was planted by bootleggers.

TWO FOOD STORES FILE BANKRUPTCY PETITION

List Assets at $15,478 Liabilities $42,478—Orchestra Played Away Profits.

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed today by Blumer Food Stores, Inc., listing assets of $15,500 and liabilities of $42,478, represented by open accounts for merchandise, with the exception of $14,813 secured by mortgages on fixtures. The assets consist of stock in trade. The company now operates two stores, at 1212 Washington avenue, and 5206 Natural Bridge avenue, and has no connection with other Blumer food stores. and L. Habel, secretary.

The bankruptcy petition states the board of directors decided the company was insolvent last Monday. The directors are Grover C. Blumer, president; A. Donald Cook and L. Habel, secretary. Books of the company are at its restaurant at 5206 Natural Bridge avenue.

Blumer told a Post-Dispatch reporter Wednesday that a $20,000 loss had been incurred at his former restaurant on Oakland avenue, at the southwest entrance to Forest Park, where he installed a dance orchestra to attract youthful customers and succeeded in driving the regular diners away.

"Their usual order," said Blumer, referring to the "young folks," "was a 15-cent bottle of soda and a ham sandwich—25 cents. Then, when we added a quarter to the check to enforce the minimum 50-cent charge for table orders, we had to call a policeman to collect.

"They stole my silver and broke my furniture. I'm a glutton for punishment, but I had enough of that."

American Fixture and Showcase Co. Blast Heard for Several Blocks.

A large gas oven, used for drying newly-painted products, exploded on the sixth floor of the American Fixture and Showcase Co.'s plant at 1009 Lucas avenue, shortly before noon today. The noise was heard in a radius of several blocks. Most of the sixth-floor windows were blown out, and two employes of the company were cut by flying debris.

Officials of the company estimated the property damage at about $3000. They could give no cause for the blast. The injured men were treated by a physician and returned to their work.

COZEAN WAS NOT CASHIER OF THE BANK OF ELVINS

Man, Charged With $19,000 Embezzlement, Was Officer of Security Bank at Elvins, Mo.

It was erroneously stated in an early edition of yesterday's Post-Dispatch that W. Bryan Cozean of Elvins, Mo., who was charged yesterday with embezzling $19,000 from the Security Bank of Elvins, of which he was cashier, was cashier of the Bank of Elvins and that the shortage was in the latter bank.

The Bank of Elvins absorbed the Security Bank after the shortage was discovered last week and after Harry Miller, president of the Security Bank, had made good the loss from his personal funds.

VEGETABLE DISHES EASILY PREPARED

How to Transform Canned Foods Into Appetizing Hurry-Up Meals.

Heat asparagus tips in their own liquor over a slow fire. While the asparagus is heating, melt two tablespoons butter over a warm place, add one teaspoonful of finely chopped parsley, a speck of salt, cayenne, grated nutmeg and a few drops of lemon juice. Drain asparagus and serve with butter sauce.

Lima Beans and Cheese.

Heat one can lima beans in their own liquor with two green onions sliced thin, add one cup thick white sauce and ¼ cup grated cheese. Stir until thoroughly blended and season well.

String Beans and Carrots.

Scrub three medium-sized carrots and cook in boiling, salted water until tender. Heat one can string beans in their own liquor. When carrots are tender, blanch in cold water, peel and cut in strips the size of beans, mix with the beans with two tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon salt and pepper to taste. Heat thoroughly before serving.

Beet Salad.

Slice canned beets and let stand in French dressing while preparing the lettuce. Drain beets and arrange on lettuce with slices of green pepper and celery. Serve with mayonnaise.

Ham and Pineapple.

Panfry a slice of ham. When tender, remove to a hot platter. In the same pan brown slices of pineapple. Arrange on the platter with the ham and garnish with sprigs of parsley.

A Lenten Thought.

Use silver forks or spoons in making fish mixtures. If steel or other metal forks are used there is liable to be a perceptible metallic taste in the food.

DAINTY CREAM RHUBARB PIE

Housewives Who Try This Recipe Have a Treat in Store.

Sift together two tablespoons of cornstarch, one cup of sugar and one-half teaspoon of salt; pour on gradually one cup of boiling water and stir constantly over a slow fire until the boiling point is reached; add the grated rind of one orange, one cup of thinly-sliced rhubarb, one teaspoon of butter and three egg yolks that have been beaten until thick and light.

Remove from fire and turn into a deep pieplate lined with pastry, and bake 25 minutes in a moderate oven.

Remove from oven, cool slightly and spread with a meringue made of the whites of three eggs beaten until stiff, gradually, beating in one-half cup of sugar; spread over top of pie, dredge lightly with granulated sugar and bake in a very moderate oven 20 minutes. Baked for this length of time, the meringue will not shrink from the rim of the pie, show "dew" drops nor settle.

RECIPE FOR PICKLED OYSTERS

An Unusual Relish Which Appeals to Many Appetites.

Put a quart of oysters in a saucepan with a cup of water and a teaspoon of salt. Allow them to simmer gently for five minutes.

Remove the oysters and add to the water one cup of tarragon vinegar, cloves, mace and a few peppercorns. Let the whole boil five minutes. Put the oysters into the jar, and when they are cold, pour the pickle over them and seal. Probably it would be safer to use plain vinegar, since some people do not like the tarragon.

Macaroni Italian Style.

Cook one package macaroni. Put in chafing dish, add butter the size of an egg, and toss with two forks until butter is melted and absorbed by spaghetti. Add one cupful grated American cheese and a small can of tomatoes extended by half as much water. Toss again until cheese is melted and all very hot. Serve with grated cheese sprinkled over each serving.

ALLIGATOR PEAR SALAD

Another Name of This Aristocratic Vegetable Is Avocado.

The alligator pear has gained in popularity recently with the American home manager and really deserves even greater consideration, since it contains a large percentage of easily digested vegetable oil, while, at the same time its protein content is almost as high as that of fresh fruit.

Alligator Pear Salad.

Pare and cut fruit in half. Remove seed. Lay a half on lettuce leaves. Sprinkle with salt and add lemon juice.

A Helpful Hint.

When buying crab meat for use in a cocktail, an easy way to chill the meat is to place the can on the ice before opening it. Then, when it is mixed with the other cold ingredients, you will find that the cocktail, despite its spicy flavor, will have a cooling effect and at the same time will encourage appetite.

Eggless Cornbread.

Mix and sift one cup cornmeal, one-half cup flour, one-half cup sugar, one tablespoonful baking powder, one teaspoonful salt, two tablespoons melted shortening and one cup milk. Beat thoroughly and bake in greased tins about 20 minutes.

Grilled Prunes.

Cook and stone as many as are required. Put in their a ripe olive. Wrap a slice of con around each prune and them, taking care not to let burn. Serve on small, neat of very hot butter toast. square to each person.

To Drape or Not to Drape Idol.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 8.—Among the weighty matters under consideration by the Privy Council is whether an idol in a temple of India shall be draped or nude. A dispute between two sects is involved. One sect scraped off plaster clothes, the other had put on the idol. Models of the idol, draped and undraped, are in the Council Chamber.

Logged on the PHILCO.

PHILCO,
San Francisco, Cal.

Gentlemen:

In spite of the fact that I live within thirty miles of all the large Bay stations, I have logged over 300 radio stations on my PHILCO All-Electric Radio, including Japan, Korea, Cuba, Australia, Mexico and other stations which are considered difficult to get—ALL WITHOUT ANY AERIAL WHATSOEVER.

I stand ready to bring in Japan any night for anyone who will wait up until they come on the air, and will guarantee to get at least one or more stations. Moreover, I will challenge anyone, regardless of the make of their set, to out-perform my PHILCO in distance range, selectivity and tone.

Sincerely yours,
CHAS. T. JORDAN,
Pen Grove, Cal.

M'WEENY SIGNS 1929 CONTRACT WITH BROOKLYN

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 8.—Having induced Pitcher Buzz McWeeny to sign for $12,000 per annum, Manager Robinson of the Brooklyn Robins today trained his guns on the other holdout, Dazzy Vance. The strike-out king has retreated to his camp in Homosassa, declaring he will not sign for less than $25,000. The club owners say $22,500 is their limit.

Vance said he thought he should be paid extra now for those lean years several seasons ago when he received a comparatively small salary.

McWeeney capitulated after holding out all week for $15,000.

DRAKE CONCEDED CHANCE TO BEAT BEARS IN MEET

By Jerry Bernoudy.

The eighth annual Missouri Valley swimming meet to be held in Wilson pool at Washington University tomorrow promises to be a close race between the teams representing Washington and Drake. Creighton, Grinnell and Oklahoma A. & M. have entered teams, but the three squads are conceded only an outside chance to gain first honors.

Washington, perennial champion of the conference, has captured first place for the past seven seasons by wide margins in every case, and this is the first time that the Bears' right to the championship has even been questioned in advance. Coach Russell's Bulldog natators have proven themselves to be a formidable group of paddlers in earlier meets this season, however, and for that reason they are being given a chance to dethrone the Bruins.

Although the Iowa school is not equipped with a swimming pool, the Bulldogs have splashed their way to decisive victories in four meets this season. In these meets, Russell's athletes have bettered Valley records seven times in addition to having accomplished outstanding times in several other events. In order to be officially recognized the records must be made in the Valley meet according to the conference rules.

Team Owns Three Stars.

The chief threats on the Drake team are Ralph Squires, breast stroke; Jack McGuire, free style, and Maurice Strong, diver. An interesting race should develop between Brenner and Squires as the Washington paddler has not been stopped this season and has beaten swimmers on three Big Ten teams representing Iowa, Northwestern and Minnesota. Squires, on the other hand, has twice bettered the Valley record in the 200-yard breast stroke.

Tomorrow's meet will be started at 10 o'clock in the morning with the preliminaries in all events being held. The finals will take place at 8:30 p. m.

The entries follow:

DRAKE—200 relay—McGuire, Strong, Billick, Squires, Porter, Colby, McLelland. 200 breast—Squires, Billick. 50-yard—McGuire, Billick, Strong, Porter, Colby. 220-yard—McGuire, Billick, Strong, Porter, Colby. 440-yard—Colby, McGuire, Porter. 220-yard—McGuire, Billis, Strong, Porter, Colby. BILLY BARTON'S TRAINER DENIES HE IS COUGHING

By the Associated Press.

TENBY, Wales, March 8.—Published reports that Howard Bruce's Billy Barton was coughing and would not run in the Grand National were denied by his trainer today. Aubrey Hastings, the trainer, when told of the reports in the London papers said:

"I never heard such a ridiculous thing. Billy just came back from the sands where I watched him do a two-mile gallop. I have been with him some time and he is in splendid condition giving every satisfaction in gallops.

"We experienced some very trying conditions for training at Wroughton owing to frost, so I brought him down here with the other horses. The sand is specially harrowed each morning to remove stones and Billy then takes a good gallop. He works well and is very fit."

Asked when the American colt would be taken back to the Hastings stables he said that would depend upon the weather and when the frost got thoroughly out of the home grounds.

ABAD HAS ACCEPTED TERMS FOR ARETURN CONTEST WITH BASS

Matchmaker Jack Tippett of the Fred W. Stockham American Legion Post announced today that Davey Abad, Panama featherweight contender, has accepted terms for a return match with Benny Bass of Philadelphia, and that he now entertains hopes of bringing Bass to terms today. Tippett plans to book the contest as the main event of a New Coliseum fistic program March 19.

Tippett plans to sign either Eddie Anderson, the Wyoming cowboy boxer, or Johnny "Peewee" Kaiser, local featherweight, to meet Mike Esposito of New York, in another 10-round feature. Esposito made an impressive local debut when he decisively outpointed Paul Steadman in a prelim to th recent Bass-Abad bout.

Tom Pivac, local candidate for light-heavyweight ring laurels, may also land a 10-rounder on the New Coliseum card, according to Tippett, who stated that he has sent offers to Tuffy Griffith and Steve Mandell in an effort to sign one of them to meet the local mauler.

KURZ, MEYER GAIN PLACES ON VALLEY TEAM

By Wilbur C. Peterson.

Associated Press Staff Writer.

DES MOINES, Ia., March 8.—With the two men who did the major work for Washington in winning the Missouri Valley Conference virtually unanimous choices, the Associated Press today presents the honorary first and second teams of the conference. The teams were chosen with the aid of the coaches in the five Valley schools and the help of sports writers in various cities.

Ed "Moose" Meyer, the Washington forward, who was shifted to center when Hohn was declared ineligible in January, received a first-team berth on every selection. He alone won favor with every coach and critic. And well he might, for the Bears' leading scorer, and, in fact, the Bears' leading player, tallied 114 points in seven games to far outclass the entire conference.

It was the almost unanimous opinion of the critics that Meyer should be shifted to his old place at forward to make room for the elongated center from Creighton, Brud Jensen. The Bluejay pivotman led his team in scoring and was second in the conference with 50 points. Some few preferred to place Jensen on the second team and make Meyer the first-team center, but they were in the minority.

Kurz Was Real Star.

Like Meyer, his teammate, Ralph Kurz, was much in favor. Kurz received almost unanimous favor for a first-team guard. The Bears' star did the work on defense corresponding to Meyer's effective offensive tactics.

Fritz Kampf, Creighton captain and forward, and John Monohan, Drake guard, complete the first team. Kampf played a stellar game for the second-place Bluejays throughout the year and Monohan was a shining light in the Drake team's raher erratic season.

Both guards are good offensive as well as good defensive players. Monohan ranked fifth among the Valley's players in individual scoring with 38 points, while Kurz tallied 26 to place twelfth.

Constance Loses Out.

Lynn King, Drake's high scoring forward, received several first team preferences in addition to being an almost unanimous choice for the second. Harris Coggeshall, Grinnell captain and forward, won out over L. Trautman of Creighton and Constance of Washington for the other second team forward.

Charles Van Koten, the Valley's smallest center, was perhaps Drake's most flashy player and he received resognition by being chosen for the second team. Van Koten, who seldom was in the starting lineup of the Bulldogs, closed the season as the third leading scorer and he might easily have beaten Jensen for second high honors had he played more time. The Drake center, who seemed never to tire no matter what the pace, often outjumped his taller opponents and continually played the part of a "ball hawk" by snagging passes not intended for him.

Honorable mention goes to L. Trautman, Creighton; White, Oklahoma Aggies, and Constance and Wientge, Washington, forwards, and to Corcoran, Creighton; Fleming, Oklahoma Aggies; Barnes, Drake, and Fail, Grinnell, guards.

HENNESSEY TO MEET HUNTER IN FLORIDA TENNIS TOURNAMENT

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 8.—Francis T. Hunter, New Rochelle, N. Y., No. 2 player on the national tennis ranking list, and Johnny Hennessey, Indianapolis, No. 4, moved into the singles final of the Florida championships here by winning their semifinal matches yesterday.

Hunter eliminated Wilmer Allison, Dallas, Tex., and Hennessey turned back John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J.

Hunter's victory was gained in straight sets, 7—5, 6—3 and 6—4, but Hennessey was forced to four sets before he could take the measure of the youthful Van Ryn. The scores were 7—5, 6—1, 2—6 and 6—4.

Semifinals in the doubles also were concluded. Hunter and Hennessey had little trouble defeating Val Gress, Forest Hills, L. I., and S. Jarvis Adams Jr., Port Washington, L. I., 6—3, 6—2 and 6—3.

Van Ryn and Allison, however had trouble with John S. Millen, Philadelphia, and Lord Cholmondeley, London, in the other bracket. Van Ryn and Allison won in straight sets but the match provided fireworks for the gallery. The scores yere 9—7, 10—8 and 6—3.

Finals in the singles are scheduled for this afternoon and the doubles finals Saturday afternoon.

Estrada and Dondero, Brownie Recruits, Are On Club Hospital List

By John E. Wray,

Sports Editor Post-Dispatch.

WEST PALM BEACH, March 8.—Frank O'Rourke was the only one of the absentees to put in appearance here this morning. O'Rourke arrived on the same train with Scout "Buck" Freeman. O'Rourke was in uniforma for practice. The absentees now are Heinie Manush, Lu Blue and Frank McGowan. Blue is needed for first base work in practice, but O'Rourke will probably be used there until Blue arrives.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 8.—Manager Dan Howley checked up on his baseball squad yesterday to find how his plan of developing players slowly had panned out to date. Howley has worked on the theory that sore arms can be avoided and are not a necessary evil, to be endured through every training trip. His theory is that ball players should take their work in homeopathic doses at the start, in intensity at least, gradually stepping on the gas as strength and seasoning improve.

Howley's check showed him that of his entire squad of 13 pitchers not one today had a sore arm, although several of them have been "hooking" the ball to the batters in practice sessions of the past two days.

Of the remainder of the squad, Eddie Grimes started with a sore arm and has worked out of it, while Rick Ferrell, catcher, who reported that he was all right, was found to be favoring his throwing arm and was promptly "yanked" from practice.

The "wings" of every other man on the team this morning was reported o k. The hospital squad included Estrada, Cuban pitcher, whose ailment consists of a broken forefinger, suffered when a batted ball hit his hand, and Leonard Dondero, who has an injured second finger of his throwing hand and a sore leg. Otherwise the squad is 100 per cent.

Checkup Pleases Howley.

The checkup was highly pleasing to Manager Howley, who is now still more firmly convinced that gradual training is better than the old policy of sending men at work hard, the first day, and accepting the sore arms as a matter of course. The Brownie players, Howley hopes, will be able to start the season without having gone through the usual sore arm period.

Howley's only worry continues to be the failure of some of his veterans to report. Dan is eager to go forward with his advanced instructions, but must wait on the missing regulars.

Almost daily the Browns' camp is visited by critics, representing news services, who back Manager Howley into a corner and extract his views as to the team's prospects this year. They do it painlessly. In fact, it is a pleasure to Howley to talk about his fine squad and his hopes. Without making predictions Dan believes his team will do well.

"I know we finished 19 games behind last year, and that's a lot," Dan told Walter Trumbull, a visiting critic. "But we have lots of reason to be hopeful. We will have better hitting from Schulte and Kress, and I figure McGowan will bat at least .320 this season. We may have other improved hitters and that, of course, is what we need. In every other department of play we will be reinforced and so why shouldn't I be hopeful?"

Austin Admits He Is Tired.

Yesterday was one of the severest work days the squad has experienced. Sunshine and little wind favored the boys, who steamed through more than three hours of variegated effort. For the first time in history, Jimmy Austin, the "pepper pot" of many training camps, admitted that he was tired. Usually Jimmy herds the others into the clubhouse, after the proceedings have finished, with James still full of pep and the players' daubers hanging low. Yesterday, Jimmy himself was all in

It was a long and strenuous session. It began with the usual limbering up practice, worked into bunting tryouts for the batters, then fielding work for the pitchers, who were given an unusually long session at covering first on bunts. It was this feature of the Cardinals' practice under Rogers Hornsby in 1926 that helped the club on several important occasions.

Following this, batting practice took place and here big Tom Jenkins was again a star. His clouting has been one of the features for a week. It would not be surprising if Jenkins were retained as a member of the 25 that will finally make up the 1929 team. Jenkins is not only a fine hitter, but he is a very good fielder.

Schulte Stars in Work.

Ralph Kress, Dondero, Manion and Fred Schulte also gave good hitting exhibitions. Schulte, in particular, seems to have regained his batting form. Manager Dan thinks Schulte this year will come out of his slump. "He ought to bat .350 this season. I notice that he has never gotten away to a good start in any of his previous club connections. It takes him a couple of years to get going and this should be his year. He is normally a great hitter and his record shows that," Howley observed.

Kress is pleasing everybody with his playing at short and the way he swings at the ball. "They fooled him with that shoulder high ball, last year, but they won't get away with it again." Howley commented to a circle of listeners. "This boy is due for a great year."

Dondero was not so active, due to the fact that two minor injuries hampered his work. An injured finger and a lame leg caused Howley to order him to take things lightly. It is hard, however, to hold down these young men, and Howley had several times to caution Dondero. The battle for third base has interred Dondero and he is heart and soul in his effort to beat Grimes to the third corner. He will have to step some—rather, he will have to hit the ball, for it is hitting that Howley lacks. Grimes has shown himself a great fielder and he will hold down the third corner until someone is able to beat him out of it.

Howley is hoping that Eddie will hit as well in the majors as he did in the minors. If he does, its goodby third base job for everybody else. After batting practice, the usual defensive infield play, followed by fungo hitting to give the pitchers leg work, completed the day. Most of the men then jogged around the park and it was after 2 o'clock when they returned to the clubhouse for their showers and sandwiches.

Cobb Will Report At Browns' Camp Early Next Week

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 8.

ONE of the interesting announcements made today by Dan Howley was that Ty Cobb would join the club March 12, as per his promise. Manager Dan and Ty are close friends. Ty is coming ostensibly to get into condition, but there is little doubt that he will give some valuable batting advice to the young hitters of the team.

George Stanton, rookie first baseman, who is suffering from an injured knee, will be sent to St. Louis in a day or two to be operated on. Dr. Robert Hyland will perform the operation, probably next Monday. This recruit is considered very valuable to the team and every effort will be made to save him for future baseball usefulness.

Dr. Hyland, however, after an examination of Stanton's leg, declined to forecast the result of the operation.

ROLLA MINES WILL NOT AWARD LETTERS TO LAGGING STUDENTS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ROLLA, Mo., March 8.—Eight letters in basketball have been awarded at the School of Mines and Metallurgy, according to a report issued by Prof. C. Y. Clayton, chairman of the Athletic Board of Control. Those receiving their "M" are Frances Tucker, Rolla; Norvin Tamm, Washington; W. B. Hollow, Cuba; M. G. Tieman, Concordia; E. W. Heilig, Anna, Ill.; R. M. Carpenter, St. James; D. H. Miller, Cape Girardeau, and T. H. Green, Waverly, Ky.

The Athletic Board of Control also adopted an amendment to the by-laws that provided that letters will not be awarded in any sport in the future until the recipient of the award has satisfactorily completed the work of the semester in which he was a participant.

Jockey Injured.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, March 8.—Jockey J. Scurlock was seriously injured when he was thrown from his mount, Resolute, in the fourth race at Oriental Park yesterday. As Scurlock tumbled to the ground he was struck on the mouth by one of Resolute's hoofs. Unconscious, he was taken to a hospital.

DEMPSEY MAY COME HERE TO PROMOTE BOUT

By W. J. McGoogan

Ben Brinkman, president of the National Exposition Co., whose huge arena just west of Forest Park Highlands is nearing completion, has hopes of inducing Jack Dempsey to promote a heavy-contest of importance here next fall.

Brinkman recently returned from Florida and while he was there told Dempsey of the new building his company was erecting in St. Louis.

"Dempsey was interested in the project at once" Brinkman said today, "and remarked that he thought St. Louis would be an ideal place in which to hold a big bout. I told him that when we were more settled and the building was in operation I would talk to him about coming here to put on a show for us."

Brinkman plans to return to Florida shortly but also expects to see Dempsey again within the next few months at which time more definite plans may be made.

Will Seat 12,500.

The indoor arena here will be in the shape of a bowl and will have a permanent seating capacity of 12,500 but for the purpose of a boxing match there would be accommodations of nearly 20,000 persons which, Brinkman, believes would insure the financial success of a big bout.

As has been told the new building will be opened about May 15 with the St. Louis Exposition, an industrial exhibit.

The National Exposition Co. has an arrangement with Madison Square Garden of New York by which some of the events held there may be brought at St. Louis.

This relationship is expected to be expanded in the future, Brinkman said, into a working agreement between the two companies and including arenas in Newark, N. J., Boston, Detroit, Chicago and possibly Cleveland by which all events would be supervised and allotted to the various cities.

Sports Program Tentative.

Athletic contests of all sorts are to be sponsored by the arenas and will be sent from one city to another. This would do away with the present practice of competing for boxing matches and their resultant high cost and would make it possible for the smaller localities to view some of the more important bouts.

However, the athletic policy is to be pursued by the National Exposition Co. is still very tentative, Brinkman said, because the company is of the opinion that it should feel its way along and have promoters of sports come to it when they see the advantages of the new arena.

McBride Meets Roosevelt; Webster Plays U. City in District Basket Tourney

By Harold Tuthill.

The ideal setting for the semifinals of the St. Louis District High School tournament being conducted at St. Louis University wsa realized yesterday, when Soldan, the champions of the Public League, was overcome by University City, 22 to 19, and when Maplewood, titleholder of the County League, was defeated by Webster, 18 to 10.

Both Roosevelt and McBride managed to remain in the meet as the Rough Riders conquered Wellston, 13 to 9, and McBride took an extra period to nose out Christian Brothers College, 13 to 12.

The tenseness of the four games was heightened by the outcome of the McBride-C. B. C. struggle. Previously, each team had defeated the other in Preparatory League battles. The Brothers began the game in a manner that indicated that McBride's capable defense would not be equal to the task of stopping Johnny Corcoran, who was recognized as the most accurate shot in the meet.

The machine-like attack of McBride functioned perfectly when Ruff tipped one in from under the basket after the first few minutes of play. Corcoran scored from the floor and the foul line, while Stephens tossed in a free throw to complete the scoring in the first quarter. Corcoran, with two goals from scrimmage, tallied all of the Brothers' points in the first half. Ruff's free throw was the only score made by McBride in the second period.

McBride Ties the Score.

McBride's latent attack was revealed in the third quarter when Gorman's goal from the floor and Durbin's free throw tied the score at 7-all. Durbin counted from the field and the third quarter ended with McBride leading, 9 to 7. C. B. C. failed to score in this session, so impregnable was McBride's defense.

It seemed that the four point margin obtained on Durbin's field goal would have been sufficient to win, but Corcoran kept C. B. C. within striking distance by counting from the court. With five seconds to go Duvic lifted one in from the right side of the court to tie the count at 11-all as the game ended.

In the extra three-minute period Drier shoved C. B. C. ahead on a free throw. McBride began a desperate peppering of the Brothers' basket that culminated in the shooting of the winning goal by Durbin in the last three seconds of play.

A rally that received its impetus when Joyce fouled Vaughan in the act of shooting for Soldan's basket, the goal and the subsequent pair of free throws being successful, enabled University City to whittle Soldan's lead of six points to two, early in the final period of the day's opening contest.

Webster Upsets Dope.

The score was tied, 16-all, when Schoenthaler counted for the Indians, McMurray's two free throws and Stroup's and Huckriede's field goals combined to give University City a lead of 22 to 16. Gelber's goals from the field and foul line in the last minute of play redeemed Soldan.

Webster added another upset when it defeated Maplewood more by superior height and weight than skill in the first game of the night program. Maplewood was conceded a chance for victory until the start of the third quarter when Westrup's two field goals gave Webster a 10 to 5 lead. After Freschi sank a goal from the floor and Yeckel and Harkey counted from the free throw line, Maplewood's hopes were doomed.

The guardian angel that seems to be watching over the destiny of the Roosevelt team in its efforts to advance in the tournament was observed, when for the second consecutive day the Rough Riders spurted at the close to win out. For three quarters Wellston checked the advances of the South Siders, managing to tie 2-all at the end of the first, 6-all at the half, and 7-all at the finish of the third period.

McBride Opposes Roosevelt.

In the final chapter Gragg put Wellston temporarily in the lead by scoring from scrimmage. Free throws by Doran, Bailey, who scored two and Frazier wiped out the difference and permitted Roosevelt to lead, 11 to 9. Brandenburger's field goal in the last minute gave Roosevelt an extra margin.

The "B" division will swing into action this afternoon at 4 o'clock when Ferguson meets Jennings. An hour later the other finalist will be decided when Hancock plays Fairview. Ferguson and Hancock are expected to eliminate their respective opponents.

The schedule for the semifinals in the "A" division calls for games between University City and Webster in the upper bracket at 8 o'clock while at 9 o'clock McBride and Roosevelt will battle in the feature game of the evening. University City has won twice before from Webster in earlier contests.

HELEN HICKS DEFEATS GLENNA COLLETT IN EAST COAST TOURNEY

By the Associated Press.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 8.—Miss Helen Hicks, 18-year-old Long Island star, conquered Glenna Colett, national woman's champion, 2 and 1 today in a semi-final match of the Florida East Coast women's championships.

Miss Hicks' victory placed her in the finals tomorrow with Miss Bernice Wall, Wisconsin State champion, who defeated Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, 4 and 3.

Miss Collett's game was not up to its usual standard today. She had trouble with numerous traps, her outshots going particularly badly, while the youthful Long Island golfer played steadily and was most consistent on the greens.

VARSITY AND SAYMANS MEET IN DECIDING GIRLS' MUNY GAME

The championship of the Friday Night Division of the Girls' Municipal League may be decided tonight, when Varsity meets Sayman at Mullanphy gymnasium. The Saymans can clinch the title by winning, while a victory for the Varsity team would cause the race to end in a tie.

In a League game last night, the South Side Chevrolets did not allow the Larned-Carter girls to score a field goal, and the former won easily, 16 to 2. The South Siders led, 12 to 2, at the half.

Two McBride Stars Picked On All-Star Prep Quintet; Corcoran Is Named Captain

By Robert W. Herr.

McBride High, winner of the Prep League basketball title, and St. Louis U., High, third place quintet, each placed two players on the all-star Prep League team. The remaining positions and the captaincy goes to C. B. C. McBride also was awarded two positions on the second team, with St. Louis U. High, C. B. C. and Country Day getting one each. Western, the tail-end five, failed to gain a position.

The mythical quintets were chosen by the votes of the coaches and leading officials of the league, a total of 15 players being nominated for the various positions. While the choice of outstanding forwards presented little difficulty, the greatest conflict centered about the guards, eight being mentioned for first team posts. The center position furnished little competition, Gorman of McBride being an almost unanimous choice.

Johnny Corcoran, C. B. C. star, whose choice as forward marks his second consecutive season of membership on the all-stars, was named captain by common consent. Corcoran was unquestionably the leading forward in the league. Playing his third year as a regular, he captained the Brothers' five and led the league in individual scoring, running up a total of 81 points in eight games. An accurate shot and a clever dribbler, Corcoran was the spark of the high powered C. B. C. attack. He played throughout the campaign with a bad knee which required a brace to keep it in place.

Cullen Good Running Mate.

For the other forward post, Cullen of St. Louis U. High, was almost as unanimous a choice as his running mate. The Junior Billiken captain, who was a lowly scrub last season, drew considerable attention by his flashy play. Cullen moved about the court faster than any other forward in the league, and developed an uncanny shooting eye, which enabled him to secure the position of runner-up in the individual scoring race. The two second string forwards, Well of McBride and Duvic of C. B. C., proved fine players.

Another tosser chosen unanimously was Marty Gorman of McBride, at center. Playing his last season, Gorman captained the Colonnaders to their first championship in three years. Though not the tallest pivot man in the circuit, he managed to get the tipoff regularly, and his ability at sinking baskets together with his excellence as a defensive factor, made him outstanding. The position of second team center was a tossup between Vollmer of St. Louis U. High and Calfee of Country Day. The Blue and White star finally won out.

The greatest battle for positions raged around the guards, with men suggested from every team in the league. Ruff, the star guard of McBride, the tightest guarding quintet in the conference, had a slight edge over the other candidates, and Connors of St. Louis U. High was chosen as his running mate on the first team.

The question of second team guards presented no little difficulty but the majority of the ballots were returned in favor of Larkin of Country Day and Durbin of McBride. They were closely pressed for honors by Lamb and McHenry of C. B. C., Padberg of St. Louis U. High and Meier of Western.

The first team would be a powerful aggregation, boasting the best shots in the league, and a pair of guards who would make it extremely difficult for opposing fives to score.

DIXIE PUZZLES SHOE INDUSTRY!

MANUFACTURING MYSTERY BAFFLES SHOE SNOOPERS!

BOLDNESS OF DIXIE SHOE STORES HAS OTHER SHOE MANUFACTURERS PUZZLED

SPECIAL DISPATCH—Reliable reports stated today that men high up in the shoe industry were completely at a loss to explain how DIXIE SHOE STORES could sell their new men's Spring shoes for as little as $3.

Manufacturers have sent their "shoe snoopers" to DIXIE stores to buy shoes, and have found that all DIXIE shoes are of the same remarkably high quality. In fact, a newspaper man overheard a conversation in which a prominent factory head said that the new DIXIE models for $3 were the equal of any $4 shoe he had ever seen.

What puzzles the shoe industry so completely is how DIXIE can sell shoes of such high grade materials — with details of workmanship usually found only in high-priced shoes—for only $3.

When reporters interviewed the head of the nation-wide DIXIE chain, he said:

"There's really no mystery about our values at all. The reason the rest of them can't touch DIXIE shoes at the DIXIE price is that DIXIE has two advantages—size and determination!

"We're the biggest shoe people in the field. We operate on such a tremendous scale that we can cut down our profit to the thinnest margin, and still get along.

"And we've made up our mind to stay on top—by giving America such a world-beating value for $3 that the men just can't stay away!"

NOW $3 ---this is the price for Dixie Men's Shoes that has puzzled the shoe industry

DEMPSEY DECLARES HE IS IN FIGHT PROMOTING RACKET FOR LIFE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 8.—"I'm in the fight promotion racket for life." So said John Dempsey today as he collapsed under the strain of denying the imputation that he was a good promoter, and brokenly made a clean breast of the charge. Without actually saying so, Dempsey left no doubt that he believed it was his efforts, and not those of William F. Carey, that took the Sharkey-Stribling enterprise out of the auburn and placed it in the black. His air was that of a man grossly deceived. He had been fighting all his life and here was this promotion dodge waiting for his magic touch all the time. John really would like to know why he wasn't told about this before.

It is his oyster, his entree and his cafe noir and so tempting is the dish that, like a hungry schoolboy, he prefers to dine alone. Dempsey is prepared to announce next week his definite retirement as a fighter.

That, anyhow, was his intention today as he made ready to leave for Boston, the miracle of Miami having persuaded him that a promoter's life is the life for him. He declared that he Miami Beach gate of $405,000 grew out of an original ante of only $10,000 by the Madison Square Garden Corporation.

Game Comes Natural.

"That's all they advanced us," he said. "The rest of the way we carried on out of the receipts. You have got to know your fighters and the spots to drop them in. I've been around the game long enough and, if I don't know now, I never will. Besides, my association with Rickard gave me a lot of savvy of the various angles.

"This game comes natural to me. I've seen it from the standpoint of the fighter and I've seen it from the standpoint of the public and, between the two, I don't expect to go wrong. Fighters are hard to handle nowadays but I think I know how. You have your worries, of course, but these are nothing to what the fighter goes through when he is preparing for a big bout. By comparison, handling the thing from the business office is a lark."

He forgot to mention the fact that a promoter doesn't get hit on the chin, except maybe by an elastic check that comes ricocheting off the paying teller's window. This is an important point and John would feel hurt if it wasn't mentioned. He undoubtedly wishes everybody to know that a promoter doesn't get hit; otherwise, he might feel very hurt.

Both Promoters Are Wrong.

Carey and Dempsey were supposed to go to Boston together but didn't. It was explained that Dempsey wished to rest after his trip North and stayed here overnight. However, it is no star chamber secret that a bit of professional jealousy has cropped up between the pair over the credit due on the Miami Beach promotion. Nothing serious; just an attitude of wary watchfulness.

Both are wrong. Destiny promoted that fight and made a very good job of it.

HAGEN-DIEGEL TEAM FAVORED IN GOLF EVENT

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 8.—A Missouri boy, Horton Smith, is causing a mild sensation here in Florida by his great golfing. Smith, who is just about old enough to vote this week, won first place in the Fort Myers open tournament to crown a remarkable session of winter play.

To the present time, Smith, who is a Joplin output, has taken part in 10 successive tournaments starting with the Catalina open in California, and in these he has won three firsts; finished second four times; was third once and finished out of the money only twice. In these tournaments have been some of the country's greatest players, including the redoubtable Walter Hagen, Johnny Farrell and Bill Mehlhorn—in short, the pick of the professional golf world.

Sunday at the Miami Country Club, Smith will encounter a different kind of test. This time, too, he will be pitted against the greatest professionals the country boasts. Smith will play in the professional four-ball tournament with Al Watrous, the Grand Rapids star, as his partner.

All of the tournaments played thus far by Smith have been medal play, while Sunday's competition will be at match play. How Smith will stand up under this remains to be seen.

Miami is keenly interested in this event—so much so that bookmakers there have issued a list of odds on the various teams entered. It is as follows:

Hagen and Diegel 3 to 1.
Mehlhorn and Armour 3½ to 1.
Sarazan and Farrell 4 to 1.
H. Smith and Watrous 4 to 1.
Turnesa and Cuici 6 to 1.
Espinosa and Dudley 12 to 1.
Golden and Burke 15 to 1.
Spitall and Murray 15 to 1.
Ball and Cotton 20 to 1.
McFarland and Hampton 20 to 1.
Denny and Williams 20 to 1.

The event is known as the "International Four-Ball Championship" and the title is now held by Johnny Farrell and Gene Sarazen, who are defending their crown.

All the members of the Ryder cup team, which will represent America against England next summer, are entered in the event. Ball and Cotton, one of the competing pairs, are young British players of outstanding reputations.

United States Golf Association rules will govern, with the exception that players will be permitted to clean the ball on greens, before putting.

Big Ten Indoor Title Meet Will Start, Tonight

IOWA CITY, Ia., March 8.—With an entry of 261 athletes, one of the largest in the history of the event, the indoor track and field championships of the Western Conference will open tonight in the huge athletic arena called the Iowa field house.

Preliminaries in five of the 10 events will be run off tonight with the finals tomorrow night. Illinois, eight times winner of the meet, and defending champion, is favored to repeat, with Iowa, runnerup last year, again offering the challenge. Illinois is figured to score in every event with the exception of the shot put and 440-yard run.

Iowa leads the field in number of entries, having named 42, with Illinois second with 34. Wisconsin is third with 29 and Michigan fourth with 28. The others are divided as follows: Minnesota, 27; Chicago, 26; Northwestern, 25; Indiana and Ohio State, 23 each, and Purdue, 4.

Six of the 1928 blue ribbon winners will defend their championships. They are George Baird, Iowa, in the 440-yard run; George Simpson, Ohio State, in the 60-yard dash; Orval Martin, Purdue, in the 880-yard run; Joe Novak, Illinois, in the mile; David Abbott, Illinois, in the two-mile, and R. A.A.U. REFUSES TO REINSTATE OLYMPIC STAR

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Ray Barbuti, Olympic 400-meter champion, will remain suspended from amateur competition until he identifies the A. A. U. officials he has charged knew that certain track and field athletes were receiving more money than their expenses required.

A four-hour session of the registration committee of the Metropolitan Association, A. A. U., last night, with Barbuti and several newspaper men as witnesses, failed to develop any new facts which might have permitted the suspension to be lifted.

Barbuti denied many of the published statements attributed to him but stoutly insisted his charges as to over-payment on expense accounts were true and that a "certain A. A. U. official" knew of it.

Efforts by Joseph A. Reilly, president of the association, to get Barbuti to identify this official met with failure. Barbuti said it would be very unsportsmanlike to give the name. He has retired from track competition.

HOMICIDE VERDICT FOUND IN SALOON SHOOTING

A. W. Hamilton Accused in the Killing of August Lehr in Quarrel Over Debt.

Alfred W. Hamilton, a saloon keeper of 4615 Delmar boulevard, was ordered held for the Circuit Attorney today on a charge of homicide made by a Coroner's jury which investigated the fatal shooting of August Lehr who died yesterday.

Lehr was shot in Hamilton's saloon early Sunday morning after a dispute over $120 which the saloonkeeper owed him, witnesses said. Lehr demanded the immediate payment of the debt of $120 and Hamilton ordered his bartender to give Lehr $10 from the cash register. Lehr demanded the balance and threatened the saloon keeper with a soda bottle, according to the witnesses, none of whom saw the actual shooting.

WOMAN'S EXPOSITION HEARS OF PEACE WORK

The program of the National Commission of Protestant Church Women in the United States in its efforts to insure international peace was outlined by Mrs. John Ferguson of New York in an address last night at the Women's National Exposition at the Hotel Jefferson. Mrs. Ferguson is president of the commission, which was organized last summer, and has has 20,000,000 members.

The organization, she said, intends to become world-wide and branches already have been established in a number of foreign countries, including Sweden, Korea and several nations of South America. One of the principal points of contact in this country in fostering international peace and understanding is provided by the presence of approximately 14,000 foreign students in the United States. American members traveling abroad are urged to come in contact with women of various countries visited to bring about a better understanding.

Director of Public Safety Brod was a speaker on this afternoon's program, telling in his address on "The Necessity of Smoke Abatement," of progress by the city in this work during the last four years.

Calls Parents Responsible.

Carl F. Milliken, former Governor of Maine and now secretary of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., another speaker last night, declared that parents would always be responsible in selecting children's entertainment, notwithstanding other factors of selection.

"Despite the efforts of the motion picture industry to arrange children's programs, to consult with national groups concerning special lists of pictures for children and generally to maintain a high moral standard in pictures, this responsibility on the part of parents remains," he said.

Milliken declared that modern motion pictures were cleaner than any other medium of expression. Crime is never glorified, he pointed out, and the motion picture villain is always punished.

Of broader scope than in former years at the exposition, music holds an important place in the competitions held in connection with this year's exposition, it was asserted by Mrs. Hugo Weimers, chairman of the musical competitions. Formerly there were only chorus contests while the 1929 exposition has vocal solo and instrumental events as well.

Winners in Musical Events.

Miss Alma Flachbart, 3705 Texas avenue, and Arthur Lieser, 4967 Tyrolean avenue, were announced as winners of the piano and 'cello contests, respectively, yesterday. These and all other cash prizes will be distributed at the closing program tomorrow evening. Today's musical competitions will be in the glee club and the champion solo classes. The last of the musical series will be the mixed chorus event Saturday afternoon.

Winners in the handmade rug contest conducted under auspices of the Westminster Presbyterian Women's Organization were announced today as follows:

Class 3—Mrs. W. B. Kinealy, Hotel Kingsway, first; Mrs. E. H. Wuerpel, 7717 Walinca Terrace, Clayton, second.

SCHOOLEY TO STATE PRISON

Former Politician Will Begin 10-Year Term for Festus Robbery.

Roy Schooley, lawyer, Republican politician and one-time candidate for Prosecuting Attorney in St. Louis County, was taken in custody today by Marshal H. C. Schulte of the State Supreme Court and started for Jefferson City to begin serving a 10-year sentence for bank robbery.

Schooley's conviction of participation in the $26,526 robbery of the Citizens' Bank of Festus, Jefferson County, Sept. 25, 1926, was affirmed by the Supreme Court on March 2. Schooley's bond was terminated the same day and he has been held in jail at Clayton. Most of the loot obtained in the robbery was recovered. Schooley maintained law offices in Wellston until recently.

Roosevelt's Widow Leaves Italy.

GENOA, Italy, March 8.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the former American President, left today for France, from where she will return to New York. She had visited for more than a week her sister, Emily Carew, who has a villa near here.

FOR UNITING MEMORIAL AND CITY AUDITORIUM

Oliver Senti, Associate City Counselor, argued before Circuit Judge Sale today that the Municipal Auditorium could serve also as the Soldiers' Memorial Building. The two were provided for in the 1923 bond issue as separate buildings, item 13 providing $5,000,000 for a Municipal Auditorium and Community Center, and item 14 providing $6,000,000 for the Memorial Plaza and Soldiers' Memorial.

Judge Sale took the contrary view, and said that in his opinion the city would have no more right to divert funds from the Plaza to the Auditorium fund "than I would have to reach in and take a handful of money out of the City Treasury."

Senti suggested that the Municipal Auditorium could be construed as a Soldiers' Memorial, and that doubtless memorial services would be held therein. Judge Sale replied that, by similar reasoning, the city might build a slaughter house in the Plazt and call it a memorial.

The discussion between the Court and Senti was informal, and Judge Sale reserved his decision on the case at issue, which is the injunction suit of the Charles H. Peck heirs and others, to prevent the city from acquiring ground for the Auditorium by condemnation proceedings.

The plaintiffs in the injunction suit are dissatisfied with the amounts awarded them by commissioners for their property. To prevent the land being taken, they have raised the point that the suit for condemnation was filed under the Memorial Plaza item of the bond issue, though the land is to be used as a site for the Auditorium. The ground in question is in the block bounded by Fourteenth and Fifteenth, Market and Walnut streets.

The plan of the city administration, it has been shown heretofore, was to acquire the Auditorium site from the Plaza fund, in order to leave the whole $5,000,000 of item 13 for construction of the Auditorium. No announcement has been made as to plans for the Memorial Building. Senti's statement that the Auditorium might serve as the Memorial is the first definite statement to that effect that has come from a member of the city administration.

THREE HELD AFTER KILLING OF JACOB LEVY ARE RELEASED

Police Report There Is No Direct Evidence Connecting Them With Shooting.

Sam Greenberg, Isadore Levitt and Harry Moll, who were arrested and placed under $10,000 bond each following the killing of Jacob Levy, gambler and bartender, in a saloon conducted by Greenberg at 621 Pine street Feb. 8, were discharged on their bonds yesterday after police reported that no direct evidence linking the men with the killing had been discovered.

Greenberg and Levitt, the only witnesses to the killing, said Levy was shot by robbers. Moll was arrested when it was learned that he lent Levy $700 several days before the killing. Levy is alleged to have lost the money gambling.

FUNERAL OF THOMAS TAGGART

Democratic Leaders Attend the Services at Indianapolis.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 8.—Leaders of the Democratic party and prominent men of the nation gathered here today to pay final tribute to former Senator Thomas Taggart at funeral services. Mr. Taggart died Wednesday. Many persons, unable to be here, have sent messages of condolence.

Members of the House and Senate of the Indiana General Assembly arranged a joint memorial service at the State House at 2 o'clock, the hour of the funeral. The Rt. Rev. Joseph F. Francis, bishop of the Indianapolis diocese of the Episcopal Church, was in charge of the services at the home and at the grave, near the grave of James Whitcomb Riley.

Oliver Senti, Associate City ounselor, argued before Circuit udge Sale today that the Munici- al Auditorium could serve also the Soldiers' Memorial Building. he two were provided for in the 923 bond issue as separate build- gs, item 13 providing $5,000,000 r a Municipal Auditorium and ommunity Center, and item 14 roviding $6,000,000 for the Memo- al Plaza and Soldiers' Memorial.

Judge Sale took the contrary iew, and said that in his opinion he city would have no more right o divert funds from the Plaza to he Auditorium fund "than I would ave to reach in and take a hand- l of money out of the City Treas- ry."

Senti suggested that the Munici- al Auditorium could be construed s a Soldiers' Memorial, and that oubtless memorial services would e held therein. Judge Sale replied hat, by similar reasoning, the city ight build a slaughter house in he Plaza and call it a memorial.

The discussion between the Court nd Senti was informal, and Judge ale reserved his decision on the ase at issue, which is the injunc- ion suit of the Charles H. Peck eirs and others, to prevent the ity from acquiring ground for the Auditorium by condemnation pro- eedings.

The plaintiffs in the injunction uit are dissatisfied with the mounts awarded them by commis- ioners for their property. To pre- vent the land being taken, they have raised the point that the suit for condemnation was filed under the Memorial Plaza item of the bond issue, though the land is to be used as a site for the Audito- rium. The ground in question is n the block bounded by Fourteenth and Fifteenth, Market and Walnut streets.

The plan of the city administra- tion, it has been shown heretofore, was to acquire the Auditorium site from the Plaza fund, in order to leave the whole $5,000,000 of item 13 for construction of the Auditori- um. No announcement has been made as to plans for the Memorial Building. Senti's statement, that the Auditorium might serve as the Memorial is the first definite state- ment to that effect that has come from a member of the city admin- istration.

THREE HELD AFTER KILLING OF JACOB LEVY ARE RELEASED

Police Report There Is No Direct Evidence Connecting Them With Shooting.

Sam Greenberg, Isadore Levitt and Harry Moll, who were arrested and placed under $10,000 bond each following the killing of Jacob Levy, gambler and bartender, in a saloon conducted by Greenberg at 621 Pine street Feb. 8, were discharged on their bonds yesterday after police reported that no direct evidence linking the men with the killing had been discovered.

Greenberg and Levitt, the only witnesses to the killing, said Levy was shot by robbers. Moll was arrested when it was learned that he lent Levy $700 several days before the killing. Levy is alleged to have lost the money gambling.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, March 8.—Wheat closed lower and corn higher on the local market today. The pending report on farm reserves exerted bearish influence on wheat.

Wheat opened unchanged and sold on both sides of previous close in early trade. Winnipeg was lower near opening and Liverpool afternoon cable came ⅛d lower. Corn also opened unchanged, May selling up some early. Farm reserves official figures were due today. Damage possibilities to winter wheat were credited with causing some buying.

Liverpool wheat closed ⅝d lower on March and May and ⅛d lower on July.

May wheat opened at $1.25, July wheat $1.28¼, September wheat $1.29¾, May corn $1.01⅛ and July corn $1.04¼.

Local wheat receipts, which were 98,000 bushels, compared with 166,600 a week ago and 84,000 a year ago, included 41 cars local and 29 through. Corn receipts, which were 85,400 bushels, compared with 109,200 a week ago, and 151,200 a year ago, included 38 cars local and 23 through. Oats receipts, which were 66,000 bushels, compared with 44,000 a week ago and 30,000 a year ago, included 28 cars local and 2 through. Hay receipts were 4 cars local and none through.

WHEAT CLOSES NERVOUS AND ON LOWER BASIS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 8.—Despite early advances, wheat tended downward in price today toward the last. Prospects that the Government report this afternoon on growers' reserve stocks of domestic wheat would be construed as bearish operated to curtail buying and to increase offerings. Besides, weather conditions prevailing today in the United States winter wheat belt were regarded as somewhat more favorable, although freezing temperatures were predicted for tonight.

Wheat closed nervous, ⅛c to ½c net lower, corn ⅝c to ½@⅝c advanced, oats unchanged to ⅛c up, and provisions varying from 20c decline to a rise of 2c.

With farm reserve official figures today as to wheat expected to prove bearish, wheat price advances met with increased selling early today.

At noon wheat was ¼c to ½@⅝c net lower and corn unchanged to ¼c up.

Buying on account of damage possibilities regarding domestic winter wheat, however, was of sufficient volume to make values average higher. Opening unchanged to ½c up, wheat afterward reacted somewhat. Corn, oats and provisions were easy, with corn starting at ¼c decline to ¼c advance, and subsequently holding near the initial range.

Lighter arrivals of wheat at domestic terminals were of some effect, too, as a price strengthening influence.

On the other hand, increased estimate of the Argentine wheat exportable surplus current today, making the total 261,000,000 bushels, against previous indications of only 220,000,000 bushels. Continued large shipments from Australia were likewise reported, and some selling of wheat into store at Chicago was in evidence.

WHEAT, CORN AND OATS ON FARM SHOWN IN REPORT

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The Department of Agriculture estimated today that stocks of corn, wheat, oats, barley and rye held on farms on March 1 amounted to 43,800,000 tons, compared with 39,000,000 tons a year ago.

These estimates, the department said, include not only the grain for sale, but also the amounts held for seed, feed and other uses on the farm until the close of the crop season. The department estimated that there were 1,029,572,000 bushels of corn on farms, or 36.3 per cent of the previous season's crop. It was estimated that 19.1 per cent of the previous crop was to be shipped out of the counties where it was grown.

The department said there were 148,813,000 bushels of wheat, or 16.5 per cent of the previous season's crop on farms as of March 1. It was estimated that 73.4 per cent of the previous crop had been shipped or was to be shipped out of the counties where grown.

It was estimated that 501,321,000 bushels of oats, or 34.6 per cent of the previous crop, was stocked on farms and that 21.5 per cent of the previous crop had been shipped out of the counties where grown.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, March 7.—Raw sugar was quiet early today. As no sales were reported prices were unchanged at 3.74c for spot, duty paid, although offerings were more liberal at this quotation. Buyers held off.

Raw futures opened unchanged to one point lower and continued easy throughout the forenoon, with the list at midday 1 to 4 points net lower. Twenty-three March notices were issued. Circulation of these caused considerable March liquidation. That position showed the maximum loss, while later deliveries declined in sympathy and under increased liquidation and hedge selling, prompted by more liberal offerings of spots.

Refined was unchanged. As the trade covered for some time to come, business consisted wholly of withdrawals on old contracts. Prices were quoted at 4.90c for fine granulated.

Sugar futures closed steady; approximate sales, 68,250 tons; March, 1.99c; May, 2.06c; July, 2.13c; Sept., 2.19c; Dec., 2.26c.

WARBURG SAYS U. S. RESERVE SYSTEM HAS LOST LEADERSHIP

"Stock Exchange Operators in Control of the Money Market," He Declares.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Paul M. Warburg, chairman of the board of the International Acceptance Bank, a director of the Western Union Telegraph Co., the Union Pacific Railroad, the Farmers Loan and Trust Co. and many other great corporations, declared yesterday that the Federal Reserve system "has lost its leadership with the Stock Exchange operators in control of the money market."

Warburg in 1923 recommended to a congressional committee that the Senate give up its prerogative of confirming reappointments of members of the Federal Reserve Boadr so it "might avert wreckage at the hands of political meddling."

Yesterday he summed up his survey of the present situation as follows:

"The banking fraternity would be well advised to anticipate radical congressional proposals by taking the lead in seeking the lines along which reform may be brought about."

Warburg was speaking at the meeting of the directorate of the International Acceptance Bank, which had just completed the union of that organiaztion with the Bank of Manhattan Co. by appointing three members of the latter's board to the board of the International bank.

"No central banking system," he said, "may safely permit its facilities to expand unless it is certain of its determination and ability to bring about contraction when circumstances require.

"The Federal Reserve System, pursuing a well conceived and farsighted policy, rose to a position of world leadership, yet within the short span of a year it lost that leadership owing to its failure promptly and effectively to reverse the engines at the critical moment.

"The rudder then passed into the hands of Stock Exchange operators, who have now for many months governed the flow of money not only in the United States but in the principal marts of the world. History has taught mankind that speculative overexpansion invariably ends in overcontraction and distress."

COTTON CLOSES HIGHER ON NEW YORK MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Cotton showed continued firmness today. Prices were higher on renewal of the buying movement which evidently was promoted by relatively steady Liverpool cables, reports of continued good business in cotton goods; talk of small fertilizer sales for February and apprehension of overflows in the Mississippi Valley. Active months sold about 15 to 19 points above yesterday's closing quotations. Prices were within 3 or 4 points of the best during the middle of the afternoon.

Futures closed firm 23c to 27c higher; March, 21.39c; May, 21.39@40c; July, 20.88@90c; Oct., 20.53@54c; Dec., 20.50c. Spot steady; middling 21.65c.

Cotton opened firm today at an advance of 7 to 12 points.

Active months sold about 10 to 12 points net higher right after the opening on renewal of the recent Liverpool cables and reports of small fertilizer sales for February.

The advance into new high ground attracted profit-taking. There seemed to be a little more Southern selling, however, and prices eased off 5 or 6 points from the best.

Private cable reported covering, trade calling and some rebuying in Liverpool. Also said there were encouraging sales of cotton cloths to China with home trade improving.

The selling encountered on the opening advance was absorbed on reactions to about yesterday's closing quotations. The market firmed up again later in the morning on renewal of the demand from Wall street and commission houses. Some trade buying was reported in near months.

May sold up to 21.32c and the new October contract to 20.44c, making net advances of 12 to 16 points. The market was within a point or two of these figures at midday.

WOOL MARKET STRONGER SAYS BOSTON REVIEW

"The wool market is stronger, on the basis of $1, clean, for average fine wools, which type of wool has been chiefly in demand. Medium wools have been rather quiet. Buying in wool reflects better business in piece goods."

Wall Street News and Comment

The trend of heavy construction and engineering projects continues upward, says Engineering News-Record. Activity in this field shows a gain for the first two months of this year of $350,342,000 over the corresponding 1928 period and more than offsets the decline in small residential buildings. Contracts let on big jobs in January and February were valued at $761,616,000 against $411,274,000 in the 1928 period. All sections shared in the gain.

Stocks of lead in the United States and Mexico declined to 155,270 tons as of Feb. 1, compared with 161,460 tons on Jan. 1 and 157,417 tons on Feb. 1, 1928. January zinc deliveries for consumption totaled 18,494 tons against 15,621 in December and 12,677 in January, 1928.

Although the books will not be opened until March 15, the issue of 80,000 shares of Ford Motor Co. of Belgium, subsidiary of the British Ford Co., Ltd., has been oversubscribed more than eight times in that country, Wall Street hears. Whether shares will be allowed to reach this country has not been settled. American investors have shown keen interest in the foreign Ford issues.

February daily pig iron output, which totaled 114,507 tons, increased 3463 tons over January to the highest level since April, 1926. Daily average steel ingot last month production increased 13,924 tons over January to a new high record.

Twenty-four chain store systems reporting February sales have shown a gain of 28 per cent over February, 1928, and an increase of 20.8 per cent in combined January and February sales over the corresponding 1928 period.

American stockholders in the General Electric Co., Ltd., a British company, have decided to form a protective committee following cable report to effect that foreign stockholders would not be allowed to participate in an issue of 1,600,000 additional shares of stock by the company. Investors fear this may set a precedent placing American investors at a disadvantage with British subjects.

The New York Cotton Exchange has amended its rules so as to grant membership rates with certain limitations to cotton mills, cooperatives and other corporations in which an executive officer owns a membership in the exchange.

The New York Cotton Exchange membership of John W. Sanders, Houston, Tex., has been sold for $41,000, an advance of $500 over the previous high price, to John H. McFadden Jr., New York, for another.

NATIONAL BELLAS HESS CASH AND STOCK DIVIDENDS

No dividends were paid on the old common, which recently split three for one, since 1926. The cash dividend is payable April 15 to stock of record March 20. Stock dividends are payable April 15, July 15, Oct. 15 and Jan. 15. The stock dividend payable April 15 is to stockholders of record March 20. Record dates for three other stock dividends were not set.

STEEL INGOT PRODUCTION IN FEBRUARY OVER YEAR AGO

NEW YORK, March 8.—Steel ingot production in February as calculated by the American Iron and Steel Institute increased to 4,324,759 tons, compared with 4,045,304 tons in February, 1928. Operations were at 95.59 per cent, against 85.84 per cent in the 1928 month. Combined output for January and February was 8,814,159, against 8,036,636 in the corresponding 1928 period and operations were at 91.68 per cent, compared with 83.59 per cent.

SAYS U. S. CODDLES CRIMINAL CLASSES

Efficient police work, heavy and almost certain punishment and separation of various kinds of offenders through a specialized system of penal institutions are the reasons for the comparative lack of crime in Australia, Chief of Police Gerk was told yesterday. His informant was William J. Mackay of Sydney, Australia, Detective Inspector of the police department of the province of New South Wales, who is making a tour of the world studying police methods.

MacKay departed last night for Los Angeles after a tour of inspection through the new Police Headquarters building which he termed the "best equipped in the country."

"A visitor here is amazed at the lack of punishment and the small sentences given to criminals in the United States," MacKay said. "In Australia I have known men to get 50 years for participating in a holdup. These, of course, are of the hardened criminal type.

Five Types of Prison.

"We have five kinds of penitentiaries—one for first offenders, one for second offenders, one for men guilty of sex crimes, one for criminal insane and a fifth for hardened criminals. In this way we protect the man who has been caught in one of his first jobs."

As an example of efficient work by the police, MacKay cited the fact that of the automobiles stolen last year in Australia only eight were not recovered.

Sydney police, or constables, are paid $6 a day. If single they are provided with barracks. If married the Government pays rent, gas, electric and telephone bills. After 30 years of service they may retire at full pay, MacKay told Gerk.

He is six weeks behind schedule, he said, due to an impromptu pursuit of a man who had killed a Constable. In Bombay MacKay picked up a suspect he recognized as being wanted in New South Wales for robbery. On a tip from this man that the murderer he sought was en route to Port Said, Egypt, on a tramp steamer, MacKay took a fast boat, beat him to port and held him until Constables arrived and took him back to be hanged.

Freight Thieves Sentenced.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 8.—Three men who robbed a freight train en route from Kenosha, Wis., to Chicago, obtaining $10,000 worth of clothing and silks, were sentenced by Judge McGoorty in Criminal Court yesterday from one to ten years in the State penitentiary. The men are Stanley Rogalski, William Simmons and William Benton, all of Chicago.

A Piece of Her Mind

By Elsie McCormick

COLE OR COLD

THE question of whether it is cole or cold slaw has evidently been perplexing our best minds for some time.

In fact, the door of my mail-box has been permanently strained by the large number of epistles on the subject, most of which go back to the original sources and trace this mutilated cabbage to one of several dead languages. It is too bad, I think, that it could not have remained a foot-note in a Latin reader instead of living on to spoil twentieth-century luncheons.

"It's wonderful to find some one who wants to know about cole slaw," writes L. G. enthusiastically. "For many months I've known the secret of its origin, but the trouble was that nobody seemed to care. This piece of esoteric knowledge, so it seemed, was fated to remain in the hands of linguistic scholars and of the likes of me, who studies with one of them.

"Prof. Tilly of Columbia gave this as an example of what is called 'popular etymology.' To track cole slaw down, one must go to the Dutch, from which it was derived. The Dutch form is 'koolsla,' 'kool' being cabbage and 'sla,' salad.

"Now for the cold slaw, which is where the popular etymology comes in. 'Cole' was an unfamiliar word. Since this salad was always served uncooked, the word 'cold' was wrongly substituted. That seems to be that."

IT'S that as far as one correspondent is concerned. Others offer theories which range all the way from distant relatives of the Latin "caulis" to the royal patronage of Old King Cole. The Century Dictionary, as one reader points out, gives an involved description of its verbal origin, but carefully refrains from describing the concoction as edible. In this matter I find myself thoroughly in accord with the dictionary.

Tracing the derivation of words and phrases is not without its usefulness as a winter sport. Only recently I was all agog over an analysis of the word "sincere," which comes, it seems, from "sine cera," meaning "without wax."

The derivation lies in the ancient custom of covering a tablet with a coating bearing an ostensible message, while the real communication was hidden underneath. Because of this device many an innocent carried to his Emperor what appeared to be a mere weather report, but which, when scraped, turned out to be an earnest request for his own demise.

THE recent news that an outraged patient challenged his dentist to a duel was received with a good deal of levity and with the usual outburst of cartoons. Negotiations did not proceed very far, however, chiefly because the dentist thought dueling wrong in the sight of God and man, and rather hastily appealed to the police.

I've been trying to think which of the dentists in my life I would have given most gladly to the field of honor. Strangely enough, I discover as I look back that most of them were amazingly considerate. There was, for instance, an extremely silent person who always tried to divert me, when about to hurt, by talking of strange and far-off places. Whenever he began, "You know, I'd like to go to Egypt some time," I always took a firm grip on the arm of my chair and prepared for a little trapeze work on the part of an outraged nerve. The only difficulty with this system was that it almost ruined Egypt for me.

Probably the dentist I would most willingly have challenged was the one who used to fill my mouth with cotton and garden tools and then make vigorous remarks about the serious blunder men committed when they intrusted women with the ballot.

Recently a group of dentists protested against cartoons of patients suffering in the adjustable chair, their claim being that modern dentistry is practically painless. Fortunately this claim is just a bit exaggerated, for I feel that really painless dentistry would be a great disappointment to the public. Going to the dentist is one of the few chances of being heroic in our own eyes that is left in an ordered, coddled and safety-zoned world.

Popcorn for Evenings

KEEP the children and young folk occupied these winter evenings. Popping corn is a great amusement. Show them how to do this properly with no waste of corn. After it is popped, they can sprinkle it with salt and toss it around in melted butter. Then let the family eat it while someone reads aloud.

The kiddies may prefer popcorn balls and they will enjoy making them. Here is a good recipe: To one pint syrup add one pint sugar, two tablespoonfuls butter and one teaspoon of vinegar. Cook until syrup hardens when tested in cold water. Pour the hot syrup over four quarts of the popcorn; stir until each kernel is well coated, then mould into balls.

Using Just a Part

When cutting a large onion with the intention of using just a part of it, cut it so the remaining piece contains the root. Then the onion will not dry out so soon and may be saved until used.

Beauty Shop

By Frances Olivier

"BRUNETTE" PERFUME.

AN angelic blonde of our acquaintance tells us she found a distinctly "brunette" perfume in her Christmas stocking. You know, one of the so-called heavy Eastern odeurs. We suggested that she use it exclusively for very formal evening parties. And the idea appealed to her as being so practical that she has reconsidered making a trip to the "exchange" department.

Your Beauty Shop may perhaps be accused of over-fussiness when it recommends "light," rather simple scents for daytime use and exotic, rather complex perfume creations for evening, but the recommendation happens to be on the side of correctness and good taste. However, so much for the types of perfume found to be most effective, and when.

Let us now consider the manner of using perfume. In a word, it must be used artfully, if it is to be pleasing, let alone alluring—and particularly to the oversensitive nostrils of man.

The woman who sweeps through life leaving in her wake a loud smell of fruits, flowers and herbs simply offends. And when these fruits, flowers and herbs are of synthetic origin and "cheap"—well, there ought to be a law against such practices.

If really good perfume does not come within the limit's of one's purse, total abstinence from anything less than good perfume is the only solution—either that or the use of subtly scented face and body powders.

However, to get back to the artful use of good perfume, rule the first says that it must never, never be applied direct to the person. It is far more effective—and much more economical besides—to place a drop or two of the precious stuff on little pads of cotton and distribute them among one's garments in time, sew them inside garment bags, "tack" them on clothes hangers and slip them between hats and their linings.

A more extravagant though very successful stunt is to light a perfume burner in the close vicinity of the clothes closet or dressing room. This method has the double advantage of delicately scenting the wearables and also lending greatly to the "atmospheric" charm of the bedroom or boudoir.

We could go on endlessly discussing kinds of perfume most enhancing to certain well-known types of personality, scents for the inveterate sportswoman, bouquets for the ultra-feminine individual, specially mixed essences for the true individual. But in the end we should most likely conclude by saying that, in this matter of perfuming, each woman is pretty much a law unto herself. So let your best perfume instincts be your guide, gentle reader.

Women Legislators In Voters' League

ONE-THIRD of the women members of State Legislatures belong to the League of Women Voters.

All of Ohio's nine women legislators are members. Illinois comes next, with all except one of the seven women legislators recorded on the rolls. Connecticut has six of 20 women lawmakers enrolled as members.

Records show that league members have rendered distinguished legislative service. Six have been returned to legislative halls for their fourth terms, while 18 are entering upon their second and third terms.

In Minnesota a fourth termer who also is chairman of the House Public Welfare Committee, is Mrs. James Paige, a former member of the board of directors of the National League.

In New Hampshire Mrs. Maud Ferguson, another leaguer, has achieved a place on the important Judicial Committee of the House. A former president of the Washington State League, Mrs. Mary C. Hutchison, is serving for the first time in the lower house in Olympia.

THE HUMAN BODY

By Dr. Logan Clendening

SLEEP, THE PRESERVER

MAN is one of the few animals which really sleep. Wild nature half sleeps, sleeps with one eye open as it were. The wild animal's enemies are on every hand, and some are night prowlers ready to sneak up on the victim while he rests. Man alone, with the domestic animals he has adopted, has conquered the universe sufficiently to be able to abandon himself completely when he sleeps.

I noticed a pet of a visitor at my house recently. It was a little monkey—a marmoset, no bigger than your hard. It was an amusing little critter, and every once in awhile would go to sleep in its owner's arms. But when I approached to see it asleep its bright, watchful little eyes were open in an instant and it was on the defensive.

Perhaps this is why man is one of the long lived animals. His brain and his hand were clever enough to provide him protection against the ordinary enemies of the night. He found fire to warm himself and built houses and walls to keep out those who might attack him. And he got in reserve for himself the possibility of a complete relaxation of the nervous system and a complete refreshment.

How great an advantage these things are in the struggle for existence let the insomniac recount to you. Insomnia may not shorten life (indeed by adding interminable hours of wakefulness it actually lengthens it), nor perhaps does it do any real damage to the body, but it is one of the most annoying and disturbing of all human afflictions. To be able to wake fresh to the problems of the day, to lay aside for a night all the cares and debates which have afflicted us must be one of the great assets for man's superiority over the rest of the animal kingdom. It may be an explanation of why man is one of the longest lived animals. Surely an organism which is able to refresh itself at regular intervals, rest its cellular mechanism and start all over in its activities must have advantages over an organism which is ceaselessly spending all its energies.

For this reason the best tonic may not be something which peps us up but something which calms us down and gives us rest.

Hypnotics can, however, only be guardedly recommended. Many new ones have recently been devised by chemists and, while they are effective, there are none that are entirely free from the danger of habit formation. None should be used oftener than once a fortnight even if that often.

Insomnia in most instances is a condition of the nervous system—a neurosis—and is more easily overcome than is generally believed. Here another lesson may be learned from the animals. They all go to sleep when bored. If you positively can't go to sleep get someone to explain in his own words the latest novel on the Russian Revolution. This according to my calculation is equivalent to 10 grains of veronal.

THE DISILLUSIONED WOMAN

By Dorothy Frooks

IN the courtroom a young woman told her grievance to the Judge. She admitted that she married a man because he was well able to give her many of the comforts of life. When asked whether she was in love when she married, she frankly admitted that she was not. After a short period it was disclosed that she was fed up on the very things she thought were so necessary to her happiness. She lacked the chief essential and that was the real foundation to happiness.

There is a time in every woman's life when she is confronted with the ordeal of making her decision about marriage. In this day and age it appears that women are too busy to let the main issue of a happy marriage rule their decisions. The foundation principle seems to have been eliminated. Women who sell themselves to the highest bidder will naturally find nothing more after marriage than they had before. They marry the main object of their thoughts to find it was only a bag of gold, or a fine looking man, or a showy home. When wealth is selected at the threshhold of marriage instead of love, then the woman should stand by her fate and expect only what she herself selected.

The sooner women realize that the personal satisfaction of life is love, the sooner will our courtrooms be less crowded with disgruntled and disillusioned women. This "keeping up with the Joneses" has led many a woman into a marriage which meant unhappiness. There would be less unhappiness if woman would think only of her progeny and the man she intends to marry. With thoughts of this nature, she would crowd out of her mind what her friends would think. As long as a woman treats marriage as a temporary status, she will not have happiness. Changing one husband for an other for flimsy causes does not add happiness, in fact it brings greater dissatisfaction.

A woman who marries a man for some ulterior motive, whether it be for the material things he can give her, whether it be his good looks, or his love, can expect no more than what she had in her mind. It has been known that women married men because they were adorable dancing partners. In such a case how could she have expected anything more than an adorable dancing partner? Marrying for love is safer, because everything else in the world is second. Then, no matter what happens, two people won't be likely to be disillusioned nor enter the courts of law. They expected nothing from each other except love and that quality is most enduring.

Following the line of least resistance to reach the apex of wealth does not bring more than momentary happiness. The most successful marriages are those where the husband and wife started in marriage as helpmates and companions. Love is the greatest incentive in the world and every woman in love is the chief source of inspiration for success.

Hats Match Fur Coats

IN current vogue for unexpected contrast in costume assembling—of dark coat and bright dress, or vice versa, one sometimes is beset with the question of just which garment to match with the hat.

Bright hats matching the gayly colored dress are seen in direct contrast to the dark or light fur coat. However, the latest fashion trend favors a hat exactly matching the color of the fur.

This is an obvious selection and yet it always is very pleasing and ever smart. Contrast, unless exquisitely achieved, may fall short of striking the note of style.

Conservatives, therefore, will match the hat with the fur coat and be not only on the safe side but the smart side of winter fashions.

When the weather is cold the beholder takes note only of the hat and the coat. Whatever color has been selected for the ensemble in frock, jewelry and accessories, is of little avail during the promenade of fashionable avenues.

College Girls Expert At Micro-Analysis

BARNARD college girls show great aptitude in one of the newest branches of chemistry, says Dr. Marie Reimer, professor of chemistry.

This field is micro-analysis, which is the use of high-power microscopes to detect minute chemical changes, a method requiring delicacy of touch and rigid precision. Dr. Reimer says Barnard is the only women's college in this country so far as she knows to give regular instruction in this subject.

Engaged in making beautiful things, their instinctive desire for fine feathers is enhanced, and in addition they are paid good wages and with working conditions good.

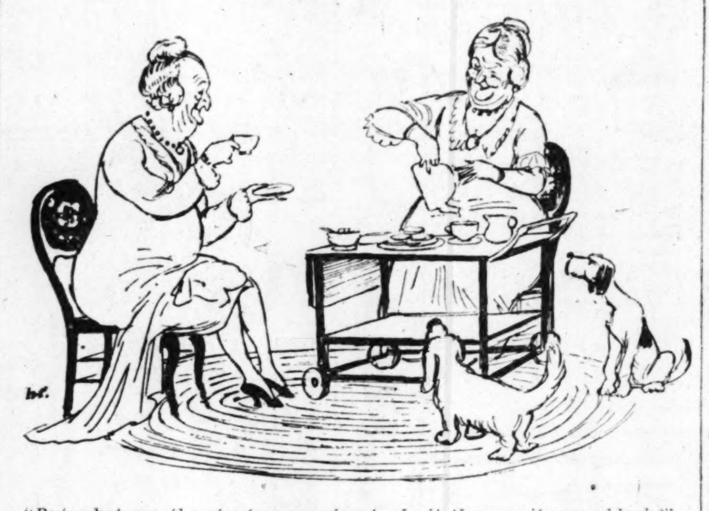
A Woman Shouldn't Wear Black—and Why

She May Look Distinguished, Says Parisian Fashion Expert, But She Is More Likely to Look Dowdy or Dangerous.

By Sally MacDougall.



"But what are the stout ones going to do it they can't wear black!" asks the professor.

SOME one simply had to go around the world lecturing women on how terrible they look when dressed in black. The task seemed to fall upon Marceline D'Alroy, free-lance fashion expert of Paris. No other evangelist of taste being handy, who could do the work more gracefully than herself? Miss D'Alroy took on the assignment and made all her own bookings.

On the last lap of her recent homeward journey from Australia, New Zealand and British Columbia—she has talked her way twice around the world—Miss D'Alroy stopped off in New York to do a few days' missionary work among style authorities before sailing for London and Paris, where she will put on spring and fall fashion shows for Harrods and Paul Poiret.

It would seem that she practices what she preaches, for there was no black gown or hat or gloves in the rather elaborate wardrobe that was waiting to be packed in her rooms at the Vanderbilt Hotel.

"A woman in black looks distinguished, dowdy or dangerous," she said. "The distinguished look is sometimes achieved if the gown is of shiny material, is very well cut and is worn by a lady of excellent carriage. A woman looks dowdy in black if the gown is badly cut, is unshiny and unlighted by white at the throat or by jewelry or a tremendous amount of animation in the face of the wearer. When a woman looks dangerous in black we have to admit that the gown has very little to do with it. One who can look vital in black looks vital in spite of it, not because of it.

"Black never makes friends. Color does. Color welcomes. It attracts attention, creates interest and helps without words to announce the fact that a woman has arrived. Color should be used cleverly to help put a woman over. I am trying to show women how to make their clothes work for them and speak in silent eloquence of their inner qualities."

LATER she had something to say about these inner qualities and their relation to personal appearance. But first she explained two outstanding misunderstandings that for years have helped to popularize black. One is the fiction that French women wear the gloomy color because they like it and think they look their best in it. The other is that men are prone to admire a woman in black.

"Our women wear black because they have to think of economy," she said. "French women as a rule have not much money, and they have learned to make a black dress do duty for a variety of occasions. Thousands of American women, without the French woman's excuse, dress in black and imagine that they look attractive. If the black happens to be wool or dull flat crepe, the spectacle is more depressing than the world should be compelled to endure.

Miss Marceline D'Alroy, priestess of fashion and evangelist of taste.

"Now, with regard to men: I have observed that men of all countries, though they may differ in many ways, invariably wish the women they love not to appear too conspicuous. Black is supposed to be discreet, and a discreet woman's price is above rubies. Not long ago I asked a woman why she invariably wears black. She is not young. She has a bad temper, a bad complexion and plenty of money. Her answer was: 'I wear black because I feel so safe in it, and feel that it makes me look secure.' I told her I could well understand that a woman might like to feel safe, but that I could not understand why one should want to look it. Many women have told me that they wear black because their husbands like them to wear it. The husbands, it would seem, want to feel safe, too. But women should use discretion in selecting their clothes."

MISS D'ALROY said that it was her interest in the psychological and philosophical aspects of dress, and the influence of clothes upon the women who wear them, that induced her to become an international interpreter of styles. One of the rewards has been the things she learned about women in the countries she visited.

"The thing that impresses me most about the American woman is that she is the least catty of all," she said. "In this country women help women and admire and accept each other's talent to a degree that is quite unmatched elsewhere. Besides, the American woman is in a position that is unique with regard to men. She gets what she likes and she makes the American man like what she gets."

When she got back to the subject of color Miss D'Alroy expressed her delight over the fact that scarlet is at the moment a reigning color, because for a season, at least, it will help to make the world a brighter place.

"Green is in style to such an extent that it might almost be bracketed with scarlet," she said. "We will have strong contrasts in plain colors for day and evening wear. A beige top coat with a scarlet frock is new and interesting. We will see many dark frocks beneath light coats. The amount of color a woman can wear successfully and vitally will depend upon the amount of vitality in the body and mentality in the mind. These are things each woman must work out for herself. She must study her own color scheme, and let skin, eyes and hair be her guides. Only if the skin is very clear can any woman afford to wear gray. If the skin is sallow she goes into beige and lightens it up with bright color—green, red, blue, according to the color of eyes and hair.

"As I remarked before, the thing I am trying most zealously to do is to show the women of many countries how to make their clothes work for them, and sing their inner qualities in songs without words."

Dr. Charles Gray Shaw, New York University psychologist, sees something considerably short of the ideal state in a world from which black clothes would be banished.

"How are you going to dress the stout women?" was his first question. "Haven't you noticed that fat women who are not willing to reduce nearly always wear black? A woman in black can make herself appear 20 per cent slimmer than she would look in a gay color. That is because of irradiation."

Value of Sea Foods

DURING the Lenten season sea foods will be plentiful and there will be a large variety of fresh fish available.

Fish is one of the foods containing "complete" proteins so that as a soft tissue builder fish is as valuable as meat and if fat is added to fish in the cooking, the meat and fish are about equal in value as sources of energy.

Sea foods, especially oysters and clams, are always rich in iodine, an indispensable element in the diet.

With the variety in fish the housewife will find it possible to serve this healthful food two and three times a week. She now has a wide choice in fresh fish besides oysters, clams, lobsters, crabs and shrimp in shell fish. Then there are the salted and smoked fishes, which really furnish one of the greatest sources of protein.

If she is a busy woman she will find canned fish excellent for preparing tasty dishes. Canned salmon has many possibilities and has been found to be a good source of iodine.

By the way, frozen fish is as good as fresh if properly cared for. Thaw it out slowly in cold water.

THE SEED ORDERS

SEED catalogues are now current literature and the annual discussion of what seeds to order is furnishing interest in the family circle. Seeds are the cheapest commodity on the market. A pint of peas represents a goodly saving of cash during the summer months. Sweet corn means more money saved and in each case a vastly higher quality product for the table than can be bought in the market.

Select seed liberally so there will be a sufficient supply if any of the early or first planted crops fail for some reason or another. Buy enough peas for three or four plantings. The same precaution is advisable for string beans. Have the seeds at hand when you want to plant them. Send in orders early and there will be no delay in starting the garden as soon as the weather permits.

Depend chiefly on varieties of vegetables you know from your own or your neighbors' experience will succeed in your locality. There is a decided difference in the behavior of different varieties of some vegetables under varying conditions. Try a novelty or two in the various vegetables you like, but test the novelty first before depending upon it for the main crop. Then there can be no disappointments.

Try some of the new large thick leaved spinaches. The old fashioned small leaved sort isn't worth garden room in comparison. You can shut your eyes and stab the name of a radish with a pencil and not go wrong, there are not so many of them.

Get in head lettuce seed for an early start if you wish to make a success of it. Head lettuce is a test of a gardener's skill, if he can make it produce good solid heads he may qualify as an expert. It must be started early and transplanted. The finest varieties of tomatoes are not often in stock in plants when you want them. It is best to raise your own plants. Order seeds now.

Try some of the new sweet corn crosses that give golden bantam flavor with bigger cobs. There is a tempting list from which to select for a feast of fresh vegetables right at the back door all summer.

Ensemble Contrast

Fashion very much favors the wearing of a light toned coat over a darker toned frock. This has been mentioned before and is a vogue that increasingly commands the attention. Light coats are very charming over red, green and blue frocks. There is a wise economy in this fetching little style, for several frocks can brighten one clever coat during the season.

White Shades

White window shades are rather delicate and any soiled spots show up very plainly. Try cleaning these with finely powdered bath brick. Apply with a dry, clean nail brush. Brush the soiled spots briskly until the marks disappear.

Simple Science for Everybody

GRASSHOPPER PLAGUES

THE old Bible story of the locust plague which tormented the Pharoah who persecuted the Children of Israel is a tale born of the bitter experience of tropic folk.

For any boy or girl in the tropics knows what a locust plague means.

Almost any bright hot day the distant sky may suddenly be darkened by a cloud of grasshoppers. The cloud settles down upon the earth, every now and then, quite as if it were thick black dust, instead of millions of smoky bodies and staunch silver wings. Then suddenly it is up again, all the grasshoppers rising in one accord, as if they had been commanded to fly by locust officers. As the great cloud comes nearer, one can hear the whirr of a million wings.

This hungry locust army eats everything that is green, wherever it lands. But in their turn, the native peoples in the tropical countries where these particular locusts swarm the hot air, relish nothing more than a good substantial meal of fried or roadsted grasshoppers. And every cloud of locusts has in its wake a dozen brown-legged lads out to collect them in bags. The bag fills in no time, if one is in the thick of a cloud. Then comes the feast—wings, legs, heads, all are cooked in an iron pan under a bamboo hut.

Still, all in all, the grasshoppers have the better of it. For though many dozens of Filipinos can eat some thousands of locusts, the millions of grasshoppers in a single flying squadron can do much more damage to the fields and crops than the stoutest appetites of human beings can compensate for.

Just as they fly so thickly together that they truly darken the sun, and just as they alight together, and eat together, they remain together to mate, and they lay their eggs together. Consequently the clouds of new grasshoppers hatch together, and are off once more, to ravage crops and wing shadows across the tropic horizons. The few thousands trapped in burlap bags are scarcely missed.

These particular locusts are much like all others, in the way that they develop and look, excepting that they are a litle longer than our own ordinary grasshoppers, and have strong wings for long flights.

Furthermore, they have the great advantage of having learned that in union there is strength.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

The Misanthrope

HE always has a dismal tale to offer any listening ear; earth is, he vows, a shadowed vale and very drear. The men about him shrink away, affrighted, when they hear him speak; the bravest heart at such dismay grows faint and weak. Yet foolish is his grim delight in giving forth this sombre song. However much he thinks he's right—he's wrong. For while he croaks the robin sings each morn his merry roundelay, and with the flutter of bright wings drives care away. The misanthrope is no man's friend, but steals away peace, joy and cheer, his hate makes life seem, in the end, a thing of fear. Men, heeding him, would reach the brink of woe, the bars to Paradise; we pity him, and yet we think he knows—he lies!

Good Habits

Teach the youngster the importance of cleaning the unsightly basin after washing that pair of dirty hands. A cloth and cleanser is always at hand in our bathroom closet and the young son is taught to clean up. It saves much work and embarrassment for mother.

HOWLER THE WOLF

A reputation travels far;
Be careful, therefore, what you are.
—Old Mother Nature.

PETER RABBIT was not the only one interested in Mr. and Mrs. Wanderer the Evening Grosbeaks. The other feathered folk were very apt to gather around. Even Happy Jack Squirrel would sit where he could listen. So it was that when Wanderer good-naturedly began to tell Peter Rabbith about Howler the Wolf there were quite a number of listeners. They didn't appear to be listening. Goodness, no. They pretended to be eating. But they were all near enough to hear what was being said. Peter Rabbit had said that he wished Wanderer would tell him about Howler the Wolf.

"Howler," began Wanderer, "is big and gray."

"How big?" asked Peter.

"Bigger than Bowser the Hound," replied Wanderer, who had already learned Bowser's name.

"What does he look like?" Peter asked eagerly.

"Much like his cousin, Old Man Coyote, only ever so much bigger. You know, Old Man Coyote is really a Wolf—the Prairie Wolf—said Wanderer.

"Does he live in the Forest?" Peter asked.

"That depends," replied Wanderer. "Way up North he does. But out in the Far West he lives where there is very little forest. But wherever he lives, he is feared, for he is very fiece and very strong and very swift of foot, and he is very, very smart. Only the Bears and Flathorn the Moose and Puma the Panther are unafraid of Howler. Even Flathorns the Moose, when he is without his great antlers and snow is deep, has reason to fear Howler and his family, for Howler seldom hunts alone. Usually Howler and Mrs. Howler and their grown children hunt together."

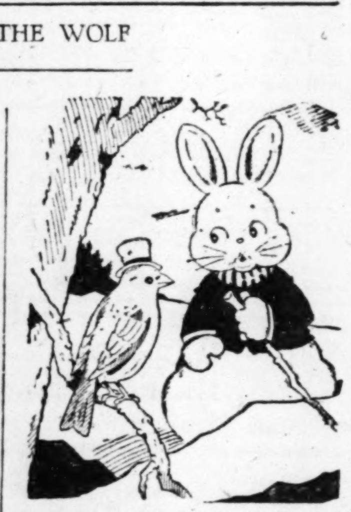
"I've heard about Flathorns the Moose, but I have never seen him," said Peter. "Is he really so very big? Is he so very much bigger than Lightfoot the Deer?"

"You know how big horses are don't you?" asked Wanderer.

Peter nodded. "Of course," said he. "Everybody knows how big horses are."

"Well," replied Wanderer, "Flathorns the Moose is as big as a good-size horse."

"And do you mean to tell me that such a big fellow as that is afraid of Howler the Wolf?" demanded Peter, looking as if he very much doubted it.



"Does he live in the Green Forest?" Peter asked.

"I certainly do," replied Wanderer. "He isn't afraid of Howler, excepting when he is without his great antlers. But you know he drops his antlers just as Lightfoot the Deer drops his. Then he has only his sharp-edged hoofs with which to defend himself. If the snow is deep, he cannot use these very well. Of course, Howler and his family have to be very ugly to attack Flathorns. But they often attack young Moose and Mrs. Flathorns."

"Certainly," replied Wanderer.

"Then Lightfoot the Deer would be afraid of Howler. He isn't much afraid of Old Man Coyote," said Peter.

"Indeed he would be," replied Wanderer. "Howler's favorite dinner is of deer meat."

"I don't see how that can be," replied Peter. "Lightfoot is so swift that he could run away."

"Not from Howler the Wolf," declared Wanderer. "I told you that Howler is very swift of foot and very cunning. When a pack of Wolves—and that means Howler and his family—once start out on the trail of a Deer, that Deer is fortunate, indeed, if he escapes."

Lingerie Touches

There must be a bit of cream or white somewhere about the smart spring frock. Handkerchief linen and organdie, tucked and frilled, chiffon and georgette bound or embroidered, and pique unadorned are types favored of Paris. Lace in cream or ecru shade is reserved for black and dark colored dresses and is used with moderation. If pleated, a small jabot or sleeve frill suffices, but more interesting is the plain use of the lace as though it were a fabric, in knotted ties at neck and wrist.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

"Hands on Hips—Eyes on Partner."

A FAINT, rather surprised smile hovered about Felicia's mouth. She had done it! She'd drunk as deeply from Billy Blair's silver flask as though she had liked its contents!

She leaned back against the boy's shoulder, pleasantly conscious of the admiration in his eyes, wondering what would happen next.

"Where have you been all my life, anyway?" Billy was demanding.

She laughed. He wasn't more than three years her junior, a lanky, restless boy with hazel eyes and wiry red hair.

"I've been under a spell," she told him, demurely. "In a castle with a moat and an enormous dragon!"

"Hum!" He eyed her thoughtfully. "Something tells me I'm not the one and original knight-in-armor!"

"I think I'd rather have a regiment," said Felicia. "One knight might get to be a bore."

He snorted. "Well—give me a commission in your army?"

"Maybe." She didn't know what they were talking about, and she doubted that he did, but in any case, it sounded rather naughty.

In the front seat, oblivious to the bright afternoon sunlight, Peg and Joe Clark were occupying about a quarter of the allotted space.

"'Nother nip?" Billy offered her the flask.

It didn't, reflected Felicia, taste so badly if one drank it quickly, and once consumed, there was a pleasant inner glow that made her regret the abstemious years when she had limited her drinking to the light wines of conventional dinner tables. The sun was hot and she felt languid and, for no particular reason, very carefree and happy.

"Gosh, it's warm." With a jerk, she pulled off the violet hat and the wind caught in her fair hair, blowing it in disorder about her flushed face.

Joe was drawing the car to the side of the road.

"Well, can you tie that?" Peg demanded, turning her head toward the two in the rumble-seat and pointing to a parked machine ahead. "There's Charley Bradley's car! Wonder who's with him?"

They got out and wandered off the road, toward the creek, arms linked. Felicia stumbled.

"Funny," she said, vaguely, "I feel sort of dizzy!"

"Funny!" Billy Blair echoed. "Baby! I think you're doing noble to be able to walk at all! You certainly didn't care what you did to that flask!"

"Why—F'licia!" Peg's eyes danced as she looked at her guest. "F'licia Brett, are you tight?"

"Of course I'm not! I just"—— Her arm, linked through Billy's, was heavy.

"And after the line you pulled on me last night!"

Felicia made one last attempt to appear dignified and gave it up. She grabbed Peg's arm.

"Honest, Peggy, I think I'd better sit down somewhere. I feel all right—I'm not—you know, tight—but my head's going around and my legs are sort of"——

Peg shouted with laughter. "She's not tight, but her head's spinning and her legs won't obey orders!" She looked at the older girl with an amused, experienced smile. "Listen, you boys run ahead and find Charley—F'licia and I want to talk or powder our noses or what-have-you. We'll turn up."

Felicia sat down on the ground and looked up with bewildered eyes.

"Really, Peg, I'm not in the least affected by that stuff. My mind's perfectly clear. But"——

Peg stood above her, shaking with laughter. "F'licia, I've offered a standing prize of a bunch of wrought-iron orchids to any girl who'll admit that liquor really affects her! It's just their feet or their tongue or their right ear! Me, I know when I'm drunk."

"It's funny," she said, dreamily.

"What's funny?"

"Oh, I don't know. I used to think it was awful for people to—you know, drink and everything. But somehow I've changed. I don't know why."

"Well, don't lose any sleep over that! So long as you have snapped out of it"—— Peg shrugged. "Take a good deep breath of this mountain air, lamb—you'll feel better before you feel worse."

Felicia breathed deeply, her head went back.

"I'm for everything that makes life gayer!" Peg stated. "Gosh, there's enough beefing and tearing of hair in this world. You've had your share of it with that old buzzard you married—come on and act your age, now, like a regular fellow."

"No girl ever gets anywhere by being a stick," said Peg. "And here in Reno, where there are about eight times as many women as men, you darn well have to have something! You should worry! Billy says you've got more attractiveness that Greta Garbo!"

Felicia blushed. That boy said that. How did he dare? Yet when they rejoined the boys, she watched him with a new interest.

Two other couples were with them, more students from the university, moving, like the animals in the Ark, in pairs.

"My girl friend here," Peg introduced Felicia, "has just emerged from the dark ages! She was married from the cradle to an old mummy who's kept her under lock and key. Why not have a drink to F'licia? It's as good an excuse as any!"

They sat on the ground, chattering and laughing and passing flasks from hand to hand.

"O—whisky is the life of man—" began Billy Blair, in a deep baritone.

"Oh—whisky! Johnny!" sang the others.

"I'll drink whisky when I can—"

"O—whisky for my Johnny!"

Felicia leaned dreamily back against Billy's arm, listening to their song. For a long time they sang, young voices rising lustily—The Oregon Trail, The Cowboy's Lament, The Ozark Trail, innumerable verses of the old favorite, Frankie and Johnny . . .

This younger generation was certainly frank and casual about its love-making. Joe was too lazy to move; his head on Peg's shoulder, he would turn his face from time to time, straining upward until his lips met hers. Peg kissed him mechanically, with no particular enthusiasm.

"We've got to get back," Peg said, abruptly, absently stroking Joe's rumpled hair. "F'licia, can you face the family?"

Felicia nodded. Face them! She was grown up, wasn't she? She could do what she liked! She felt strangely immature before these wise young people.

The red roadster devoured the road, spraying a cloud of dust back into the faces of Charley Bradley's party, trying unsuccessfully to pass them.

"Well, baby?" Billy Blair demanded. He had taken Felicia's chin between his thumb and forefinger and tilted her face up inquiringly.

"Well" said Felicia. Confused though she had been, she had skillfully avoided this boy's kiss. After all, one didn't go about indiscriminately making love—at least, she didn't!

His eyes held laughter; close to hers they were gay, daring.

"Well?" he repeated.

Felicia's lashes fluttered, then descended swiftly over her own eyes. . . . Old-fashioned, was she . . . Well. . . . He eliminated the two inches that separated their faces.

Decorative Party Plates

IT is quite customary to bring the serving plates into the decorative schemes. Paper plates are used and three graduated frills of crepe paper are pasted to the edge. These are usually in two or three tones of the decorative color. Sometimes these frills have crimped edges, then again they are artistically twisted and they make a pretty finish if put on full and very finely slashed.

Attach a double wire at each side of plate to form the handle; cover this with silver, gold or colored paper. Bend wire in any shape desired, for instance, for the St. Patrick's table it can be bent at top to form outline of shamrock and a shamrock cut out can be fitted into this "frame." Decorate handle with a cluster bow of gauze ribbon, into which tuck a few sprays of flowers. When it is finished place a lace paper doily on the plate.

Scalloped Oysters

One pint oysters, one-fourth cup melted butter, 1 cup breadcrumbs, two tablespoons chopped parsley, salt and pepper to taste. Pour melted butter over the crumbs and cover the bottom of casserole with them. Upon these place a layer of oysters and seasoning. Fill dish with alternate layers of crumbs and oysters and bake for 15 minutes in a hot oven.

Orange Bread

Four cups flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, one-half cup sugar, one-half cup butter, one and one-third cups milk, two eggs, one cup chopped candied orange peel. Sift dry ingredients and blend in butter. Add milk and well-beaten eggs and then the orange peel. Bake in a greased loaf pan in a slow oven from three-quarters to one hour.

Stuffed Potatoes

If there are many baked potatoes left over, utilize them by the following method: Cut potatoes in half and scoop out inside portions. Mash the potatoes with a good-sized lump of butter, salt, pepper and a little milk and beat until smooth. Then return to shells and just before dinner brush the tops with a beaten egg and brown in a quick oven.

I'LL TELL THE WORLD

By Neal O'Hara

DAVID HARUM

AS A horse trader, David Harum was the bon bons. Dave could swap a junk peddler's nag for Man o' War and get double trading stamps besides. Slicker than hair oil, smarter than a floor walker—that was Dave all over. He could tell a horse's birthday by looking at its teeth and the mileage by simply inspecting the hoofs. Just a wise gazimp.

David Harum was no great hand at bragging, but he did concede he was a nag connoisseur. He also gave himself credit for being adept at barter and exchange. His only regret was that he was unborn when Richard III offered his kingdom for a horse. Dave would have made him throw in Canada and Australia to make it an even deal.

The above is a brief outline of the Harum acumen. Smart, shrewd, honest, perhaps. Starters at Pimlico or the four horses of the Apocalypse were all the same to Dave. As a critic and savant he had more stuff than The World Almanac. He could tell horseflesh in a roast beef sandwich Then our hero started trading automobiles. That was Dave's first wholesale mistake.

A second-hand car is like an Eskimo pie. It looks good when you buy it. But you can't expect it to last for twenty-four hours. Now hoss trading is no golden rule enterprise, but even the most ponzied hoss exchange will not rip out the horse's spinal column and substitute a fish pole or put in false teeth to subtract old age.

Well, the motor car gyps took David like Socrates took that hemlock oil. Fast and completely. They shook him down to his second mortgage before Dave could say "Jack Robinson" or holler "Police!" The car they traded for Dave's limousine was sired by Baron Monchausen and damned by the neighbors.

It sucked wind and ate up gas. It limped, it groaned, it seemed to move. But it didn't. It changed colors like a chameleon and gears like a stone crusher. In the words of the municipal assessors, it was a good car for driving off a cliff.

We do not wish to dilate on David's bargain, but it was a car that only a junkman could love. The hood was guaranteed to jingle for the first 5000 miles. The steering wheel was hand-carved mahogany, and the windshield was genuine stained glass of the mid-Methuselah period. The upholsetery was leather and very smooth riding if it was only studded with rubber heels. The engine worked like a dream. A dream where you wake up and find you're where you were in the first place.

Don't think we're knocking that engine. It could knock for itself. And the rest of the outfit was in good shape if the moths let the tires alone. That is a short biography of Harum's used car. More could be said in praise of its parts, but the best part of all was that David could leave it and know it would be there when he got back. It was the world's first and only burglar-proof car.

Well, David Harum charged the used car episode to profit and experience. He was a game guy, but no three-flusher. In a statement to the press and his creditors, Dave acknowledged that as a second-hand motor fancier he made Simple Simon loow like a Rhodes scholar.

Harum went back to hoss trading in one leap and swapped a flat-footed nag for a draft horse that very afternoon. Proving that horses are a safe bet compared with second-hand cars.

NSWERS TO QUERIES

he Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. ersonal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be ven attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubt- sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

ADSTONE.—Apply to the ber of Commerce, Research rtment, for dealers in mate- hard to find. Dealer's names not published here. (2) As to to use to take off grease which have been "burned n an enamel range, it should n abrasive just rough enough ke off the spots without ching or chipping the enamel. would be a matter for some riment in any case. Such nel should be wiped off daily soap and water, which will y prevent any spots hardening it. You may ask the dealers chemical cleaners (see tele- ne directory under Chemical usiness) for a solvent which will ot damage enamel. They have a leaner for practically every known purpose, some having names which cannot be advertised here, and some known by their laboratory designation only.

MRS. K. M.—The first practical system of radio was devised by Guglielmo Marconi, who began experiments in 1895. Certain other names cannot be separated from the invention if due credit is given. Joseph Henry (1828), who discovered the oscillatory discharge of a condenser, the first thing bearing directly on modern radio; Lord Kelvin, who presented the essential parts of the circuit (1852); James Clerk Maxwell (1856), who published his theory that light consisted of electrical waves in the ether of space. The opinion grew that electromagnetic waves, differing only in length from light waves, could be generated. Heinrich Hertz (1887) demonstrated this. The practical solution was in the coherer. Marconi used the Branley coherer and the Hertz oscillator, adapting to that end the work of Popoff and others. The "wireless" was used for telegraphy before it was used so generally for entertainment and advertising.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

STUPID.—Your husband would not have to pay an inheritance tax unless the amount was more than the $20,000 exemption.

A DAILY READER.—Consult a lawyer and show him the policy of your uncle. Probably you can collect the insurance.

MR. VON Z.—You could adopt the young man although he is not in the United States. Consult a lawyer. The cost would probably be in the neighborhood of $50.

RUBICAM.—A contract made on Sunday is not void. Damages can be collected for breach of such a contract. See R. S. Mo. 1919, vol. 1, sections 3596-3597.

A.—Your friend is wrong. Signing a will before a notary public has no more effect than signing it before a street car conductor, grocer or baker.

A. B. C.—The widow would have a one-third interest for her life and the remainder would go to the child. The widow could be appointed administratrix. It would be necessary to take out administration on the estate.

X. Z.—You must give them at least one month's written notice to vacate, serving it not later than the day before the rent day, that is, if the rent was due the 1st you would have to give them notice not later than March 31, to vacate May 1.

DISINHERITED.—The grounds for a will contest in Texas are the usual ones; that the will was not properly signed, or witnessed, or was executed by the testator while he was of unsound mind, under undue influence, etc. In Texas a will contest suit must ordinarily be filed within four years after the will has been probated.

THIRTY YEARS READER.—The person would have to pay the State income tax. He would also have to make a Federal income tax return, but if the bonds are the kind on which the tax is paid at the source he would have no Federal income tax to pay. Get blank returns at the Collector's office, Custom House, Eighth and Olive streets (Federal) and at the Assessor's office, City Hall (State).

J. S.—If the deed was to the couple as joint tenants, then on her death, he would become the sole owner. Apparently this was not the case, however. If they were tenants in common, he would now have a three-fourths interest in the property and her relatives the other one-fourth. Further administration on her estate would be necessary. He should consult a lawyer.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

ZENN.—When the white part of the eyes has a yellowish cast as mentioned, the condition usually results from lack of proper action of the liver. If this is the cause you should be benefited by taking one or two of the five-grain tablets of carold and bile salts, three times daily after meals. In such a condition you should have systematic exercise out of doors, abstaining from tea, coffee, and alcoholics.

JOE.—All the indications you mention point to a lowered vitality. You should be benefited by some such reconstructive tonic as Neoferrum, in tablespoonful doses three times daily after meals. Taking outdoor exercise, avoiding constipation, and having freedom from overwork and worry, should materially help you. A hot bath at bedtime, and a cold shower in the morning, abstaining from tea or coffee at the evening meal, should enable you to rest better and get more sleep.

MRS. BEE.—The condition mentioned is of frequent occurrence with advancing years, but is not necessarily an indication of malignancy, or cancer. However, it is a condition which merits attention and you are advised to consult a competent physician specialist. What he found necessary to do might, or might not, include X-ray. If you wish a physician recommended, write again, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope.

C. R.—Cold, clammy hands are due to poor circulation. This might be caused by any form of general debility, of which nervousness is a frequent accompaniment. In such a case there might be heart, lung, kidney or liver trouble, which would be found out by examination by a physician.

Texas Portia Against Woman's Rights Bill

A DALLAS (Tex.) woman lawyer is opposing a proposed legislative bill designed to increase rights of married women in Texas.

So convincing were arguments of Mrs. Helen M. Viglini, former Assistant District Attorney, that the Dallas Bar Association adopted a resolution opposing the "50-50" bill. It would give women rights to contract debts without permission of their spouses.

"It would be a great day for house-to-house peddlers if the bill were passed," Mrs. Viglini said. "Women would buy radios and brushes and dictionaries and all manner of things they don't need. The bill would increase divorces."

A Recipe for Today

Frozen Fruit Salad

(To be packed in salt and ice.)

One cup diced, mashed bananas, ½ cup diced pineapple, ½ cup sliced peaches, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatin, 2 tablespoons cold water, ½ cup whipped cream, ½ cup stiff mayonnaise.

Soak the gelatine for five minutes in the cold water. Set over a pan of hot water to melt. Cool. Add all the rest of the ingredients. Pack in cans and cover tightly. Pack in three parts of chopped ice and one part of coarse salt. It will require four hours to freeze this salad. It may be repacked and kept frozen for several more hours if desired.

Unmold and cut in slices and serve on lettuce leaves.

This salad may be frozen in three hours in a tray in the mechanical refrigerator.

Any other fruit combinations may be used. Lemon juice adds flavor and gives tartness which is needed.

STOCK LIST IRREGULAR AT WEEK-END

RADIO IS CENTER OF WILD SPECULATION

Kennecott Copper Heavily Bought in Closing Deals, Reaching New High for Present Issue.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 9.—The stock market went througha series of convulsive price movements today as opposing speculative forces battled for control. Final quotations were irregular, with net declines numerically exceeding net gains, but with several issues in new high ground.

Radio Corporation stocks were again the centers of wild speculation. The old stock, which sold as low as 368 on Wednesday, rallied 19 overnight to a new high record at 464, broke to 451 on President Harbord's reiterated denial of merger rumors and then rebounded to 461. Kennecott Copper was heavily bought in the closing dealings, touching a new high record for the present issue at 99½.

Anaconda Copper, General Motors, United States Steel common, American Can, Packard Motors, New York Central and a number of other leading rails and industrials closed at net declines of fractions to 2½ points.

Despite the high money rates and repeated warnings against securities inflation, pools were aggressively at work in a fairly large assortment of specialties.

Statement by Harbord.

James G. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation, today reiterated his denial of reports that merger negotiations were pending or contemplated with the Western Union Telegraph Co.

"There are no negotiations, completed or pending, between the Western Union and the Radio Corporation of America looking toward a merger or consolidation of any kind," Mr. Harbord said. "Present relations are no closer than they have been during the last several years, and there is no prospect of their becoming more so. The statement in the annual report of the Radio Corporation of its preparing to enter the field of domestic telegraphy has no relation to the Western Union Telegraph Co. except in a competitive sense."

Establishment of a new low record for the year by the Canadian dollar revived hopes of further gold imports from that country but this was offset by the possibility of a further increase in the Bank of England discount rate because the recent decline in sterling threatened a further drain on Great Britain's limited gold supply.

Opening Is Irregular.

Radio (old stock) opened 4 points higher at 449, a new high record, and the first sale of the new stock was a block of 25,000 shares at 91½, up 2½, and a new high. A. M. Byers jumped 5⅛ points on the first sale, and Electric Auto Lite, U. S. Rubber and Johns-Manville opened 1 to 2 points higher. Chile Copper showed an initial loss of 2 points.

Retention of the 4½ per cent rediscount rate by the San Francisco Federal Reserve Bank was seized upon as a bull factor by speculators for the advance on the theory that no change in the 5 per cent rediscount rate of the New York Federal Reserve Bank was likely until the rates of the three central institutions still below that level are brought into line.

Early selling quickly dried up when pool operations were resumed on a broad scale in several of the leading industrials and specialties. National Cash Register opened with a block of 10,000 shares at 136½, up 5⅝, as against a low of 122⅛ yesterday.

Closing stock prices with other tables and market news will be found on pages 12 and 13.
